DISTRICT FUNDS TO ESCAPE CUT ORDERED IN BILL

Amendment Not Intended to Include Local Sum, Bratton Explains.

REPORT ON MEASURE POSSIBLE TOMORROW

Officials, Feeling Total Already Slashed to Bone, Are Pleased.

District appropriations alone will be exempt from the 5 per cent cut every Federal department and independent establishment may be ordered to make in 1934 expenditures.

This construction was placed on the order last night by no less an authority than Senator Bratton (Democrat), New Mexico, who drafted the amendment to the Treasury-Postoffice bill, prescribing the cuts.

"I did not have the District in mind when I wrote the amendment, and I do not think it could be reached under the present language," he said.

Cites Small Percentage.

"As only a very small percentage of District appropriations comes out of the Federal Treasury, and the rest is supplied from local revenues, I see no reason why the District should be affected."

The amendment as drafted calls only "on the head of each executive department and independent establishment" to make the fund slashes.

This interpretation was received with some satisfaction by District officials, who feel local appropriations were cut to the bone by the Budget Bureau in the $39,743,270 District bill submitted to Congress. It may serve to prevent widespread dismissals in the District government.

Report Is Nearing.

Slashed more than $2,000,000 under this amount by the House District appropriations subcommittee, the measure is ready to be reported to the House tomorrow or Monday, depending on the return of House Appropriations Chairman Joseph W. Byrns, who has been out of the city.

If the Bratton slash were applied it would mean a cut of nearly $2,000,000 more.

Government of Holland Loses Confidence Vote

The Hague, Holland, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—A crisis was threatened tonight after the government was defeated on a question of confidence in the Lower Chamber of the States General (Parliament). The vote was 51 to 38. Queen Wilhelmina, who is in Switzerland, was informed of the situation.

The Lower House of the Parliament lately has been considering the naval mutiny in the East Indies.

Air Bomb Subdues Mutinous Cruiser

Rebel Malays Leave Dutch Ship as Missle Starts Fire.

Batavia (Friday), Feb. 10 (A.P.).—The Dutch cruiser, De Zeven Provincien, which has been running loose in the Indian Ocean for five days with a mutinous native crew in control, surrendered today to the Dutch East Indies fleet.

A bomb by one of the Dutch naval flying boats struck the Zeven. A fire broke out and the crew began leaving the runaway cruiser in lifeboats.

The native Malays, who were holding eight of their Dutch officers prisoners, gave up immediately after the ship was hit by the bomb.

Jail Guest

Law Enforcement League Head Held in Rockville for 25 Minutes.

MRS. JESSE W. NICHOLSON.

Mrs. Jesse W. Nicholson, of Chevy Chase, Md., president of the National Women's Democratic Law Enforcement League, was released from the Rockville, Md., jail yesterday through habeas corpus proceedings after she had passed 25 minutes in its commodious women's quarters. Mrs. Nicholson was released on her personal bond to appear February 23 in Montgomery County Circuit Court, when the question of whether her incarceration was the result of a properly prepared warrant will be argued.

Mrs. Nicholson was placed in the jail when she refused to pay a fine of $10 imposed by Judge Donald A. DeLashmutt in county police court after he found her guilty of having violated the county zoning and building

TWO MEN ARE HELD IN LINDBERGH PLOT

Arrested in Roanoke After Trying to Cash $17,000 "Planted" Check.

Roanoke, Va., Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Two youths were arrested here today and charged with attempting to extort $50,000 from Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, with kidnaping of his second son as the alternative to payment.

Joe Bryant, 19, and Norman Harvey, 26, both residents of Roanoke, were taken into custody shortly after they attempted to cash a $17,000 check which police operatives, masking as representatives of the famous flier, had planted in a stump.

The second threat to Col. Lindbergh was made public less than twelve months from the night his first born was spirited away from his crib and murdered in the Sourland Hills of New Jersey.

Bryant and Hervey denied knowledge of threatening letters sent to Col. Lindbergh and asserted they did not correspond with Robert C. Johnson, chief of the Roanoke police identification bureau, who registered at a local hotel and posed as a representative of Col. Lindbergh, depositing letters in a hollow stump.

Mrs. Harvey, apprehended by police when Harvey sought to get into an automobile she occupied, was held tonight for questioning.

Police at first refused to divulge the texts of the letters sent to Col. Lindbergh, threatening his second baby, but later made public two of them. They said the letters were turned over to New Jersey police by the

As House Group Fails to Pass Strict Bill to Jail Agitators.

(Associated Press.)

A legislative outgrowth of the famous Fish Communist investigation—a bill designed to put behind bars all persons who talk or write overthrow of the Government—was killed for the session yesterday by the House Judiciary Committee.

The vote on a motion to approve the measure was 9 to 9, but a tie suffices to defeat such a move.

The ballot came after a turbulent committee session. The raised voices of the members penetrated even the carefully guarded doors of the committee chamber.

The bill originally was introduced by the late Representative Eslick (Democrat), Tennessee, who participated in the Communist investigation headed by Representative Fish (Republican), New York. This session the measure was pressed by his successor in the House, his widow.

The measure would have extended to both State and Federal Governments and included persons affiliated "with any society, group or assemby of persons formed to teach or advocate the overthrow or overturn of the Government." The maximum penalties were 10 years, $10,000, or both.

WORKERS TELL OF PAY LOSS AT PUBLIC HEARING

Witnesses Testify They Had Only Hazy Idea About Investment.

BRIDE TAKES CASE UNDER ADVISEMENT

States That He Will Make Recommendation to D. C. Commissioners.

Sensational disclosures on how at least one building contractor is said to have been evading the Bacon-Davis prevailing wage act were made yesterday afternoon at a public hearing conducted by Corporation Counsel William W. Bride.

The hearing, which was called because complaints filed by ten bricklayers employed by the Industrial Engineer & Construction Co., of Washington, brought testimony that all mechanics employed on the Kenilworth School job have been paid only 70 cents an hour in cash, although the prevailing wage scale for them ranges from $1.37½ for carpenters to $1.75 for bricklayers.

Force Is Charged.

The bricklayers, who are no longer employed by the contractor, all testified they were forced to sign an agreement to invest more than half of their wages in a Southeast realty venture before obtaining work. Though in most of the cases no official of the contracting firm told them so, they said that other workmen on the job told them the investment was necessary to employment.

At the conclusion of the hearing Mr. Bride took the case under advisement and said he would make a recommendation to the District Commissioners. Meanwhile, District Auditor D. J. Donovan has stopped payments to the contractor.

On a $54,698 contract the District has paid $16,397, but the contractor has earned an additional $12,151 on the actual work done. A voucher for $8,592 which was to have been paid to the contractor this week has been held up pending a ruling on the complaints.

Before several hundred workmen and building trades representatives, who crowded the board room of the District Building, Mr. Bride, assisted by William H. Wahly and Auditor Donovan, investigated the operations of the Industrial Engineering & Construction Co.

Workmen Testify.

Several of the complaining workmen testified they had taken jobs with the full understanding they were being paid but 70 cents an hour and that the remainder of the wages was being applied to some realty venture about which they had only the haziest idea. With them it was a question of taking the 70 cents an hour or being out of work, they said.

Officials of the contracting concern produced a score of employes who testified that though they were receiving less than half pay, they were satisfied and believed they would derive some benefits from their investments. Several admitted that 70 cents an

Col. Zack Miller's Wife Puts Herself on Charity

Ponca City, Okla., Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Mrs. Margaret Blevins-Miller, estranged wife of Col. Zack Miller, of the 101 Ranch, appealed today for aid at the local relief agency, declaring she was "without food, clothing or adequate shelter."

She said her plight resulted from the action of Gov. W. H. Murray in pardoning Col. Miller a few months ago from a contempt of court sentence for failure to pay alimony, and that Col. Miller had evicted her from the ranch mansion.

$1,000,000 Chicago Fire Aided by Gale

Armour Grain Elevator Is Ablaze With Chance of Salvage Poor.

Chicago, Feb. 9 (U.P.).—Battling in a subzero gale that blew over Goose Island tonight, several hundred firemen fought a spectacular blaze in the Armour & Co.'s seven-story elevator in which was stored grain valued at $1,000,000.

The fire followed a terrific explosion in the huge storage structure. Many alarm brought 300 firemen to the scene. The wind blew embers half a mile, endangering other buildings.

Fire commissioners said they feared neither the elevator nor its grain could be saved.

MRS. BEATRICE WHOLEAN.

HENDERSON WILL'S VALIDITY IS UPHELD

Two Testify at 20-Minute Hearings; Previous Pact Is Reported.

In a 20-minute hearing in District Supreme Court yesterday, the validity of the last will of Mrs. Mary F. Henderson, for many years the social arbiter of fashionable Washington, was upheld, thus ending a contest over the $5,000,000 estate over which she presided at the time of her death two years ago.

Only two witnesses went before a jury in the court of Justice Jennings Bailey. They were Theodore D. Peyser and Mrs. Maurice Berg, both of whom testified to their signatures on the Henderson will.

No other witnesses were presented, and Justice Bailey directed the jury to return a verdict upholding the validity of the will. It was reported that an out-of-court settlement had been made and that the various litigants had amicably agreed on the split-up of the estate.

The will directs that Jesse S. Shima, Mrs. Henderson's Japanese confidante, be given $10,000 outright, with a $100,000 trust fund, the entire income from which is to go to him. C. K. Hasegawa, described as an employe, is given $10,000. Dr. Paul Bartsch, Smithsonian scientist, is to receive $5,000, and a like amount goes to Representative Ernest W. Gibson, of Vermont. The last cash bequest provided $3,000 for William Carter, an employe.

The remainder of the estate is to be given Henry N. and Frances Arnold, of New York, a nephew and niece of Mrs. Henderson. Also, the

POLICE THWART THEFT AT BANK PLANNED TODAY

GUN PLAY FOLLOWED ALLEGED THRASHING

Victim's Wife Shot at Washingtonian Said to Be Agent of Gang.

A plot to rob a branch bank today in downtown Washington has been thwarted as an indirect result of the shooting of Leslie "Shorty" Williams, of Washington, while he is said to have been attempting to administer a beating to a man in Charlotte, N. C., Monday night.

Williams was shot when he allegedly assaulted Lee Buchman at the request of "higher ups" in the gambling racket in the Capital who have been attempting to get a foothold on the lottery and racing game in the North Carolina city.

Chief of Detectives Frank S. W. Burke admitted that information had reached him that such plans for the bank holdup had seemed to be in progress. "The bank will be heavily guarded today," Inspector Burke said early today, "just in case an attempt is made to go through with the plan."

News Dispatch Tip.

The investigation of the bank-robbery plot resulted from an Associated Press dispatch from Charlotte which told of the shooting of Williams, when he tried to "scare" Buchman, at the request of the "higher ups" in Washington.

That there may be arrests in the Capital in connection with the attempt to rob the bank and possibly with reference to the assault on Buchman was indicated last night by Inspector Burke. There is evidence that Williams was intimately associ-

2 Blackmailers Get Reformatory Term

Brothers Threatened Capital Woman With "Expose" of Brother.

New York, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—William and Michael Mitrovich, 19 and 17, respectively, were sentenced to a year and a day in the Federal Reformatory at Chillicothe, Ohio, today on a charge of attempted blackmail.

The youths, whose home is in Akron, Ohio, were accused of sending a threatening letter, in which they demanded $200, to Mrs. O. H. P. Johnson, of Washington, D. C.

The indictment, to which they pleaded guilty, charged them with threatening to publish a news story concerning the difficulties of Mrs. Johnson's brother, who was described as working for the promoters of technocracy on an emergency unemployment relief basis.

FISCAL DICTATORSHIP GRANT TO ROOSEVELT PROPOSED BY GARNER

1933 Wheat Crop Off, Russia Faces Famine

Collections From Resisting Peasants Seen Hardly Enough to Satisfy Army and Industrial Groups; Expansion Halts.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

An alarming breakdown in Russia's wheat-seeding plans for the 1933 crop has again raised the specter of widespread famine throughout the Soviet domain, according to official reports to Federal agencies here during the past week.

Not only will Russia be compelled to withdraw completely from the wheat export trade, but it is questionable whether the central government's grain collections from the resisting peasants will be sufficient to maintain even the sharply reduced industrial groups in the cities after the army rations, the first draft on the national food budget, are extracted from the anticipated crops.

Reports of distressing food shortages have been coming from Russia for several weeks, but heretofore they have lacked confirmation in Government circles here.

As officially reported to the Department of Agriculture, the Russian wheat acreage sown in the fall of 1932 showed a decrease of slightly more than 13 per cent under the previous year, and total wheat exports during the current crop year have aggregated only 16,256,000 bushels since last July, against 68,912,000 for the corresponding period of the previous crop year.

The Agricultural Department's report says that "the poor harvests of the last two years are not entirely the result of unfavorable weather," and points out that within the last month the system of forced grain collections in the provinces has been abandoned entirely in favor of a tax scheme which will leave all surlus wheat production in the hands of the individual peasants. The department's resume of the Russian wheat situation, as published in the current issue of Foreign Crops and Mar-

SENATE BALK ALSO IS SEEN

'Mussolini' Is Cry on Drastic Economy Scheme.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

Carte blanche authority for Franklin D. Roosevelt to slash expenditures at will, invading even the protected fields of Federal and veterans' compensation, is proposed by House and Senate Democratic leaders.

Amounting to a sort of fiscal dictatorship, the authorization would far surpass reorganization powers already proposed in the Treasury-Postoffice bill. It will take the form of an amendment to that measure, when the bill comes back from conference.

An effort yesterday to designate Treasury-Postoffice conferees was blocked in the House on objection of Republican Floor Leader Snell, who has his own ideas about giving Mr. Roosevelt "the powers of a Mussolini."

Will Force Roll Call.

Undaunted, the Democratic-controlled House Rules Committee immediately reported out a rule that will force a roll call vote on sending the Treasury-Postoffice bill to conference tomorrow.

Meantime, Speaker Garner, working in harmony with the best lawyers and parliamentarians in the House, virtually has decided on the language of the proposed amendment. He talked it over with Senator James F. Byrnes (Democrat), South Carolina, author of the reorganization amendment and one of Mr. Roosevelt's Senate henchmen, before leaving the Capitol last night.

As a matter of procedure, the amendment finally will have to be drafted by House and Senate conferees, then brought back to the floors of both chambers and agreed to, independent of the Treasury-Postoffice conference report.

Would Abolish Departments.

Under the proposed authorization, Mr. Roosevelt could not only cut down on jobs and pay of Federal workers, but slash veterans' pensions, abolish departments, reduce ocean and air mail subsidies, curtail public construction projects and impound all moneys saved.

"It is autocratic power," said House Democratic Floor Leader Rainey, "but conditions are unprecedented and require drastic remedies."

Representative Snell denounced the plan at once as "an admission by

TWO CLOSED BANKS BEGIN TO PAY TODAY

Departmental and Brightwood Plan 30 and 20 Per Cent Dividends.

Distribution of approximately $375,000 in approved claims to approximately 7,444 approved claimants will be begun today by the Bank of Brightwood, 5913 Georgia avenue northwest, and Departmental Bank, 1726 Pennsylvania avenue northwest, two savings institutions which suspended operations last July and are in receivers' hands.

This action follows approval by the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency yesterday of payments of a 30 per cent dividend to creditors of Departmental Bank and one of 20 per cent to those of the Bank of Brightwood. The Departmental Bank will pay approved claims aggregating $220,000 to 3,444 claimants, while the unofficially reported figure of the Bank of Brightwood is $155,000, to be paid to approximately 4,000 depositors.

The Office of the Comptroller of the Currency's announcement stated that checks will be available for delivery at the respective banks and that holders of claims against these suspended banks must present their receivers' certificates at the time of delivery of the dividend checks.

Departmental Bank will remain open today and tomorrow from 8:30 a. m. to 9 p. m. to assist Federal employes in the collection of their checks and will resume the regular banking hours of 8:30 a. m. until 5 p. m. thereafter. The Bank of Brightwood will be open for the distribution today, tomorrow and Monday be-

Judge Van Devanter came to Marion yesterday to be with her.

3 Bandits Subdue Armed Guard at Main Station In Sacramento.

Sacramento, Calif., Feb. 9 (A.P.).—More than $325,000 in currency and Bank of America bonds were stolen by three bandits in a daring holdup at the main postoffice, Seventh and K streets, here tonight.

The bandits surprised and disarmed a truck driver and an armed guard on the loading platform in the rear of the postoffice building, grabbed a double-locked sack of outgoing registered mail and vanished in the downtown traffic.

Although an exact check of the contents of the mail sack had not been completed, postal inspectors said they were certain that at least $125,000 in currency, largely in small bills, and approximately $200,000 in Bank of America bonds were stolen.

3-YEAR COLD MARK IS DUE HERE TODAY

Mercury Will Tumble to 11, Weather Man Asserts; Lives Lost in Wave.

Those afflicted with high sensitivity to cold had better dig out the hot-water bottles and firebricks, because the Weather Man confidently predicts a temperature of 11 degrees above zero for early today—which will be a three-year record for the Capital.

Then if anyone thinks it is cold, just let him poke his head out of the window and imagine he is in Trask, Mont., where 64 degrees below zero was unofficially reported. Or if that's too far away, let him mentally transplant himself to Chicago, where 18 degrees below was reached yesterday.

Getting back to the Capital—the lowest temperature recorded yesterday was 14.1 degrees above zero—which isn't regarded as cold by anyone who was born in the vicinity of the polar regions. Incidentally, the coldest day this season was December 16, when 14 was registered.

But after the late morning hours the Weather Bureau man assures us, the weather today will be fair and not so cold. Then tomorrow it will be cloudy, with a snowfall or rain scheduled for tomorrow night.

The unemployed in the Capital were flocking to refuge last night in all the mission houses, and preparations were being made to house record throngs. "No one will be left out in the cold," said the Central Union Mission heads, as they prepared to lay mattresses on the floor for the overflow.

Mollison Lands at Natal, Brazil, on English Good-Will Hop.

Natal, Brazil, Feb. 9 (U.P.).—Capt. James A. Mollison, efficient little Scottish flier, on a good-will flight from England, set his tiny Moth plane down here at 4:30 p. m., local time (2:30 p. m., E. S. T.), today at the end of a swift flight over the South Atlantic from Africa.

Mollison made the flight from Dakar, on the west coast of Africa, in 17 hours and 40 minutes. He covered the 1,900 miles over the windswept south Atlantic without incident, averaging better than 100 miles an hour.

Capt. Mollison and his small plane—a sturdy craft, so tiny it is sometimes called the "flying gas tank"—have twice crossed the Atlantic alone. He flew across the north Atlantic to the United States last year.

Mollison was greeted by an enthusiastic crowd at Natal. He planned to refuel, inspect his machine and continue to Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, as part of his good-will tour around South America, prior to proceeding northward to New York.

He hopes to fly back over the North Atlantic to England.

America to Support League Veto of Manchukuo Status

U. S. Ready to Withhold Funds From Japan if Necessary.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

The United States is prepared to go along with the League of Nations in its policy of nonrecognition of the Japanese puppet State of Manchukuo and is even disposed to extend this policy to the realm of financial noncooperation also, it became known in authoritative circles yesterday. The present negotiations of the committee of Nineteen in Geneva are being watched with close interest by officials of the Department of State here for the first sign of Japanese concession to the practically unanimous opposition of the league to Japanese policy in Manchuria.

There has been no change in the policy of this Government toward the Manchurian situation. The principles of the Hoover doctrine still constitute the basis of present Far Eastern line of action and the corroborative statement of President-elect Roosevelt effectively dissipated the doubts about the continuity of this policy.

The Department of State had not received any definite reports from the consul general, Prentiss Bailey Gilbert, who acts as liaison officer between the State Department and the Geneva Asks Japanese to Clarify Attitude on Giving Up Rule.

Geneva, Switzerland, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Again displaying determination to refuse recognition of the fruits of Japan's Manchurian policy, the League of Nations assembly committee considering this problem today answered the latest Japanese plea for conciliatory action by requesting a clearer definition of the Japanese attitude toward discontinuance of the present regime in Manchukuo.

In some authoritative quarters this move was regarded as turning the tables on Japan by boldly assuming the offensive and placing Tokyo's spokesmen on the defensive.

The committee's discussion disclosed, certain of its members said afterward, a unanimous purpose to insist upon China's right to exercise sovereignty in Manchuria.

Specifically, Yosuke Matsuoka, the Japanese representative, was asked by the committee to clarify the Japanese attitude toward point 7 in chapter 9 of the Lytton commission report, which reads:

"The government of Manchuria should be modified in such a way as to secure, consistently with the sovereignity and administrative integrity of China, a large measure of autonomy designed to meet the local

STOCK MART PROBE CALLED 'WHITEWASH'

Norbeck Replies He Welcomes Investigation of His Committee.

(Associated Press.)

A charge that a Senate investigating committee is "whitewashing" the stock exchange and a demand that the committee itself be investigated last night left its chairman, Norbeck, of South Dakota, belligerently welcoming such an inquiry.

David A. Olson, a committee investigator, resigned in protest at what he claimed were tactics designed in general to uphold Wall street practices as unblameworthy.

The call for an investigation of the committee's conduct of the inquiry came from a group named the "New York Stock Exchange Reform Committee," an organization not connected with the stock exchange and little known in the financial district.

Norbeck Skeptical.

Said Norbeck:

"I don't know whether those who claim to be reformers are actually reformers, but I am suspicious because so many things have been thrown in our way lately.

"But if these people seek a fuller investigation, I certainly want to help them. I will welcome an investigation and if they are earnestly seeking to get a fuller investigation of the stock exchange, I want to cooperate with them in every way I can."

Of Olson, his comment was:

"Mr. Olson was formerly employed by a large tax-accounting firm and it was originally hoped that his services would be very useful to the committee.

Olson Inaccurate.

"These hopes have not been realized. Mr. Olson's tendency to exaggerate and his inaccuracy as to facts have largely offset the value of his other services."

He added that Olson had "demanded large fees from the committee."

The Reform Committee, in its report, said the senatorial committee "has completely collapsed and is, and has been, doing nothing more than practicing a deception upon the people of the United States."

It contended attorneys skilled in financial matters were not employed and that when they learned something they were dismissed, that important information was being withheld by the Senate committee, and that all the Senate committee wanted was "to satisfy the public with a few headlines and with as much lethargy as the public will tolerate."

Claim 100,000 Members.

On its letterhead, the Reform Committee claimed a membership of "over 100,000" and listed as State chairmen of the organization persons prominent in 26 States, including: Dwight H. Blackwood, of Arkansas; William W. Herring, of Texas; W. P. Tudor, of Virginia; R. R. Hornor, of West Virginia; George A. Rupp, of Pennsylvania; Frank McGinty, of New Jersey; O. A. Cargill, of Oklahoma; Daniel H. Taichert, of New Mexico; W. H. McMasters, of Massachusetts, and Rafael C. Brewster, of New York, among others.

Although advices from New York were that virtually nothing was known in the financial district of the stock exchange reform committee and the Manhattan Board of Commerce, some of the Senate committee members said they had heard of them.

NOTED WOMAN DRY JAILED 25 MINUTES

laws. An alternative of ten days in jail had been given by the judge.

Judge DeLashmutt refused to impose a fine of $11 so she might appeal the case to the county Circuit Court. Cases in the Police Court can not be appealed unless the fine is more than $10. He imposed a fine of $10 or 10 days for violation of the zoning ordinances and suspended this sentence and then imposed a fine of $10 or ten days for violation of the building laws. The case was tried Saturday, but the judge reserved his decision until yesterday.

Mrs. Nicholson was placed in the county jail at 2:50 p. m. A writ of habeas corpus was filed at once by Barnard Welsh, both of Rockville, with Judge Charles W. Woodward, of the Circuit Court, who ordered her immediate production in court. She was taken from jail downstairs to the Circuit Court room at 3:15 p. m.

As she entered the courtroom, Mrs. Nicholson was laughing and chatting with her attorneys and court attaches. She seemed in good humor. Mrs. Nicholson said she did not intend to pay the fine since she considered the whole affair "persecution." Her attorneys said she had sued out the writ in order that she could test the constitutionality of the laws. They contended that the warrant was defective in that it did not make clear just what she was charged with.

State's Attorney Stedman Prescott claimed the warrant was a perfect warrant and that it specifically charged her with violation of section 25, chapter 486, of the acts of Maryland as amended. Judge Woodward postponed arguments to February 28 to make a study of the laws involved and of the warrant.

Mrs. Nicholson was arrested last month on warrants sworn out by Building Inspector J. Fred Imirie, of Bethesda, which alleged that she had remodeled the store of a gasoline filling station owned by her on the Rockville Pike at Montrose, Md., without obtaining proper permits.

Mrs. Nicholson claimed that she had been issued a permit which she had been told was good for a year, although it stated that it was good for only 30 days. She said that estate owners along the Rockville pike were attempting to force her from lawful use of her property, which had been in commercial use before the zoning laws were enacted. The property is zoned commercial by prior use, but the zoning permits no further encroachment on the residential nature of the section than was in existence at the time the laws were enacted.

The militant dry leader, who is in the thick of battle not for the first time, has asked permanent rezoning as commercial and her petition is pending before the Montgomery County Commissioners, but has been disapproved by the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission. The Bethesda Chamber of Commerce and the Rockville Pike Citizens Association are opposing the rezoning.

Blonde, Brunette or Titian Runs Alike in Photo Test

All Types Studied in The Washington Post's $10,500 Competition for 51 Most Charming Girls to Be Honored at World's Fair.

Whether a blonde, a brunette or a titian-hair beauty will be named the world's most charming girl is one of the interesting questions that will be solved by the search now being conducted by The Washington Post to find 51 charming girls to open the Century of Progress International Exposition at Chicago on June 1. Although the group is being selected upon the basis of photgraphs submitted to the Queen Contest Editor, The Washington Post, the transmittal coupon, which also is printed on this page today, provides for the identification of blondes, brunettes and redheads, and should be pasted to the back of each picture entered in the contest. If desired, however, the same information may be written upon any other sheet of paper.

During the progress of the contest, which will continue up to and including Saturday, April 15, pictures of ten entrants will be published in each Sunday Post rotogravure section, and each girl represented will be paid $5 for the use of her photograph. Such publication of pictures, however, will have positively no bearing upon the judgment of all photographs for the selection of the 51 girls who will go to Chicago as the guests of The Washington Post and the Chicago Tribune.

This entire group will spend a period of two weeks at Chicago's most luxurious hotels and, under proper chaperonage, will enjoy an elaborate program of sight-seeing and entertainment. Each will be provided with beautiful apparel designed by leading modistes, and every expense, including that of transportation from any part of the world and return, will be borne by The Washington Post and the Chicago Tribune.

In addition, one of the group will be chosen as queen of the Century of Progress International Exposition and will receive a cash award of $5,000. Two other girls will be selected as first and second ladies-in-waiting and will receive cash awards of $3,000 and $2,000, respectively. Since the exposition is international in its scope, the entire group will receive international recognition and acclaim as most representative of a century of feminine progress.

Every unmarried girl, regardless of her place of residence, is eligible to compete and there is no entrance fee or other expense involved at any time. She may submit her photograph personally or it may be entered for her by any friend or relative. Only professionals, such as stage girls and artists' models and employes of The Washington Post and members of their families, are barred from the competition.

The only requirements, other than that the subject of the picture be unmarried or a widow, are that the photograph entered be at least 6 by 8 inches in size and made within the past 12 months.

WORKERS TESTIFY AT PUBLIC HEARING ON WAGE CHARGES

hour "isn't so bad with conditions as they are."

An amazing disclosure was that though but approximately $900 had been paid by the contracting company for seven lots on Thirty-second place, between W street and Alabama avenue southeast, their employes had subscribed $12,150 and paid in actually $6,100 on the so-called subdivision. This fund was sometimes used to provide the pay roll, contracting officials admitted.

Plan Was Postponed.

While previous plans had called for the construction of two houses on the lots, this plan had been postponed indefinitely. Moreover, the combined value placed on the proposed houses and lots by the contractor was but $8,900, or almost $4,000 under the subscriptions.

L. E. Palmer, president of the contracting company, admitted there is a ravine that reaches a depth of approximately 75 feet on the lots, but he said that it was his plan to erect Italian bungalows with sunken gardens on the land. Tops of the houses, he said, would be below the level of the street.

All mechanics have been paid but 70 cents an hour in cash under the arrangement, and the remainder of the pay due them under the Bacon-Davis act went directly to the Industrial Engineering & Construction Co. for deposit in a separate fund.

Carried Stamped Marking.

Workmen testified that before January 19, when the corporation counsel's inquiry started, all their checks carried stamped marking that they were for deposit to the credit of the Industrial Engineering & Construction Co. only. The mechanics were handed the checks for indorsement, one man testified, but they were required to return them before receiving envelopes with their cash wages.

J. P. Theofield, secretary-treasurer of the company, denied that the checks had been so stamped before they were returned to him, but he was unable to produce any checks dated prior to January 19 that were not so marked.

Although contracting officials denied exercising any coercion, several bricklayers charged that F. S. Dennis, superintendent, and even Mr. Palmer himself had told them that they must sign an agreement to invest in the proposed subdivision or they couldn't obtain work.

Agreed to Invest $300.

E. L. Glisson charged that he had agreed to invest but $300, though when he looked at his agreement yesterday he discovered to his surprise that the subscription was $500. He quoted Mr. Theofield as stating that the certificates of investment were worthless.

None of the bricklayers had in his possession certificates for the full amount of his investments.

One, Joe Nye had a certificate for but $9 though his envelopes showed he had paid back $74.70 in checks to the contractor.

R. R. Kallam, of 505 Second street northwest, said he had paid back $83.45 in checks and knew nothing of the existence of certificates

Filled in Later.

J. D. Williams and L. P. Thomas, bricklayers, testified they were told by Superintendent Dennis that they must sign an agreement to invest in the subdivision or else they wouldn't be employed.

Several workmen testified that Mr. Palmer read "only the high spots" of the agreement to them and that they affixed their signatures before the amounts of their subscriptions had been filled in the documents.

C. E. Springer, of 505 Second street northwest, said Mr. Palmer in addressing his group had said that he "wanted a bunch of men who wouldn't squawk."

One bricklayer charged, in explaining why 10 cents an hour was applied to "a sinking fund," that this was "hush money" to keep employes from demanding the other portion of their due wages. This 10 cents was taken from the $1.05 an hour that was withheld and was paid, he said, when the workmen quit.

Reply by Palmer.

In answer to a question put by Mr. Bride, Mr. Palmer stated that so far as he was concerned any workmen who wish to cash in on his investment could do so at any time and that he believed their certificates were worth more than the amounts they specified.

"Of course," he added, "I am speaking only for myself, and any such refund would have to be passed upon by all the stockholders and certificate holders."

J. D. Williams declared, however, that Mr. Theofield had told him to "forget about the real estate," and that the certificates were practically worthless.

Howard T. Colvin, of the conciliation division of the Labor Department, was called upon by counsel for the contracting firm to state that payment of wages in checks was in conformance with the Bacon-Davis act.

Mr. Colvin said, however, that the checks "must have no strings on them," and he added that the President's order relating to the prevailing wage law was "designed to prevent just what has been described here this afternoon."

FISCAL DICTATORSHIP URGED BY GARNER FOR ROOSEVELT

House Democrats of their incompetence to cope with budget problems." Not even the war-time power of President Wilson was so vast, he pointed out.

"Mussolini Dictatorship."

"What they are doing amounts to setting up Mussolini dictatorship in America," he said. "I, for one, am not willing that Congress should relinquish what is clearly legislative authority."

Ironically enough, opposition may develop in the Senate among some of the very Democrats who have been most active in seeking economy. It is known Senator Bratton (Democrat), New Mexico, author of the amendment to cut departmental appropriations 5 per cent, will oppose giving Mr. Roosevelt power to arbitrarily cut veterans' compensation, and he does not believe conferees have authority to go into the matter.

Senate Republican leaders expressed doubt the Senate will agree to the plan.

Use of Great Authority.

Among those sitting in conference on the plan with Speaker Garner yesterday were Representative Buchannan (Democrat), Texas; Representative Woodrum (Democrat), Virginia, and Senator Byrnes.

Said Speaker Garner:

"The power has got to be given the Executive. Congress hasn't either the ingenuity or disposition to do it. And I say here I have positive knowledge that the incoming President will so use these powers as to balance the budget."

It was said authoritatively Mr. Roosevelt is intensely pleased with the reorganization authority voted him by the Senate, and is not only willing to assume the tremendous burden of responsibility involved in the Garner proposal, but asked for it.

"Should Be Broadened."

Speaker Garner stated frankly he doesn't think the reorganization authorization goes far enough—but should be broadened to extend to fields not contemplated by the Senate.

The Senate proposal would allow Mr. Roosevelt to merge, transfer or abolish any Federal agencies with the exception of executive departments. Only by joint resolution could his Executive orders be stopped, and he could veto this. It would take a two-thirds vote to override the veto within 60 days of the date the orders were issued.

This power was considered unprecedented for a President, but it is a mere drop in the bucket to the authority that would be wielded under the Garner proposal.

Record as Governor.

"What has Mr. Roosevelt ever done to show he is capable of wielding such power?" asked Representative Snell. "His record as Governor of New York does not support it. He left the State in a worse financial hole than Al Smith, who had something of a reputation as a spender."

Senator Tydings (Democrat), Maryland, author of the drastic resolution to confine expenditures to revenues, that was withdrawn after a Democratic conference, said he favors the Garner plan.

He will not introduce the substitute resolution drafted by the Democrats, promising to bring expenditures within revenues "at the earliest possible time." He said the Bratton 5 per cent cut amendment accomplished everything the Senate Democrats hoped to do, until legislation can be passed curtailing veterans' costs.

"Virtual Wreckage" Predicted.

In a statement last night, William Conley, of Los Angeles, national commander of the Disabled American Veterans, said the Bratton amendment, requiring 5 per cent reductions in all departmental appropriations, will result in the "virtual wreckage" of the Veterans' Administration.

He said most of the cost of the administration is chargeable to direct or indirect relief, under statutory provisions, but all savings under the bill would have to be made in personnel, officers and other activities, representing about 10 per cent of the total.

SENATE DROPS LIBEL MOVE IN BARRY CASE

Committee Votes Down Suit After Dismissing Its Sergeant at Arms.

The Judiciary Committee yesterday filed the famous Barry case away in the Senate records, apparently satisfied that David S. Barry, its veteran sergeant at arms, had been adequately punished by dismissal for his published statement that there were some bribe takers and many demagogues in the Senate and House.

Action of the committee was taken at an executive meeting called by Senator George R. Norris (Republican), of Nebraska, chairman, to consider the resolution of Senator Thomas J. Walsh (Democrat), of Montana, which proposed that the Senate should seek court action for libel against Mr. Barry and the owners and editors of The New Outlook, the magazine in which the offending article was published.

The committee first agreed that Mr. Barry had been punished enough and then agreed that no action should be sought against the magazine publishers or editors.

The Walsh resolution was voted down by a vote of 11 to 5. Those who voted against it included six Republicans and five Democrats. Those who recorded themselves in favor of pushing the libel action included two Republicans and three Democrats.

Senator William E. Borah (Republican), of Idaho, one of those who voted against the resolution, said afterward that he was willing to take care of himself in any battle of words. Other Republicans who voted against the resolution were Senators Robinson, of Indiana; Hastings, Delaware; Schall, Minnesota; Austin, Vermont, and Hebert, Rhode Island. Democrats voting against were Senators Black, Utah; Dill, Washington; King, Utah; Bratton, New Mexico; Black, Alabama, and Stephens, Mississippi.

Senators Norris and Schuyler, Colorado, were the two Republicans who voted for it, and the three Democrats were Senators Walsh, Montana; Ashurst, Arizona, and Neely, West Virginia.

Senate Votes Sum For G. P. O. Staff

Would Reimburse Persons Denied Their Earned Leave.

Employes of the Government Printing Office, who were denied earned leave last year, under provisions of the old economy act, would be reimbursed $945,411 under a resolution passed by the Senate yesterday and sent to the House.

Introduced by Senator Shipstead (Farmer Labor), Minnesota, the resolution would make available for the purpose part of the money being returned to the Treasury as a result of the operation of the furlough-pay cut in the Government Printing Office.

The leave laws of the office are different from other Federal establishments. Employes are required to earn their leave in one year, and are not permitted to take it until the succeeding year. Several thousand employes have earned leave they have never received.

TWO HELD AFTER ATTEMPT AT LINDBERGH EXTORTION

colonel, and were referred to Roanoke police by Federal authorities.

Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, of New Jersey police, who turned the letters over to postal authorities, said he felt the case here had no connection with the kidnaping and subsequent slaying of the first Lindbergh child.

The letters will be turned over to United States authorities with whom the local officials have been working, C. E. Gentry, who was assistant United States district attorney here when the letters were received early in December, requested the Roanoke police investigation.

Chief Johnson, using the name of "John J. Jones," carried on correspondence with the writers of the extortion notes and arranged to deposit extortion money in the stump. They reached an agreement to reduce the amount to $25,000 and still later to $17,000. No deposit, however, was made.

Watched Stump 144 Hours.

For 144 hours one or the other of two Roanoke officers watched the stump to catch the extortionists, but without success. They stopped watching and deposited more letters which disappeared. The final arrangements were to leave a check for $17,000 and to leave it to the extortionist to take it to the bank and have it cashed.

Today Bryant walked into the bank with the check. The teller, W. M. Skelton, warned by police, stepped back to the vault and telephoned police. He then began tying up some receipts about the size of the "big bills" that were requested.

Officers in plain clothes were awaiting when he returned to the window—the city hall was only a block away. The package was pushed through.

"Thank you," said Bryant as he walked away, smiling.

Chief Johnson and Special Officer Howard Ferguson followed Bryant from the bank. A block away he was joined by Harvey and when Harvey saw Johnson he began to run. The two went in different directions but were soon captured, Harvey as he sought to get into a car occupied by his wife, Ethel, and a small child.

Specimens of Bryant's handwriting were taken at police headquarters and Johson, who is a hand-writing expert, expressed the opinion that it was that of the man who wrote the extortion letters.

Bryant said he had lived here for two months and had been unemployed two years. He said his father's name was Henry Bryant and that he was a city employe. One of his two brothers, he added, is in school, while the other works on a milk wagon.

Police late today were grilling the three prisoners. No charge will be placed against Mrs. Harvey, but she will be held for questioning pending a conference with Federal authorities.

(Associated Press.)

Federal authorities awaited word last night from Roanoke, Va., police on the nature of charges against two men, held for the Government, for demanding money from Col. Charles A. Lindbergh under threat of kidnaping his second son.

The two agencies interested in the case are the Postoffice Inspection Service and the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice, but neither had any information on the matter nor had they complaints of threatening letters to Col. Lindbergh.

The Postal Inspection Service only would enter the case in the event the mails had been used by the arrested men with a view to extorting money. The interest of the Bureau of Investigation was more remote. For it to take a hand an actual kidnaping must occur and the kidnaped person be taken across a State line and ransom demanded.

The bureau's fingerprint service might be called upon, however, to ascertain any possible criminal records involved.

Campbell Named Chief Of Food and Drug Work

Walter G. Campbell, director of regulatory work in the United States Department of Agriculture, has resigned to become chief of the Food and Drug Administration in the Department. The position of director of regulatory work is to be abolished, thus completing the reorganization of the department's law enforcement work started in 1923.

Under Mr. Campbell's direction, Secretary Hyde points out, the regulatory work has been grouped under responsible heads of major units and is now so organized that a director of regulatory work is no longer necessary. Mr. Campbell was one of the first inspectors appointed under the food and drug act, passed in 1906.

OFFICE SUITE HERE IS TAKEN BY CURTIS

Shoreham Building to House Others Prominent in G. O. P. Affairs.

Events and announcements of the last few days denominate the Shoreham Building, Fifteenth and H streets northwest, as a place where major political maneuvers will transpire in the four years that follow Inauguration Day.

Vice President Curtis has taken a suite of offices there and will occupy them after March 4. Coupled with announcement that he will head the National Republican League, which aims to educate the Nation back to the G. O. P. fold, many believe that significant moves will emanate therefrom.

Almost simultaneously has come word that Lawrence Richey, confidential secretary to President Hoover, has engaged four rooms in the Shoreham Building. Unconfirmed report is that the rumored Hoover boom for renomination in 1936 will be handled from these offices.

Numerous other high Republicans are already housed in the Shoreham structure or will be after March 4. Also a strong movement is under way to transfer the offices of the Republican national committee to the same building.

Among other G. O. P. stalwarts under the Shoreham roof are Bascom Slemp, Ray Benjamin, strong Hoover adherent; Mabel Walker Willebrandt, former Assistant Attorney General, and William J. Donovan, another former Assistant Attorney General.

Nugent Dodds, present Assistant Attorney General, and his assistant, Neil Burkinshaw, have engaged rooms for later.

Secretary of War Hurley, who has a strong holding in the ownership of the Shoreham Building, has set aside a spacious suite of fifteen rooms. Here he and his yet unannounced law partner will do business after March 4.

Liquor Control Study Ordered by John D., Jr.

New York, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Liquor control laws throughout the world are to be studied on behalf of John D. Rockefeller, jr., "on the assumption that the eighteenth amendment will be ultimately repealed, and that the problem of control of the liquor traffic will be one upon which the fullest accurate information will be of value."

$104,000,000 FARM BUDGET BILL PASSED

Senate Takes Quick Action and Plans Measure to Stop Foreclosures.

(Associated Press.)

Quick passage of the third of the big appropriation bills, carrying $104,000,000 for expenses of the Agriculture Department, brightened prospects last night for Senate consideration of some form of farm relief before the session is over.

Plans were laid for an early report to the Senate on an emergency measure intended to help stave off farm mortgage foreclosures for two years.

A special meeting of the Banking Committee was planned by Chairman Norbeck (Republican), South Dakota, for Saturday to take up the Hull farm mortgage bill, which members of a subcommittee whipped into shape yesterday. The latter group planned to add some finishing touches to it today.

Disposing of the Agriculture Department supply bill in a single day, the Senate duplicated the feat it performed with the Interior Department bill Wednesday and made a big hole in the legislative pile-up which has jeopardized the prospects of much important legislation, including farm relief.

About the only change made in the Agriculture bill on the Senate floor was to add $4,000,000 for part payment of the cost of 350,000 bales of Farm Board cotton, turned over to the Red Cross and other organizations for relief purposes.

The bill is only about one-third as big as that for last year because of abandonment of much of the highway building program. It now goes back to the House for action on the Senate amendments.

These included the addition of $89,085 for agricultural exhibits at fairs, $24,468 for experiments in areas abandoned because of corn borer infestation, and $53,287 for development of corn borer control machinery.

House Votes Cash For Injured Child

Would Pay $1,000, Doctor's Bills of Girl Hit by Landing Plane.

(Associated Press.)

The House voted yesterday to pay $1,000 damages and medical fees for the injury a 3-year-old girl suffered in an airplane landing mishap near the Hampton Roads Naval Air Station.

The measure was introduced by Representative Lankford of Norfolk.

The child, Martha Edwards, was struck by a Navy plane or debris from a building it hit in landing when the pilot was forced by atmospheric conditions to come in across the short way of the East Camp Field, a part of the naval station.

Congressional Medal Voted to R. P. Hobson

(Associated Press.)

A Congressional Medal of Honor for Richmond Pearson Hobson, of Los Angeles, former naval officer who distinguished himself in the Spanish-American War, was voted by Congress yesterday and the measure sent to the White House.

The Senate passed a House bill authorizing the decoration. Hobson risked his life on June 3, 1898, by entering the fortified harbor of Santiago, Cuba, and sinking the partially dismantled collier Merrimac in the channel under persistent fire from the Spanish fleet and fortifications on shore.

HENDERSON WILL'S VALIDITY UPHELD

will recalled that Mrs. Beatrice Henderson Wholean, adopted daughter of Mrs. Henderson's son, was given an irrevocable trust fund of $365,000. She obtained nothing more from the estate.

George E. Edelin, named as executor, is directed to sell all the real estate owned by Mrs. Henderson and place the funds thus acquired in the estate. The Battle Creek Sanitarium, a principal beneficiary under a previous will, was cut off in the last will.

The assessed value of Mrs. Henderson's estate, including the famous Henderson Castle on Sixteenth street, is approximately $1,600,000.

When the case came before Justice Bailey, four questions were submitted to the jury: (1) Was the will duly executed; (2) Was Mrs. Henderson of sound mind at the time? (3) Was any part of the will procured by undue influence, and, if so, what part? (4) Was the will as a whole executed while Mrs. Henderson was subject to undue influence?

Justice Bailey instructed the jury to find in the negative on the last two questions when counsel for Mrs. Wholean and Dr. John F. Kellogg, of Battle Creek College, announced they had no testimony to offer.

7 BODIES RECOVERED AFTER HOTEL BURNS

Dead Firemen Are Found by Comrades in Omaha; 22 Are Injured.

Omaha, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—The bodies of the last of seven firemen who perished when flames swept the historic Millard Hotel were recovered tonight after their comrades had chopped their way through heaps of charred and ice-sheathed debris.

Four bodies—those of Capt. Thomas Shandy, Pipemen John G. Brandt and John Cogan, and Fireman Franklin Kane—were dug out from beneath tons of bricks of a wall which had collapsed. The body of Inspector Clarence Urban was found beneath frozen debris in the basement and the bodies of Capt. Edward Schmidt and Fireman Louis Morocco were recovered during the day.

As ice-coated firemen worked through the day in subzero temperature to reach the bodies, an electric sign still proclaimed, ironically, the legend:

"Fire proof."

None of the 22 injured, except Fire Capt. George Cogan, was in serious condition tonight. Cogan, brother of Fire Chief Patrick Cogan, but not related to John Cogan, was rescued from the basement after he had been pinned under debris for six hours. Physicians were hopeful he would survive, but feared possible pneumnia.

County Attorney Henry Beal tonight announced plans for an inquest after he had conferred at length with City Fire Commissioner Roy Towl, W. S. Rathbun, of Chicago, and W. L. Gage, of Kansas City, representatives of the National Board of Underwriters, and Deputy State Fire Warden Horace Davis.

Those taking part in the conference were unable to determine the cause of the blaze or the place where it started.

"There was an explosion," Beal said. He would not elaborate on the statement, but said he would institute action immediately if any evidence of a criminal act were uncovered.

London Wonders if Lindsay Has Yet Answered Roosevelt

Debt Silence in Parliament Leads to London Speculation Regarding Present Status of Negotiations; MacDonald Frowns on Gold Standard.

London, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Speculation was aroused in parliamentary circles tonight as to whether Sir Ronald Lindsay, Ambassador to the United States, who is conferring with the government on the debts issue, has communicated again with President-elect Roosevelt.

He remained at the foreign office with Sir John Simon, the foreign secretary, most of the day, while the five members of the cabinet principally concerned with the debts issue continued their deliberations without him. It was made known that Sir Ronald will meet the cabinet committee again tomorrow.

A golden silence on the debts prevailed in the House of Commons today, but Prime Minister MacDonald took occasion to make it clear that for the present Great Britain is not prepared to return to the gold standard, thus probably eliminating any American hope of raising this question effectively during the conference at Washington next month.

A questioner in the House asked the prime minister to clarify a recent statement at Geneva by Sir Frederick Leith-Ross, British member of the preparatory commission for the world economic conference, who outlined certain conditions under which Great Britain would return to gold.

"I should like to make it clear," said Mr. MacDonald, "that these statements do not indicate that Great Britain is prepared to return to the gold standard under the present circumstances.

"On the contrary, they make it plain, in the words used by the preparatory committee of experts at Geneva, that there are a number of economic as well as financial conditions which must be fulfilled before restoration of the international gold standard can be practical possibility."

(Associated Press.)

Regret was expressed by some members of the Senate Finance Committee yesterday over Premier Ramsey MacDonald's statement that a number of economic and financial conditions stand in the way of the British returning to the gold standard at this time.

Senator Walsh (Democrat), Massachusetts, was the most outspoken in his comment on the premier's statement.

"It is to be regretted," he said, "that Premier MacDonald continues to assert that there is little prospect for Great Britain returning to the gold standard.

"In my opinion the political relationship between Great Britain and this country would be promoted and greatly strengthened by an agreement between the two nations as to stabilization of the currencies."

MacDonald's statement was termed by Chairman Somers of the House Coinage Committee "the practical view for Great Britain to take."

"There is some question in my mind if Great Britain will ever go to gold again," Somers said, "if we revalue silver through any action of ours she will be forced to a metal standard—gold or silver."

LEAGUE ASKS JAPAN TO CLARIFY ATTITUDE

conditions and special characteristics of the three (Manchurian) provinces. The new civil regime must be so constituted and conducted as to satisfy the essential requirements of good government."

A drafting subcommittee worked this evening to complete the text of recommendations for solution of the Manchurian dispute for presentation tomorrow to the conciliation committee of 19.

Among the questions still to be decided by the conciliation committe is that as to what procedure should be followed after its report on the work of the past several months is adopted.

Tokyo (Friday), Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Japan's reply to a League of Nations committee's question about Japan's attitude toward discontinuance of the present Manchukuo regime will be emphatically in the negative, a governmental spokesman said today.

U. S. TO BACK LEAGUE BAN ON MANCHUKUO

League of Nations. One of the reasons is the verbal nature of the discussions that have been taking place.

The force of noncooperation as a deterrent to Japanese ambition in Manchukuo is much greater than at first appears. The present financial situation of Japan is steadily getting worse. The gold reserve of the Central Bank in Japan has decreased from ¥408,000,000,000 in September, 1931, to ¥214,000,000,000 in 1932. At the same time the Japanese yen has dropped off even faster. The par value is 49.85 cents but the first of January, 1932, it had gone down to 35.98 cents, and last month it was down to 20.72 cents.

To open up the great provinces of Manchukuo will require not only the "open door," upon which the United States and Great Britain insist, but also the free movement of foreign capital. The great banking firms of the United States and Great Britain, who have heretofore participated in the flotation of all Japanese loans abroad, will close down on such loans if the noncooperation policy is adopted, and whatever credit is pumped into the veins of the new state will have to come from the depreciated yen.

The desire of Great Britain to work with the United States in settling the Manchurian question, as a "quid pro quo" for favorable consideration of British debt revision has been spurred by the sudden desire of France to cooperate with the American Far East policy. Each country is looking forward to the debt negotiations which will open soon after President Roosevelt comes into office. With France, however, the apparition of Hitler on the political horizon in Germany has given a new value to the "sanctity of treaties" which was temporarily obscured during certain French and Japanese negotiations in Geneva and in the Far East last year.

Giant Mermoz Airplane Starts Brazilian Flight

Buenos Aires (Friday), Feb. 10 (U. P.).—Jean Mermoz, noted French air mail pilot, and six companions hopped off in their giant monoplane Arc en Ciel at 12:40 a. m. today for a nonstop flight to Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, the first lap in a return flight to Europe across the south Atlantic.

"We are out to break all records," Mermoz said before they left. The westward trip from Europe to South America, via Africa, was made several weeks ago by Mermoz.

Salvation Army to Sell Seats.

The Salvation Army will sell box seats at the windows of its building at 102 Constitution avenue to inaugural parade spectators, it was announced yesterday. The organization hopes to raise $250 for relief purposes through the seat sales.

CHINESE TAKE TWO VILLAGES IN ATTACK

Nanking Approves Draft Law as Two Nations Gird for Major War.

Tokyo, Feb. 9 (U.P.).—Chinese soldiers from Jehol Province struck swiftly at Japanese and Manchukuoan forces today, a few hours after the Japanese war office had announced a military campaign to drive the Chinese inside the Great Wall.

The Chinese captured two villages in Mukden Province, after crossing the border from Jehol Province. Volunteer forces defending the villages were defeated. Chinese were in control before Japanese troops dispatched from Suichung could reach the scene of action.

Fire broke out in both villages during the fighting, dispatches to Japanese authorities said. Japanese sources claimed many residents of the towns fled to nearby hills for safety.

Japanese troopers sent from Suichung were instructed to recapture the villages.

The attackers, it was claimed here, were detachments of the north China army of Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang.

At Shanhaikwan, Chinese city located at the great wall, an Italian soldier was reported killed by cavalrymen belonging to Chang's army. He was mistaken for a Japanese, reports said.

Today's incidents were regarded as forerunners of a decisive Japanese campaign to clear Jehol Province of Chinese troops. Governments of both China and Japan apparently were preparing for a major encounter.

At Nanking, the Chinese central political council approved the general principles of a universal conscription law.

Tokyo frankly declared a campaign would soon start to "police" Jehol.

Japan, acting on an assumption that Jehol belongs to the "independent state" of Manchukuo, instead of to China, intended to exterminate or oust every Chinese soldier in the province.

Tokyo (Friday), Feb. 10 (U.P.).—The government, according to a spokesman, was unofficially informed today that Eugene Chen, Chinese Nationalist leader, recently discussed a proposal for a Chinese-Soviet defensive-offensive alliance with the Russian Embassy in Paris.

3 Sailors Hurt in Blast On Scouting Fleet Boat

Vallejo, Calif., Feb. 9 (A.P.).—An explosion aboard the U. S. S. Vestal, destroyer tender attached to the Atlantic Scouting Fleet, caused injuries to three men here today. Officers said a tank of acetylene gas exploded and the men were struck by flying pieces of steel.

The injured were S. S. Candill, a shipfitter who enlisted from Clifford, Ky.; W. W. Hock, seaman, of New York City, and G. S. Garret, seaman, 517 Henry street, Portsmouth, Va.

Hoover to Start Cruise March 4

He Will Sail for Canal Zone on Tropical Fishing Trip.

(Associated Press.)

Early on the night of March 4, a private citizen once more, Herbert Hoover will board the liner Pennsylvania at New York for a cruise to the Panama Canal Zone and another fishing expedition in tropical waters. Immediately after shaking hands with Franklin D. Roosevelt on the steps of the Capitol and extending his congratulations to the newly inaugurated President, Mr. Hoover will make a hurried dash for New York.

With a party, including his son, Allen, and probably three of his Cabinet officers, Mr. Hoover plans to do his fishing from the yacht Kenkora II, owned by Kenneth Smith. At present the line-up for the fishing party is Mr. Hoover, Allen, Secretaries Mills, Wilbur and Hyde and Lawrence Richey, one of the President's secretaries.

Under this plan Mrs. Hoover will accompany the group to New York by train and then travel across the continent to her Palo Alto, Calif., home in order to have it ready for extended occupancy by the time Mr. Hoover arrives.

2 Local Measures Advance in Senate

Bill to Liberalize Laws on Insurance Reported Favorably.

Two local measures, one liberalizing the laws governing industrial insurance in the District, and another providing for licensing of professional engineers in the District, were favorably reported yesterday by the Senate District Committee.

Extensive hearings were held on a bill providing for the quarterly payment of taxes on homes occupied by the owners, but action was delayed on recommendation of Senator Austin (Republican), Vermont.

Mary Anderson, director of the Women's Bureau of the Department of Labor, testified for the measure. Numerous officials of the Home Owners' Protective Enterprise, which drafted the bill, spoke for the project, including William F. Goddard, chairman, and George Otis Smith, chairman of the Federal Power Commission.

Greek Legation Staff Will Attend Doxology

Special doxology services in honor of Charalambos Simopoulos, minister from Greece, will be held at 10 o'clock this morning at the Greek Orthodox Church of Saints Constantine and Helen at Sixth and C streets southwest.

The Rt. Rev. Athanagoras, the Archbishop of North and South America, will conduct the services, which will be attended by the minister and the staff of the Greek Legation.

Woman Hurt by Auto.

Miss Mildred Belle Shorb, 33, 113 C street northeast, suffered a possible fracture of the right knee late yesterday when struck by an automobile on Pennsylvania avenue between Second and Third streets southeast. She was treated at Providence Hospital. Police said the car was driven by Archie Bowie, 25, 1526 Isherwood street northeast.

Treasury Rumor Belittled by Glass

Emphatically Denies He Has Made Up His Mind on Proffer.

(Associated Press.)

Recurring reports and rumors that he would or would not take the Treasury portfolio in the Roosevelt Cabinet were emphatically belittled by Senator Glass yesterday as "mere conjecture."

While the House Alabama delegation was proposing to President-elect Roosevelt that he appoint Representative Henry B. Steagall of that State to the post, the 75-year-old Virginia senator said he had not decided "one way or the other" on the proffered appointment.

Senators Black and Bankhead would not commit themselves at this time on the Steagall boom, which was started recently by Huey Long, of Louisiana, after his filibuster against the Glass banking reform bill. Steagall is chairman of the House Banking Committee, a post once held by Glass.

TWO CLOSED BANKS BEGIN TO PAY TODAY

tween the hours of 8:30 a. m. and 5 p. m.

No information was forthcoming at the office of the Comptroller of the Currency with regard to North Capitol Savings Bank, 1 H street northwest, and International Exchange Bank, Fifth and H streets northwest, two savings institutions closed by order of that office at the same time last July.

The four institutions closed their doors for general banking business July 14, 1932. The call for statements of condition issued by the office of the Comptroller of Currency as at close of business June 30, 1932, revealed they had deposits in excess of $3,535,000 before their suspension, distributed as follows: Bank of Brightwood, $831,350.37; Departmental Bank, $1,136,624.67; International Exchange Bank, $507,308.58; North Capitol Savings Bank, $1,060,592.40.

Wall St. High

Wife of Exchange Member, Suing, Values His Love at $4,000,000.

New York, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Suits aggregating $4,000,000, one alleging alienation of affections of her husband, Allison L. S. Stern, member of the New York Stock Exchange, and another charging "criminal conversation," have been filed by Mrs. Allison L. S. Stern against Mrs. Alfred Nathan, jr.

The suits were revealed when Mrs. Nathan filed a motion asking that depositions be taken from Oliver Rice, of St. Louis, Mo., described as a friend of Mrs. Stern.

The motion asserted Rice was a "hostile witness" and refused to testify for Mrs. Nathan or to answer questions designed to show Mrs. Nathan's conduct with Stern had been above reproach. She asked that the courtesy of the Missouri courts be invoked to take the deposition.

In her answer Mrs. Nathan also denied all charges made by Mrs. Stern, which, among others, alleged that Mrs. Nathan accompanied Stern to a dance at an inn in Monmouth County, N. J., in 1926 and, after inducing him to drink heavily, caused him to publicly conduct himself indecorously.

Shouse Says Rum Aim Far From Won

Declares Overconfidence Is Now Greatest Danger in Repeal Fight.

(Associated Press.)

A warning to members of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment that "the fight is far from won," was given yesterday by Jouett Shouse, its president, in urging against relaxation of the efforts to bring repeal.

Making his annual report, Shouse said "the most definite progress toward repeal since adoption of the eighteenth amendment" had been made during the past year.

"The objective in mind during the past year was to translate into direct political action the sentiment toward repeal that had been aroused in every section of the Nation," he said. "The results of the November elections were highly gratifying and were conclusive as an indication of the attitude of the American people toward the question of repeal. The principal danger that now confronts us is the possibility of overconfidence."

BANK HOLDUP TODAY BALKED BY SHOOTING

ated with some prominent Washington gamblers.

Dispatches from Charlotte, N. C., said Detective Frank O. Brass, of the Washington Detective Bureau, has been in Charlotte since Wednesday delving into the Washington angle of the case.

Brass left here by plane on Wednesday with Augusta, Ga., as his destination. He was headed there, dispatches said, because of the arrest in that city of three Washington men with whom Williams had been in correspondence. The storm of Wednesday forced the plane down at Columbia, S. C., and Brass doubled back to Charlotte.

Apart from the gambling and lottery angles, Charlotte authorities said, there is evidence that narcotics may have been indirectly related to the shooting Monday night. They said the gaming angle seemed to be the immediate cause of the assault.

Williams was shot by the wife of Buchman when he allegedly tried to assault Buchman with a gun and blackjack. The alleged attack was made Monday night at the Buchman home in Charlotte. Mrs. Buchman fired at the alleged assailant and struck him in the temple.

Neither Charlotte nor Washington police would say what evidence had been uncovered to indicate that an attempt would be made to rob the Washington bank. It was sufficiently tangible, however, they said, to necessitate precautions.

Charlotte Quiz Results.

Detective Sergt. Brass, an Associated Press dispatch said, interviewed Williams yesterday. The latter is recovering from the bullet wound inflicted by Mrs. Buchman.

The detective sergeant was informed of the arrest in Augusta, Ga., of Fred A. Schellingham and Richard Young, of Washington, and C. I. Hyams, of Charleston, S. C., who were said to have been in correspondence with Williams. Brass said Schellingham and Young were known in the Capital only as gamblers.

After questioning yesterday, Williams changed his story that he had been sent to Charlotte to "scare" Buchman by "higher-ups" in Washington, and said he had been imported by Charlotte gamblers to frighten Buchman.

VIOLENCE BREWING IN CULT MATRICIDE

Kentuckians Pin "Sacrifice" Killing of Woman, 72, on Son; 7 Others Held.

Inez, Ky., Feb. 9 (U.P.).—Popular indignation over the killing of a 72-year-old woman during a frenzied outburst of religious emotionalism led tonight to threats of violence against eight members of a cult, called "The Unknown Tongues," imprisoned in the Martin County Jail.

While the eight relatives of Mrs. Lucinda Mills, who was beaten and stamped to death as a sacrifice, continued to wail their gibberish in their cells, residents of this small, isolated town gathered near the jail and talked of violence.

The fact that the aged woman's body was being prepared for burning on a crude altar when authorities interrupted the cult members, aroused many citizens. Reports also were circulated that two babies had been endangered during the weird ceremonies in a log house at Tomahawk, 8 miles from Inez.

A coroner's jury decided today that John H. Mills, son of Mrs. Mills, actually did the killing. Seven others, named as accomplices, include his brother, Fred; Blaine McGinnis, son-in-law of the victim; Mrs. Mollie McGinnis and Ora Mills, daughters of the aged woman; Mrs. John Mills, daughter-in-law; Ballard Mills, a grandson, and Tom Boyd, son-in-law.

"The Unknown Tongues," according to information elicited from neighbors of the Mills family, believed they could change water into wine and that they could turn grapevines into living snakes. They held that God has furnished them with the gift of "revealed language" in addition to miraculous powers.

Their eerie wailing yesterday led authorities to batter down the door of their house, to find them preparing to burn the body of Mrs. Mills. Inez officers were told of the shrieks and incantations by a neighbor.

3 YEARS' COLD MARK IS DUE HERE TODAY

yesterday afternoon, while the Volunteers of America gave food to 300 homeless men; and the Salvation Army fed 225 at the evening meal. All reported that the cold was fast driving in the men to the shelter of the missions.

Cold weather was reported in all sections of Virginia with subzero recordings in some sections, while in Maryland snow was being whipped about the mountains. There were zero recordings in the western part of the State.

(Associated Press.)

The sharpest winter weather in years numbed the Atlantic Coast last night and held its unrelenting grip on the West and the midlands.

Subzero cold brought death to more than threescore west of the Appalachians and decorated the seaboard with icicles from Maine to Florida. The "worst storm in years" threatened to isolate Buffalo, N. Y.

Records for frigidity throughout the Midwest fell before the temperatures which trailed the snowstorm of Wednesday. In the Northwest Rockies all-time records fell as a new cold wave descended from Canada.

Severe cold was predicted through today for most of the North Central States.

Fruit valleys in California and Florida alike felt the freeze. Crops suffered untold damage in both areas.

Death totals mounted hourly. Since the start of the blizzard, 18 died of cold and allied causes in Chicago alone; in Ohio, 9; Missouri, 6; Oklahoma, 5; Wisconsin and Michigan, 3 each; Texas, Oregon and Louisiana, 2 each, and Minnesota, Kansas, Nebraska, Montana, Kentucky, Pennsylvania, North Carolina and New Jersey, 1 each.

Crab Fishermen Rescued.

Two Delaware crab fishermen were rescued by Coast Guards off New Jersey after they had bailed out their skiff all Wednesday night. They were almost unconscious from exposure.

A wave from St. Georges Bay was reported to have deluged the village of Sandy Point in Newfoundland as the storm passed out to sea.

Boston did not expect to keep its 10 above temperature long. Richmond, Va., anticipated a drop from 31 to 5 or 10 degrees above zero. Negroes froze to death in Camden, N. J., North Alabama and Rayville, La.

Ohio, Michigan, Kentucky and Pennsylvania had subzero cold. It was almost as cold on the South Atlantic coastal plain. Every weather bureau in the country except Reno, Nev., reported subnormal readings at 7 a. m. Thursday. It was 32 above in Reno.

Chicago at 19 below zero had its coldest day since 1899 and the fifth coldest in its recorded history. Jurists freed nearly all minor offenders who appeared in court. A moratorium was declared on evictions for nonpayment of rent pending the return of warmer weather. Schools reopened but promptly closed when only 15 per cent of the pupils appeared.

DIAMOND VALUE FACTORS

The weight of a diamond, alone, means nothing; the perfection of the stone (freedom from flaws) alone, means nothing; color, alone, means nothing! . . . The intrinsic value of a diamond is governed by an ideal combination of several factors that only an expert can truly determine . . . That is why YOUR diamond should be purchased at an establishment of known integrity.

ALEXANDRIA REVUE OF CLUBS PLEASING

Minstrels Led by Diener and Quintette of Dancers Are Features.

The "Ki-Ro Revue," a joint production of the Alexandria Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs, in nine acts and featuring local talent almost exclusively, was given last night in the auditorium of the Maury School before a large audience. The revue, which is for the benefit of the charities sponsored by the two clubs, will be repeated tonight.

The cast, including more than 50 Alexandrians and some out-of-town performers, was trained by Frank Steele, Lawrence Roland and Irving Diener, with the assistance of Hoffman and Hoskins, Washington dancing teachers, and Miss Helen Frich, instructor in interpretation and physical culture at Arlington Hall.

The program was made up of three main sections, the first being devoted to a series of features showing heralds, pantomime, mixed choruses, musical recitals and varied dancing. The second section had for its locale a prominent New York night club, with a hostess, announcer and guests.

Diener Minstrel Leader.

The third section consisted of a minstrel, with Irving Diener as interlocutor; Bill May, Purvis Taylor, accompanied by his faithful dog; Joseph Everly, Everett Hellmuth, Tom Jones and Blair McLeod, as end men, and James Love, Dave Book, Clyde Lamond, John Hauber, Ed Reamer, Everett Swan, Herbert Baggett, Sinclair Shelton, Bob Eayes, Harry Maycock, Charles M. Seaman and Ted Duggins as the chorus. Baggett, Maycock and Seaman rendered solos.

Reminiscent of the early part of the century was the double sextet from "Florodora," with Miss Sarah Bowers, Mrs. Anna Meeks, Mrs. Evelyn Sheridan, Miss Frank Smoot, Miss Lloyd Smoot, Miss Nellie Sommers, Joe Blackwell, Charles Marbury, Harry Maycock, Everett Swan, William Stephens and Rodifer Wilson forming the sextet.

One of the most attractive features of the show was the Dancing Dolls, diminutive Alexandria children who danced their way into the hearts of the audience. Alvin Friedlander, in a violin solo, and Miss Anne Hilyer, contralto, also were well received.

Arlington Girls Feature.

"The Lost Babes in the Forest," with Tom Jones as the Witch of tradition; Harvey Callender, as Robin, the lost boy; Bill May, as Curley Locks, Robin's sister, and Miss Christine Munoz as the Fairy of Mythland, in a pantomime, must be seen to be appreciated.

"Point Counterpoint" featured Miss Audrey Heathcote in a toe tap dance; Miss Mary Hampton, in "A Bit of Blues," and Miss Hampton, Miss Heathcote and Miss Bild in a syncopation.

A quintet of Arlington Hall girls, as cigarette girls, and later, four of these girls in a rhythmic dance, were probably the most finished performers of all.

Mrs. Elva Book and Miss Bernice Colman alternated at the piano, and an orchestra directed by Frank Perry shared in the accompaniments.

Reckord Castigates Veteran Cut Plans

General Speaks at Presentation of Flags to Takoma Park Legion Post.

Congress can't reduce the budget by cutting $450,000,000 from veteran compensation because it isn't there to cut, Brig. Gen. Milton A. Reckord, Maryland Department commander, told the Takoma Park American Legion Post at the flag presentation exercises last night in the Takoma Park firehouse. He said that the great sums credited to veteran relief is largely propaganda designed to take away all veteran relief.

Gen. Reckord presented a Maryland flag in the name of Gov. Albert C. Ritchie to be placed in the flag collection of the post. The battle flag of the Confederacy was presented by Maj. Robert S. Hudgins, national vice commander in chief, in the name of the General Headquarters, Sons of Confederate Veterans. The stars and bars was presented by the District Chapter, Daughters of the Confederate Veterans. The national flag of the Confederacy was presented by Bull Run Camp, S. C. V., and the stainless banner by Elton Pillow, of Camp 305, S. C. V.

High Ruling Asked In Case of Cannon

Appeals Court Asks for Guidance on Dismissal of Indictment.

The United States Supreme Court yesterday was asked by the District Court of Appeals to rule on the Government's appeal from a ruling of the District Supreme Court dismissing an indictment charging Bishop James Cannon, jr., and Miss Ada L. Burroughs with violation of the corrupt practices act.

The Government, through Assistant United States Attorney John J. Wilson appealed to the Court of Appeals after the indictment had been quashed, and the case is resting on the reasons given by the trial judge. Justice James M. Proctor, in discharging the indictment.

Bishop Cannon and Miss Burroughs headed the headquarters committee, anti-Smith Democrats, during the Presidential election in 1928. He was charged with having failed to report receipts and expenditure of funds donated to the committee. This report it was charged, should have been filed with the House of Representatives. The amounts involved $58,000, received from a New York capitalist, N. C. Jameson.

Burned Bowie Woman Has Recovery Chance

Mrs. Bertha Pyles, who was seriously burned in her home at Bowie, Md., yesterday, was reported to be resting comfortably at Providence Hospital last night. Although her body was badly scorched when her clothing caught fire, she has a chance to recover, it was said.

Mrs. Pyles was putting wood in a stove yesterday and had turned her back to get another stick when her dress swept across the open top of the stove and ignited. With the flames leaping up her back, she dropped to the floor and rolled herself up in a rug, extinguishing the fire. She was brought to the hospital after treatment by the Glendale rescue squad.

The Federal Diary

By GEORGE D. RILEY

"Keep Your Face Toward the Sun and the Shadows Will Fall Behind."

THREE weeks ago the golden anniversary of Civil Service was celebrated. Blessings of civil service were extolled. They can still be extolled. Witness the case of those who work in a unit of Agriculture, Farmers Seed Loan (or Crop Production Loan). Here today and gone tomorrow.

Farmers' Seed Loan turnover is terrific. Only Wednesday more than 50 names were whacked on six hours' notice. That was better than the preceding shakeup, when 10 minutes' notice was given. Civil service benefits do not apply.

T. L. Boyd, chief, division of operations, signed this notice to the chosen half hundred:

"Due to the decrease in the volume of work, and until the new loan procedure goes into active operation in this office, it has become necessary to reduce the personnel. Therefore, you have been placed on administrative furlough, effective at the close of business February 8, 1933, subject to recall at any time."

During the last week, says Mr. Boyd, 20 new names have been enrolled.

FROM a semiofficial source this data is supplied:

Approximately 50 Farmers' Seed Loan employes in Washington have been furloughed until work of making loans under the new appropriation begins about three weeks hence. Another 50 will be laid off temporarily within the next few days. All of those affected have been doing temporary work.

Some divisions of the seed loan have hired additional help in the last few days. The legal department, which is preparing detailed regulations for handling the new loan, employed a few more attorneys. A number of laborers were put to work moving filing cases. Some other temporary jobs requiring special training were filled. Stenographers can not be shifted to the job of moving file cases. The only reason why some new employes were hired while others were being furloughed is because of the special nature of the work available.

On special occasions three shifts have been used. When it became necessary to rearrange the filing system, movers worked on Sunday to avoid delaying the work of the entire organization. Employes are worked overtime only in emergencies.

Much of the seed loan work is seasonal. At the peak last year 1,028 were employed. As loan demands subsided, it was necessary to dismiss many. Employes have been rated according to ability and diligence without regard for politics. In isolated cases members of the same family have been retained because of their peculiar adaptation to special jobs. In such cases they are indispensable to the service.

Several George Washington University football squad members obtained temporary night work. An effort has been made to choose employes on the basis of efficiency and fairness. A large number of men and women are constantly seeking work at the Washington office, and it is inevitable that many should be disappointed when insufficient work is available.

FOR luncheon Wednesday we stepped up to the Senate restaurant for some of the famous bean soup (and we rise to remark that it is worth stepping for). Leaving the restaurant we were proceeding through the corridor to an exit when a stern policeman shouted in our ear: "Make way for the sergeant at arms!" We wondered for a moment whether the poor sergeant at arms was being taken to some fastness in the Capitol for safekeeping; but no, that wasn't it at all. A procession of senators followed en route to the House chamber.

We inquired of a policeman what the excitement was all about, and from a corner of his mouth he confided: "They're going to cast an 'electrial' vote."

And it's that "electrial" vote, boys and girls, that makes sure we have a President.

THE golden rule lies bleeding because to it has been tacked on the clause, "if it pays."

An ideal husband generally belongs to some other woman.

What makes matters so trying is that the living won't kick and the dead can't.

Speaking of friends, many a young wife realizes only too late that her husband is also her best friend.

Poverty may be "the soap that protects us from filthy lucre," but being an optimist, I've yet to see the man who can't keep himself clean even with filthy lucre.

Plans are going forward rapidly for the General Accounting Office card party and dance to be held February 17, at the U. S. Chamber of Commerce Building, 1615 H street northwest. Cards will start at 8:30 o'clock. Dancing will be at 10 o'clock and continue until 1 o'clock. Receipts will go to increase the welfare association funds. Here's an excellent opportunity to help a worthy cause; informally meet office associates and friends, and have a royal, good time. Check the date and come prepared to "step out" with the boys and girls. "I'll be seeing you."

TREE IN STONE

The park tree census, lately conducted by the Office of Public Buildings and Parks, suggests that on the Eleventh street wing, main Postoffice Building, there is a tree in prospect which may not catch the eye of the tree enumerator For some unknown reason it has strayed from its forest companions. "Sermons in stone" caused Shakespeare to write immortal lines, but here is literally a tree in stone. Close inspection discloses no sight of soil and the trunk projects itself through the cement walk. While leafless, the tree is unique and attractive when Mother Nature dresses it up in green attire. This freak was brought to attention of Swarmi Fedd by D. S. Burch, editor, Animal Industry Bureau.

NEW FORD DISPLAY OPENS TOMORROW

14 Body Types to Be Shown; More Power Claimed for V-8 Motors.

Initial showing of the new Ford V-8 cylinder, 112-inch wheelbase motor car will take place tomorrow in the showrooms of the various Ford dealers of Washington and surrounding territory.

It is the largest and most powerful car ever built by the Ford Motor Co. with distinctive modern lines, a most attractive front end, longer wheelbase, larger and roomier bodies, greater acceleration with increased power and speed as well as economy of operation. It is said that the car is capable of doing 80 miles per hour.

The fourteen different body types, with their slooping V radiator grill, skirted fenders, newly designed headlamps, cowl lamps and bumpers, the curve of the hoodside ventilators, the 20 degree slant of the windshield, the curved roof header, the reverse curve of the rear quarter and the backward sweep of the apron masking the gasoline tank all express the new motif of today's motor car.

The new all steel bodies are materially wider, almost a foot longer and, consequently, much roomier. The attractive instrument panel is directly in front of the driver, with a large package compartment at the right side of the instrument board. Front seats in closed models are fully adjustable. Options in upholstery and a wide choice of body colors are available.

The improved V-8 engine is fitted with an all-aluminum cylinder head, a step that is claimed to be a forward one in engine designing because aluminum dissipates heat rapidly thereby permitting higher compression pressure resulting in increased speed and power.

Smoothness of engine performance results also from the design of the motor and the three-point rubber mounting. Cylinder blocks are set at 90-degree angle with a fully balanced crankshaft with throws at 90 degrees. Down draft carburetion is used as are an air intake silencer and fuel pump.

A double drop X-type frame is used as is torque tube drive, a straddle mounted rear axle pinion, transverse cantilever springs, internal expanding mechanical four-wheel brakes, 17-inch welded steel spoke wheel and tires of 5.50 by 17 inches, are chassis features.

Fairfax Red Cross Honor Flag Winner

Judge Payne Tells About Distribution of Relief Congress Donated.

The Fairfax County Chapter of the American Red Cross was presented with an honor flag for distinguished service in the recent roll call drive when it exceeded its quota, with appropriate ceremonies in the Engineers Theater at Fort Humphreys.

The principal speaker was Judge John Barton Payne, national chairman of Red Cross. He explained the method of the Red Cross in handling the distribution of flour and cotton materials donated by Congress.

Mrs. W. W. Cleveland, secretary of the county chapter, told of the distribution in the county to 500 needy families. Mrs. J. W. Brookfield, junior Red Cross chairman, reported 1,000 members among the school children. Mrs. E. D. Vosbury, county Red Cross treasurer, reported that 1,393 members were enrolled this year with a total of $1,613.26 collected for dues and donations.

SOVIET WHEAT CROP OFF, FAMINE FACED

kets, is based upon cabled advices from the Berlin representative of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics and upon the latest reports from the International Institute of Agriculture, at Rome.

Former Policy Renounced.

The Berlin agent reported that the Soviet government "has definitely renounced its former policy of rapid acreage expansion and intends to concentrate on the improvement of cultural methods and the building up of yields."

Revised official figures in Russia's 1932 wheat production placed the total at approximately 71,000,000 metric tons, the smallest since 1924. This figure compares with 94,000,000 metric tons in 1913, the last prewar year, and 81,600,000 metric tons annually for the five-year average 1909-13.

To cope with the distressing food shortage in the cities, the Moscow government recently has adopted the policy of exiling from the industrial centers all those not actively engaged in vital productive operations. By this method, the number of workers' ration cards outstanding has been sharply reduced during the last three months. Another new regulation provides that the food cards of factory workers shall be distributed in the future by the factory managers, to insure that no one not working every day shall consume any portion of the vanishing food supply.

Resistance of Peasants.

Widespread rural sabotage against the Moscow system of enforced grain collections has resulted in constantly diminishing grain crops during the last three years. The extent of this peasant resistance is hinted in the Department of Agriculture's report, which records a decrease of 18.2 per cent in the current winter wheat acreage, against an increase of 11 per cent called for in the Russian domestic allotment plan for 1933.

In some sections, according to Washington's official reports, this peasant sabotage has run to the extreme of the deliberate slaughter of live stock of all kinds, until over wide areas today there are not now attached to the land sufficient draft animals to carry on even the most primitive sort of farming.

Declines to 8.5 Bushels.

The report points out that the average yield per acre for all Russian wheat, as estimated from the most authoritative unofficial figures available, has declined from 12.3 bushels for 1930 to approximately 8.5 bushels for 1932. Since 1929 Russia had refused to submit official reports on grain production to the International Institute of Agriculture.

Total grain deliveries to the Moscow government up to mid-December, 1932, are placed at 15 per cent below procurements for the corresponding period of the previous crop year.

Falls Church Laymen's League Meets Tonight

The Laymen's League of the Old Falls Episcopal Church of Falls Church, Va., will hold its second meeting this evening at the home of Vestryman J. Fred Huber on Maple street. The newly-formed organization has for its object arousing the interest of every man in the parish in church work.

Mrs. Huber is president of the league with Gordon Nicholson of Washington, vice president and Ross Johnson, secretary-treasurer. A committee composed of Samuel H. Styles, chairman; Charles A. Stewart and Ross Johnson have drafted by laws of the new league and will present them at tonight's meeting. The committees on visiting, automobile, church membership, entertainment, usher and bible class will also make recommendations this evening.

MORE SCHOOL FUNDS WILL BE REQUESTED

Alexandria Board to Enter Plea at Meeting of City Council Tuesday.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The Alexandria school board, at the meeting of the city council next Tuesday, will request additional funds to pay three additional teachers, to rent a building to care for overflow pupils of the Mount Vernon School, and to hire a bus to transport pupils from the Mount Vernon School to the Maury School. None of these items was included in the school budget for the year.

The store building rented, directly across the street from the George Mason High School in Potomac, will be used for third grade pupils; the sixth grade of the Mount Vernon School will be transferred to the Maury School building and taught in the auditorium, and a bus is required to transport them. The teachers employed are Miss Edith Monahon and Mrs. Mary Moore for the Mount Vernon School classes, and Nellie B. Martin for the Parker-Gray School for colored pupils.

At a recent council meeting when the school board presented a bill for an insurance premium on a building temporarily occupied for classes in Potomac, the clerk of the council was instructed to notify the school board that the council had appropriated $153,000 for school purposes for the year, and that no further appropriations could be made.

Unless additional funds are contributed, the Alexandria United Charities must cease functioning, according to a statement issued yesterday. Elliott F. Hoffman, finance committee chairman, has reported collections of $3,012.12, or approximately $2,000 less than collected to date last year. Thomas Chauncey, treasurer, reports cash balance on hand February 1 was only $142.96.

An offer of Samuel Redmond to haul wood from the Fruit Growers Express to the wood yard of the charity body, provided the organization would pay one-half the cost of gasoline and oil, has been accepted. The wood is donated by the Fruit Growers Express.

Capt. Ernest Hopkins, of the Salvation Army, reported that since November he has furnished lodging to 6,676 men.

Representative Austin C. Shallenberger, of Nebraska, addressed the Alexandria Kiwanis Club yesterday.

The Alexandria Chamber of Commerce has reported that a number of merchants have paid fees of $50 to an out-of-town concern to negotiate the sale of their business and have heard nothing further from the firm. The Chamber of Commerce has asked that merchants, before entering into such negotiations, communicate with the trade body.

Approximately 100 gallons of corn liquor and a few bottles of beer found their way into the Potomac yesterday. The liquor had been confiscated by the Alexandria Police Department during the last few months and was poured out under direction of Capt. John S. Arnold.

Damage estimated at $1,400 was caused by a fire at the home of E. E. Anderson, on Timber Branch drive, Alexandria, Wednesday night. The fire was confined to the living room and dining room. An overheated flue is believed to have been the cause.

A valuable dog, a gift to Mr. Anderson by Secretary of Labor Doak, was partially overcome by smoke and given first aid by firemen.

ARLINGTON BUILDING OVER MILLION MARK

County Manager's Report Shows 374 Permits Issued in 1932.

BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

According to a report released yesterday by County Manager Roy S. Braden, there were during 1932 a total of 374 building permits issued, representing an expenditure of $1,065,116.68, divided as follows:

Dwellings, 207; fees collected for permits, $932; showing an outlay of $871,040. Additions and repairs to dwellings, 65; fees, $72; amount expended, $22,121.22. Garages, 45; fees, $56; amount expended, $19,269.46. Business buildings, 18; fees, $38; amount expended, $70,463. Signs, 5; fees, $5; amount expended, $1,212. Tourists' camps and filling stations, 5; fees, $17; amount expended, $12,550. Apartments, 3; fees, $15; amount expended, $50,000. Miscellaneous, 32; fees, $42; amount expended, $18,463.

Charged with impersonating an officer, Walter Fritz was fined $100 and sentenced to six months in the Arlington County jail by Judge B. M. Hedrick yesterday. In addition, he was fined $25 on an assault charge.

The case grew out of an assault upon Philip K. Harness the night of January 29, when Fritz is alleged to have ordered Harness off the property adjoining the Carter estate upon which he is the caretaker. An appeal was noted by former Commonwealth's Attorney William C. Gloth, his counsel. He was released on $1,000 bond.

Charged with assault with a dangerous weapon upon Fritz the night of February 1, Harness, Cecil R. Whittington and Harry Meismer, all of Washington, were acquitted when their case came before Judge Hedrick yesterday. They were represented by former State Senator Frank L. Ball.

Plans to participate in the inaugural parade will be completed at a special meeting tomorrow night of the Arlington County Woman's Democratic Club. The meeting will be held in the headquarters at Clarendon.

There will be a meeting of the executive commitee of the Arlington County Democratic Club tonight at the home of the president, Robert N. Anderson, Lyon Village.

The monthly meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association of the Patrick Henry School will be held this evening in the school auditorium.

Owing to members of the county board being unable to attend, the meeting of the special committee of the Arlington County Bar Association announced for tonight has been postponed, according to Chairman Emery N. Hosmer.

The committee plans to have the members of the board attend the next meeting in order that all matters pertaining to operation of the county government may be discussed prior to their report to the association. It is understood the report, expected at the March meeting of the bar association, will carry with it recommendations for a drastic reduction in taxes.

The tenth annual convention of the Christian Endeavor Union of Northern Virginia is to be held in the Ballston Christian Church tomorrow and Sunday. The committee expects 200 delegates from the 30 societies in the district, which includes the counties of Arlington, Fairfax, Loudoun, Prince William and Orange. Miss Margaret Richards, State president, will present plans for the annual State convention in Roanoke.

"Buy in Clarendon" was adopted as the slogan of the Business and Professional Men's Association of Clarendon, Va., at a meeting last night.

The organization was addressed by John A. Petty, Arlington County clerk, who discussed the work done by his office. The second and fourth Friday of each month were set aside as "economy days."

"Spent an interesting and successful day bone fishing up Middle Bight, Andros Island. Vincent." The signature was that of Vincent Astor, owner of the Nourmahal.

Maryland Tax on Incomes Proposed in State Senate

Minimum School Levy Reduction Sought; Bill Would Forbid "Yellow Dog" Injunctions; Prince Georges Salesmen Are Target of One Measure.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Feb. 9.—Solution of all of Maryland's budget problems by the imposition of a State income tax estimated to yield $4,000,000 annually was proposed in a bill introduced in the Senate today. The bill would exempt individual incomes under $1,000, and family incomes under $2,000.

In the House the anticipated bill to reduce minimum school taxes from 67 cents per $100 to 40 cents was introduced. Commenting on this measure this afternoon in a budget hearing before the ways and means committee, the head of the State school system said that the bill as drafted would reduce teachers' salaries by one-half, unless it also carried taxes to support the schools from other sources.

The House today also received a bill forbidding "yellow-dog" injunctions. It would also provide that persons committing contempt of court through violation of injunctions shall have a jury trial before a judge other than the one issuing the injunction. The bill would forbid injunctions against strikes except for five-day periods after 48 hours' notice, and testimony in injunction hearings would be personal, with opportunities for cross-examination.

A bill striking at high-pressure salesmanship in Prince Georges County was introduced by Delegate Charles G. Marbury. It provides that landlords in seizing furniture for back rent may also hold articles which are being bought on time and are not paid for. Under this law, a salesman would be certain a man could afford an article before he sold it on time, as otherwise the landlord could seize it if the rent payments were not kept up, Mr. Marbury said.

Other bills providing that interest on delinquent taxes in Frederick County shall be deferred four months and postponing tax sales in the county were offered. The interest on taxes would start, under the new bill, on December 31 instead of September 1, while tax sales would be held after the second Monday in May instead of after January 1. The bill would also save the delinquent taxpayer money by advertising his property for only three weeks instead of four.

A resolution in the House calls for a commission to investigate the office of the banking commissioner, which has been the target of numerous attacks lately. Other bills today give ten days to make good bad checks, allow hospitals to attach damages given in accidents, and force policemen to make a report of all money and other articles seized in gambling raids.

The bill to prevent the seining and sale of black bass was the object of a spirited attack today by Delegate W. Bruce Matthews, of Charles County. A motion to make it a special order of business when the House reconvenes Monday night was carried. A favorable report on the bill abolishing the whipping post was adopted, 57 to 29, after considerable parliamentary skirmishing.

Hoovers to Observe Their 34th Wedding Anniversary

THE PRESIDENT AND MRS. HOOVER will celebrate their thirty-fourth wedding anniversary today. Their marriage took place on February 10, 1899, in Monterey, Calif., after which Mr. Hoover and his bride went to China where the former was engaged on engineering work. They plan to celebrate the anniversary quietly with a few personal friends.

The President and Mrs. Hoover will go to New York on Monday to attend the Lincoln Day dinner to be given by the National Republican Club at the Waldorf-Astoria. They will be accompanied by the Secretary of State, Mr. Henry L. Stimson; the Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. Ogden L. Mills, the Secretary of War, Mr. Patrick J. Hurley, and the Secretary of the Commerce, Mr. Roy D. Chapin.

Mrs. Hoover received the retiring Minister of Egypt, Sesostris Sidarouss Pasha, yesterday afternoon.

The Vice President will be the guest of honor at a dinner to be given this evening by Lieut. Col. and Mrs. M. Robert Guggenheim at their home on Woodley road. Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Knox, of New York, who will be the house guests of Col. and Mrs. Guggenheim for a short time, arrived in Washington yesterday. Col. and Mrs. Guggenheim will entertain informally at dinner at the Troika tomorrow evening.

Mrs. Harlan Fiske Stone and Mrs. William Howard Taft were the guests of honor at a luncheon given yesterday by Mrs. William Livington Crounse. Her guests numbered 15.

The Ambassador of Japan and Mme. Debuchi were ranking guests at a dinner given last evening at the Mayflower by the Secretary of Agriculture and Mrs. Arhtur M. Hyde.

The company included the Minister of the Union of South Africa, Mr. Eric H. Louw; the Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. Ogden L. Mills, the Secretary of the Interior and Mrs. Ray Lyman Wilbur, Senator and Mrs. Arthur H. Vandenberg, of Michigan; Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Robert M. Guggenheim, Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Evans, Mr. Lawrence Richey, Mr. and Mrs. Elton L. Marshall, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley F. Reed, Mrs. Jacob Leander Boose, Mr. and Mrs. Wade Hampton Ellis and Mrs. Charles S. McClung.

Italy-America Society To Entertain Envoy Rosso.

The Ambassador of Italy, Signor Augusto Rosso, will be the guest of honor at a reception to be given on February 20 at the Mayflower Hotel by the Italy-America Society when the reception will be followed by a lecture on "The Makers of Modern Italy" by Prof. Kent Roberts Greenfield.

The Secretary of State and Mrs. Henry L. Stimson entertained at dinner last evening. Their guests were the Ambassador of France and Mme. Claudel, the Minister of Bulgaria and Mme. Radeff, the Minister of Albania, Mr. Faik Konitza; the Minister of Lithuania, Mr. Bronius Kasimir Balutis; the Minister of Yugoslavia, Dr. Leonide Pitamic; the Minister of Roumania, Mr. Charles A. Davila; the Minister of Egypt, Sesostris Sidarouss Pasha; the Minister of Siam and Mme. Subarn Sompati, the Undersecretary of State and Mrs. William R. Castle, jr., Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Frank McCoy, Mrs. Robert Patterson Lamont, Miss Mabel Boardmen, Miss Mary E. Thatcher, Miss Mary Randolph and Miss Elizabeth Rogers.

SLAM INFERENCES.

SLAM bidding, the most fascinating phase of Contract strategy, is really based not upon a hit-or-miss proposition, but upon scientifically drawn inferences. Two conditions are essential before the possibility of a Slam can even be considered by the partnership:

1. The partnership hands must contain favorable distribution—an adequate trump suit, some other suit length and usually a short suit. In other words, the hands must have "body."

2. The combined hands must contain about 6½ honor-tricks.

Provided either partner has opened the bidding, the following inferences are in order:

1. Any four notrump bid is unconditionally Forcing, requiring partner to respond. It shows either (a) any three Aces or (b) any two Aces and the King of any suit previously bid by either partner. The player should avoid jumping into a four notrump bid so long as the game is not reached. In addition to the three Aces or two Aces and a King, the four notrump must contain sufficient values practically to guarantee a contract of five-odd in some previously bid suit.

Partner's responses are as follows:

(a) If holding no added values for a six-bid, he should sign off with a lower ranking suit, provided such a suit has previously been bid by either partner; partner will, of course, expect that such a suit may be quite unsatisfactory.

(b) If holding sufficient added values for a six-bid, but only one Ace in the hand, he should contract directly for six-odd in a suit previously bid by partner, when he holds adequate trump support; failing which, he should respond with a lower ranking suit.

(c) If his hand contains two Aces, regardless of any other consideration, he must unconditionally respond with five notrump. Thus a five notrump response is obligatory in response to four notrump whenever the player holds any two Aces.

2. When, in the course of bidding, a five notrump bid is made directly (without being preceded by a four notrump bid by either partner) it is also unconditionally Forcing and shows at least three Aces and the King of a suit previously bid by either partner. A five notrump bid indicates, of course, that the player has already made up his mind to contract at least for a Small Slam at some bid, and that in addition he is indicating the possession of a Grand Slam.

Partner's responses are as follows:

(a) If holding no added values, he signs off with a bid of six in a suit for which he holds adequate trump support; failing which, he bids a lower ranking suit that has been previously bid. He may sign off even though his hand contains the fourth Ace, if no added values are held.

(b) If holding added values, including an Ace, he contracts directly for seven-odd in a suit for which he holds adequate trump support.

In signing off, when a choice is available between adequate trump support of partner's bid and a six-card or longer suit bid of his own, with not more than one loser, the player should, as a rule, prefer the latter. Six notrump is not a Forcing bid, but a regulation bid reserved for rare hands on which a Small Slam at notrump is preferable to a Small Slam at a suit bid.

The following hand illustrates the new Slam bidding:

South—Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

The bidding: (Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

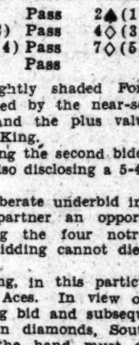
South	West	North	East
1◇	Pass	2♠(1)	Pass
3♡(2)	Pass	4◇(3)	Pass
4NT(4)	Pass	7◇(5)	Pass
Pass	Pass

1—A slightly shaded Forcing bid, justified by the near-solid spade suit and the plus value of the heart King.
2—Showing the second biddable suit, and also disclosing a 5-4 distribution.
3—A deliberate underbid in order to give partner an opportunity of making the four notrump bid. The bidding cannot die short of game.
4—Showing, in this particular case, three Aces. In view of North's Forcing bid and subsequent support in diamonds, South knows that the hand must contain a Slam at some bid.
5—North is now certain of a Grand Slam. He knows that South's bid must show three Aces. It cannot show two Aces and the King of a bid suit because he holds both Kings himself. The spade suit is solid enough to allow for the necessary discards, and South's diamond suit must be headed by at least Ace-Queen in order to justify the four notrump bid.

Under any other system of bidding the Grand Slam would always be doubtful as North could never be sure that South held the club Ace rather than clubs King-Queen-Knave.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

North and South are both strong players. South is the Dealer; neither side vulnerable. What should be the bidding and the final contract on these hands?



The answer will be given tomorrow.

MANCHUKUO DOOMED.

Japan is placed in a most difficult position by the League of Nations committee of nineteen, which now asks Japan to acknowledge China's sovereignty over Manchuria and to admit that continuation of the Manchukuo regime does not constitute a solution of the problem. At the same time, the committee formally supports the policy of nonrecognition of Manchukuo, and asks all nations to join in a policy of noncooperation with the puppet state.

The attempt to bluff the world by setting up a bogus "independent government" in Manchuria is Japan's greatest diplomatic mistake, which may result in nullifying the military program of invasion and ultimate annexation. By the aid of traitorous Chinese, a phantom government was created by Japan on the assumption that all other nations would be compelled to recognize it, first de facto and then de jure. The first mortal blow portending the destruction of this scheme was the declaration by the United States that it would not recognize changes effected by force and violation of treaties. The League of Nations adhered to this policy, thereby making it impossible for the bogus government in Manchuria to establish relations with them.

Now another powerful blow has been struck—the decision to refuse co-operation of any kind. This means, among other things, that Japan will be unable to borrow money anywhere for the execution of plans in Manchukuo. As money is the sinews of war, it is necessary for Japan to obtain credits for the purchase of war material in the projected conquest of Jehol. With the governments frowning upon the granting of credits, munitions makers will find it desirable to demand cash from Japan, as it will be impossible for them to collect claims which are not supported by their respective governments.

Still another step is impending on the part of the governments—that of preventing shipments of war material to Japan or Manchukuo. Although munitions manufacturers are strenuously opposing this policy, the logical sequence of the refusal to recognize Manchukuo demands that the nations place an embargo upon arms intended for the violation of Chinese territory.

"Noncooperation" is construed in some quarters as equivalent to "boycott," and some timid souls in the Senate seem to fear that if the United States has the hardihood to refuse to approve of Japan's course the outcome will be war. But noncooperation is the inevitable consequence of insistence upon the sanctity of treaties. When a nation tramples upon treaties in order to seize a neighbor's territory, other nations have the choice of becoming accomplices or refusing to countenance the outrage. If they refuse, they must refuse to recognize territorial gains resulting from treaty violation, and then they must refuse cooperation in the process of aggression and conquest. They are not giving the aggressor an excuse for war by this refusal; and if he chooses to resort to war to compel the nations to reverse their position, he signs his death-warrant.

The United States can look with complacency upon the unfolding of events in the Far East, now that the nations are resolved to refuse recognition to Manchukuo and to adopt the policy of noncooperation. Japan must abandon the attempt to coerce the world to have dealings with a counterfeit government. The Manchukuo scheme is a failure. How costly this failure will be, and how deadly it will prove to be to Japan, depend upon how soon the Japanese government realizes its mistake.

THE ECONOMIC CONFERENCE.

As preparations for the world economic conference go forward, restoration of the gold standard looms up as its most important task. This issue is given first place on the agenda drawn up by the preparatory commission. It is uppermost in the minds of the statesmen who will assemble at London. Unless the conference can bring about the stabilization of money its accomplishments will amount to very little.

France is extremely anxious to have Great Britain and other nations return to the gold standard. So is Italy. These countries, along with the United States, have suffered losses because of depreciated currency. Great Britain and Japan are able to invade their markets both at home and abroad. Moreover, the financial state of the world remains in chaos with half the world off the gold standard and the other half on. Commodity prices in all countries tend to seek the level of commodities valued in depreciated currency. Restoration of the gold standard is the most essential prerequisite to world-wide recovery from the depression.

The preparatory commission offers specific suggestions to nations remaining on the gold standard, to those which have imposed exchange restrictions, and to others that are off the gold standard. Countries such as the United States are urged to pursue a liberal credit policy, to maintain an open market policy designed to press credit into the channels of trade, to allow gold to flow freely, and to permit sound foreign investments. The American Government now adheres to all of these policies. It will be a very simple matter for this country to join in any practicable program to restore stable money.

Countries off the gold standard are urged to avoid competition in debasing their currencies to gain trade advantages, and to curb speculation in foreign currencies. All nations using exchange restrictions are urged to abolish them as soon as possible.

The preparatory commission does not contemplate restoring currencies to their former exchange values. It sees the necessity of abandoning existing parities when exchange restrictions are withdrawn. Attempts to restore the pound, the peseta and the yen to their former value in terms of dollars would be futile. Stability can not be attained by trying to invest any currency with a value that it does not have. The depression has shaken out the false values of many currencies. New levels must be established. The only way in which the gold standard may be maintained is by establishing parities on the basis of real value. If this is to be the objective of the world economic conference, it may become a most important factor in economic recovery.

VARIETY OF POLICE WORK.

The number of persons who take their troubles to the police is quite beyond the knowledge of the average citizen. The protection of society requires more than the quelling of robbers. It means fighting forces like electricity, water, fire and gases, which are terrible when they escape control.

The rescue squad of a metropolitan police force is called upon many times a day. A high tension wire falls to the ground, endangering passers-by; a child or a cat climbs to the roof and is unable to get down; a horse or a car falls into the river or a sewer excavation; a woman is found dying from asphyxiation—these are just a few of the emergencies to be dealt with in the daily life of the police of every city. To deal with such incidents, Washington and other cities have special fast cars with resourceful men who respond to calls with the promptness of a fire department.

New York City has a special police division for this work which is provided with powerful trucks. Ingeniously packed away in each vehicle are no less than 193 pieces of equipment. On the heavy running boards are carried oxygen tanks, hydraulic jacks powerful enough to lift a street car, fire extinguishers, fire fighting implements and scaling ladders. Under the seats, which run parallel with the length of the car, are carried boat-hooks, stretchers, powerful searchlights, a submachine gun, and many other articles for saving or destroying life. This fleet responds to calls for help at collapsed buildings, airplane crashes, explosions, falling elevators, water-front disasters, etc. Occasionally we see the picture of policemen who received medals for outstanding bravery. It is well-deserved recognition, but sight must not be lost of the innumerable deeds of valor performed regularly in the line of duty by the police of all cities.

BUSINESS IS WAITING.

Further decline of commodity prices since the beginning of the year is causing considerable apprehension. The public as well as business men realizes that recovery can not proceed so long as commodity prices are drifting downward. Falling prices mean losses for nearly every one who engages in business. It is also feared that the downward trend presages another period of liquidation.

There is a great deal of evidence, however, to indicate that the situation is not as gloomy as the commodity price index would suggest. Of the ten groups of commodities six have been relatively stable since January 1. Farm products, foods, light and fuel have shown considerable weakness. Mild weather prevailing through much of the country until the present cold wave probably had an adverse effect upon some farm products. During the last week, however, the tendency has been for prices to stiffen. It is not safe to assume that another prolonged wave of price deflation has set in.

Probably the foremost factor contributing to the present drifting of business is the unsettled state of affairs in Washington. Industry and commerce are waiting to learn what the policies of the Roosevelt administration will be. In the meantime they are trying to maintain an equilibrium, and are finding it difficult to hold the gains that were made last fall. For the most part commodity prices and the volume of business have not sunk to the level reached early last summer, but no definite forward movement can be expected until the uncertainty of the legislative situation is cleared up.

So far as economic factors are concerned, the depression seems to have run its course. The potential demand for goods is large because of the curtailed buying over the last three years. Costs of production have been reduced in many lines, and even partial recovery would put a large number of industries on a profitable basis. But the national psychology is dominated by uncertainty. People are waiting to see whether the Democratic administration can infuse a new spirit of optimism in business, and business is waiting to see whether it can go forward without risking inflation and other quack remedies.

This period of hesitation may be expected to continue until the new administration definitely outlines its course and gives evidence of its ability to put its program into effect. For better or for worse the extra session of Congress will have a powerful effect upon the economic trend of the next year.

HIGHWAY TO MEXICO CITY.

The Federal Highway Commission of Mexico announces that it expects to have the motor road connecting the American border with the Mexican capital open for through traffic by June. This highway, starting from Laredo, Tex., is 770 miles long, and is the first great link south of the American border in the ambitious plan for a Pan American highway joining Washington not only with Mexico but all the republics of Central and South America.

The first section of the Mexico highway has been completed to Monterey for some time, and many Americans have motored to the capital of Nuevo Leon. When the gaps are filled in and travelers can journey in their own motors in comfort clear to the ancient capital of the Aztecs it is certain that Americans in large numbers will visit Mexico, where every variety of climate is to be found and where picturesque and historic attractions combine to charm the visitor.

The international road will traverse the most varied scenery imaginable. Starting from the Rio Grande, very little above sea level, the road gradually ascends the great central plateau of Mexico, and when the capital is reached in the valley dominated by snow-capped mountains the traveler is at an altitude of a mile and a half, but latitude so tempers altitude that the result is a delightful climate all the year round. From Mexico City several side trips can be made by motor to picturesque cities such as Puebla and Cuernavaca.

Preparations are being made along the new highway to provide all necessary conveniences and accommodations for tourists. Hotels and service stations will be found at regular intervals, so that the trip can be made in as leisurely fashion as desired. Mexico is to be felicitated upon its enterprise in completing this great highway, in the face of economic difficulties.

The Senate jury having rendered a verdict satisfactory to the Senate, it is deemed wise not to submit Dave Barry's article to another jury, which might want to know who has been libeled.

The nations may not be ready to grasp Japan by the throat, but they do refuse to permit Japan to palm off counterfeit governments upon them.

The Senate tells Frank Roosevelt that if he should really reorganize and lop off jobs it will try not to overrule him, but it doesn't promise.

How can the debtor nations pay unless the United States lends them the money? Take that, Mr. Taxpayer!

WOMEN TO THE RESCUE

From the Houston Post.

In the 28 counties of Georgia known as the Atlanta district farm women last year gave a demonstration of the worth of the live at home program, and nullified the effects of the depression in a very considerable degree. Records of the Georgia State College of Agriculture show that 14,000 women in those 28 counties marketed more than $1,000,000 worth of farm products, including $250,000 worth of canned fruits and $300,000 worth of green produce, poultry and dairy products.

"To show their men folks how money could be saved, as well as made," says the Atlanta Constitution, "these farm women made clothing valued at more than $50,000.

"The efforts of these women point the surest way out of the troubles into which agriculture has fallen in Georgia. Had they not marketed these farm products, $1,000,000 would have gone out of the State for vegetables and fruits raised elsewhere. Thus, in addition to making tidy additions to their own incomes, they benefited every business interest in their communities by keeping this money at home."

And what the Constitution says about producing in Georgia what is consumed in Georgia is applicable to Texas. This State, too, is sending away for too many commodities it can easily produce itself, in particular, hogs and grain.

But, to quote the Constitution again:

"If the $60,000,000 or $70,000,000 sent out of Georgia every year for food and feedstuffs, that can be raised as cheaply and in as good quality here as elsewhere, were to be kept at home, the farm problem would be largely solved. It is a sum as large as the revenue that would be received from a 1,000,000-bale crop of cotton sold at 12 cents a pound.

"No more conclusive nor convincing proof that there is a sound and practical way out of their troubles for the farmers of Georgia is to be desired than the results secured by the efforts of these 14,000 energetic and enterprising farm women."

POST HASTE

Secretary Adams says that next month he is going home to mind his own business—a decision that proves possession of a sound mind.

How many potential land-grabbers and treaty-jumpers do you suppose are watching to see if Japan gets away with it?

Senator Harrison's sage advisers will have to hustle in their plans if they want them included among those that will be scrapped by the incoming administration.

The Middle West is peeved because it can't even get honorable mention in the rumor Cabinet.

Speaking of political turn-tables, it is now the Republicans who are to be responsible for dire things if they don't co-op.

It is easy to criticize bankers. Irresponsible folks are always seeking loans. If you are a responsible person, for just what kind of an investment would you borrow money?

No one wants that fine smile to fade from Frank Roosevelt's face, but the day is coming when it will have to be accompanied by yes or no.

If Poland drafts Paderewski for the presidency, Americans are going to protest the sacrifice of several annual farewell tours.

Governors are usually used to hold down speed. Mr. Roosevelt's experiment of using them for accelerators will be watched with interest.

If the President-elect doesn't bring a cut-and-dried program ready to slap through the new Congress before it gets to taking itself too seriously, there is likely to result great disappointment to the country and to him.

Representative Rainey denounced the latest debt proposal as "sheer nonsense." In other words he could look right through the stocking and see there was no legacy.

JUST FOLKS

THE OLD-TIME SITTING ROOM.

We used to have a parlor in the days when we were small,
Which was entered from a doorway
at the right side of the hall,
And the parlor was for company, and the times we made a fuss;
But next there was the sitting room and that room was for us.

The parlor seemed all mystery Not oft we got in there.
The mother fashioned covers to go over every chair.
On very rare occasions was the door flung open wide,
And we sat very stiff and straight when once we got inside.

I have a recollection there were pictures on the wall
Of people dignified and old, I never knew at all.
The room seemed rather solemn just because it held so much
Of sacred family treasures that we weren't allowed to touch.

The sitting room was different—I still see the oval frames
Which held the crayon portraits of my uncles, George and James;
And my mother's little rocker where beside the stove she sat,
And the spot upon the sofa that belonged unto the cat.

It always seemed overcrowded, as I recollect it now,
But it held a lot of gladness for the old and young, somehow.
And perhaps today what's needed, in these times of doubt and gloom,
Is a little of the courage of that family sitting room.

Grown People Who Are Bored Find No Relief in Building Pretty Block Houses

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MR. HOOVER'S commission for the study of social trends confirms the common belief that America is neglecting and forgetting the religion of our fathers.

The report seems true, yet it is wrong.

In remote regions, where people still preach and practice the old-time religion, the church still moulds community character as it has since America's beginning.

The religion from which people are turning away in other regions is not the religion of our fathers.

It is a new kind of religion that puts on a good show and caters to its followers. Its headquarters is no longer a house of God, but a "plant." It is equipped as a jolly social center, and its doctrine is sugar-coated with efficiency and served with a toasted cheese sandwich.

It appeals to those who enjoy a lodge and a picnic, but it offers nothing to the soul-hungry.

That millions thirst for a satisfying religion has been proven by the radio. They are ready for the much discussed revival. But you can't win zealots for a crusade by offering free lollypops and Pullman service all the way.

Those who are conscious of spiritual hunger—the discontented and unhappy who find life meaningless or terrifying—are longing for a religion that will demand much and give much.

There is no satisfaction in a prize easily won. People are more eager to see a show if tickets are hard to get. The adventure or contest or career that appeals to the best in man is the one that requires most of him.

There is no heart-balm in a soft religion. The religion that satisfies and inspires must be one that is hard—one that demands sacrifice and self-denial—one that tries the soul and demands the best that mortal can give.

People can give their lives to God and find peace for their troubled souls. The fact has been established beyond question. But who can give his life to a religion that pats him on the back and offers him the newest scientific fad to feed his hungry soul?

If there is to be a revival of religion, it must offer trials by fire in which its converts may rejoice "as a strong man to run a race."

POLITICAL COMMENT

Debts and the Gold Standard.

New York Herald Tribune.

Agriculture would be aided, in the opinion of Henry A. Wallace, Des Moines (Iowa) farm editor, if England's example in deserting the gold standard were followed by the United States. "England," declared Mr. Wallace in an address before the Nebraska State Legislature on Monday, "has played us for a bunch of suckers. The smart thing would be to go off the gold standard a little farther than England has. The British debtor has paid off his debts 50 per cent easier than the United States debtor has."

Ignoring for the moment the crass dishonesty that is involved in all such proposals for voluntary bankruptcy as that of Mr. Wallace, we are moved to wonder what newspapers the latter reads. Where does he and where do those who talk as he does of the boon bestowed upon the British debtor class by that country's bankruptcy obtain the figures on which their conclusions rest?

Poised and Waiting.

Cincinnati Enquirer.

At no time since the low price levels and stagnant business of July, 1932, has the country generally been so nearly inert. It is not that prices are declining greatly, nor that business is falling off. It is rather an atmosphere of waiting that characterizes the present moment. Essential industries are plodding along. New construction and ambitious plans for larger production are held in abeyance. There is a certain doggedness of carrying on at low levels, and an absence of the determined attack that alone will establish recovery.

Undoubtedly this condition is a direct reflection of political factors. The Nation voted Mr. Hoover out of office. Incidentally it voted Mr. Roosevelt into office. But the Nation does not know yet just what it voted for. It does not know thus far what the nature of Mr. Roosevelt's Cabinet will be, and has only a vague index of what the new Congress will try to do.

A Synonym for Repudiation.

Charleston News and Courier.

The American people are beginning to talk about a debased currency as if it were a nice, "comfy," fuzzy thing to hug to their bosoms. It is a bad thing at best. Mr. Rainey, Democratic floor leader in Congress, has come out for free silver. He is a Borah Democrat. Everybody is talking about inflation and against the gold standard, as if there were not vastly more gold in this country now than there was in the spring of 1929, when everybody was happy, and foolish.

Whether we have the gold standard or not we should have a single standard, and, "if something is to be done for silver," it should be done promptly by the civilized nations acting in concert.

If we are to debase the currency, let us do it in manly fashion, without trying to deceive ourselves about the object. The object will be to repudiate in part the debts that people owe. To circumvent creditors. To carry the American people through bankruptcy without calling it by its name. The question is, how much shall they pay on the dollar?

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Thinks Senate Should Not Throw All Responsibility Upon Mr. Roosevelt in Reorganizing Government Machine.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I am much interested in the fact that the Senate votes to our incoming President, Mr. Franklin D. Roosevelt, almost absolute authority to reorganize the Federal Government. There are so many ways the average citizen may look at this. First, let me say that I believe the Government should be reorganized, and I have respect for Mr. Roosevelt's ability, but here are things which make one think:

First, the Senate can act quickly and unanimously when it cares to. Secondly, why should the Senate wish to confer such dictatorial powers on our Chief Executive instead of assisting him? Is it right to confer the power which was given them as representatives of the people to one man, placing upon his shoulders the burden and responsibility of this very important undertaking? No doubt Mr. Roosevelt can do this and do this well, but that is beside the point.

MARY ANNE WALFORD.

Lamentation of Jeremiah Over the Insult to Silver — His Doleful Prophecy.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: About 100 years ago, when the English pound meant a pound of silver, the money changers in the temple and elsewhere decided to debase and demonetize silver, retaining gold as the standard and base of monetary values. This went on with varying success until about 5 years ago, when England placed the enormous population of India on gold, dumping her silver on the market. Silver went down from 64 cents an ounce to a low of 24¼. Farm productions of every kind followed silver down, probably because there is an indefinable connection between the two, the toilers of the soil using silver almost exclusively, whereas the patricians preferred gold.

Thereupon it came to pass that a commercial blight swept the globe and all the people both high and low suffered mightily; but the money changers, most of them being mere echoes and not real students of money, kept them hypnotized with what they called sound money based on a very limited amount of gold.

Now it is well known that the Gresham monetary law forbids one nation to go alone in the free coinage of silver, because all its gold would go into hiding or export. Hence the only way to repeal this law is by an international agreement; but during the past 70 years all conferences to bring about such agreement have been successfully nullified by the gold men.

Meanwhile there is a ray of hope in the offing because the Democratic party, always the party of silver with its Beck, Bland and Bryan, will be in tremendous power after March 4. Also meanwhile the genial Senator Pat Harrison has called the soothsayers to come to Washington and tell him what is the matter with the world, and it is a safe bet that all of them will declare for gold. And again meanwhile the depression will go unmerrily on.

Appreciation of Devotion of Teachers Spurs Them to Keep Up Their Good Work.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I want to express my very deep appreciation of the editorial entitled, "School Economies," which appeared in the February 6 issue of The Washington Post. Those of us whose duty it is to travel back and forth across this country can bear witness to the truth and accuracy of your statement.

I know of no more devoted public service anywhere or at any time than that which is now being rendered by the teachers under the most difficult and trying circumstances. Editorials like the one which appeared in your paper will give them courage and inspiration to remain faithful to their trust.

Five Cents a Glass for Beer Is the Limit—Strong Home Brew Costs Less.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Beer can never be successfully sold for more than 5 cents a glass. Under prohibition, people have been getting dead drunk on a half dozen glasses of strong home brew that cost them about 10 cents to manufacture in the kitchen.

Valuable Additions to Glossary of Terms Relating to Government.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I suggest these definitions:

Rushing a bill through—Taking five weeks to it.

Emergency measure — Vide "submergence."

Will of the people—Will o' the wisp.

Foreign relations — Acknowledging none.

Filibuster—Jarliamentary sabotage; a dictatorship of egotism.

Senate rules—Method of exercising its power by reducing itself to impotence.

Lame duck amendment—Leaving the country virtually without government for two and one-half months instead of four.

Red tape—Used to constrict and stangle.

Balancing the budget — Increasing the deficit faster than taxes; a deficit trying to swallow its tail.

Presidential veto — Invitation to Congressional defiance.

Brief—Legal term, now obsolete.

Deliberative body—One that deliberately delays important matters, and wastes time on trifles.

Helping the farmer—Ruining him by his own remedies.

Letters of a Capital Society Divorcee to Her Mother

Dearest Mother:

Through Mrs. Gary I have met a number of people in the hotel, among them Mrs. Benson, who has just returned from the East. After three months here her husband refused to sign her papers, unless she would go back and talk to him once more. Perhaps he thought he had developed a new charm to reveal to her or he may have been thinking of the five children and that a reunited Christmas dinner might weaken her resolve. But no, she goes to court on Monday, giving up a very rich husband and her children half the year, for a man who I understand drinks pretty hard and is penniless. With the usual quick intimacies that spring up out here she raved to us about her beau and said she was going to marry the day she got back. At the cocktail party in her apartment this afternoon she was quite a picture with her hair parted in the middle and drawn back from her regular features, and she wore cherry-colored Chinese pajamas. All the girls had on pajamas of vivid colors. At last I will get some wear out of my purple ones. I will join the running tomorrow afternoon as I am invited in again. Her daily parties are called "The Tea Cup Club" by the Reno papers. It all looks and sounds gayer than it really is, for they all seem to be very nice girls (yes, even Mrs. Benson who has loved her "next" for six years. I will tell you how she figures it later) most of whom knew each other in New York. I knew the family of one of them and found I had met Mrs. Gary in Washington. The men were mostly natives except for one or two older ones from the East, and some of the girls' lawyers were there.

There was much talk about Mrs. Christopher who has been hypnotized out here by a penniless adventurer from the oil fields. The other girls, who were all friends of hers in New York, have tried to warn her, but to no avail. She eats every meal with him and it is thought she will marry him after her divorce. There are a number of the gigolo type waiting about Reno to pounce on the rich women who come out disillusioned and ready to be caught on the rebound. If they fail to achieve a rich bride, at least they play a successful borrowing game.

Tonight I had dinner with my old friends Mrs. French and Mrs. Oliver. The latter has gotten more and more prostrated every day since her arrival and we had to have dinner in her room. She refuses to have a doctor and yet is too weak to get out of bed. She lies there looking perfectly lovely and in between her explosions, she tells one funny story after another. She told tonight about a curtain speech that Bernard Shaw made at the opening of one of his plays, when someone from the gallery called down, "I think it's a mess, I don't like it at all," and Shaw replied. "Neither do I, but what are two among so many?" Tomorrow being Monday, I am going to the courthouse to hear the cases. I am interested to hear the different lawyers.

KING OF THE JUNGLE

by CHARLES THURLEY STONEHAM

SYNOPSIS.

Kaspa, the lion-man found as a child in the African jungle by a lioness and raised with her own cubs, Duka and Dogo, is brought to Canada by Martin Sefton and recognized as the grandson and sole heir of Denison Starke, Canadian millionaire. Kaspa falls in love with beautiful Madeline Moore, society girl, but realizing that Sefton is also in love with her, and fed up generally with civilization, he disposes of his property and sets sail for Africa, back to the jungle from which he came.

CHAPTER XX.

THE little coasting steamer entered the harbor of Chola to land one passenger. He was a huge golden-haired young man dressed in white duck, and carrying a suitcase in each hand. He turned his back upon the curious wharf loungers and made straight for the resident commissioner's office. Robert Parkes, a white-haired, somewhat feeble man, was commissioner. He had succeeded Loudon Grant, whose dissipated doings had eventually reached the ears of his chiefs and resulted in the one-time resident commissioner being reduced in rank and relegated to that duty of commissioner at Nyoka which Martin Sefton had once held.

Kaspa was glad to find a stranger in authority; someone who did not know his history and would not be likely to interfere with his projects. He introduced himself as a Canadian, traveling for pleasure, and announced his intention of making his way through the Bomogo country into Portuguese territory, where his father had once had a mission station. His papers were all in order, and Parkes was pleased to offer him all the assistance in his power. He also extended the hospitality of his house, but Kaspa was not anxious to stay at the coast. He declared his intention of leaving for the interior that day if he could make the necessary arrangements.

"I am afraid that will be impossible," said Parkes, "unless you could purchase a truck and travel to Nyoka. There you might pick up the carriers you need and leave your truck for sale or return to Chola; but to do that you need to have some knowledge of the country and the native language."

"You forget that I was born here," said Kaspa. "I told you my father was a missionary across the border."

The commissioner smiled. That simplified matters. His guest probably knew more about this district than he did, for he had only been here a few months.

Kaspa got his motor truck—a rattletrap concern, the property of an Indian trader. It was good enough for his purpose. At dusk that night he drove out of the station upon the white sandy road to Nyoka, and Parkes would have been horrified had he known that Kaspa was alone on the lory, without servant or guide.

The palm groves and the sand changed to thorny bush and red earth. The sky was dark blue and strewn with stars, and a whispering wind blew in his face from off the high veld. By midnight the bush was beginning to open out and there were long glades sleeping in the starlight. Kaspa saw zebra, impolla, wildebeeste—all the animals of the veld, but one, and that one of the finest. A little stream crossed the road, and there he stopped his engine and rested, listening to the sounds of the night. The stream must be a tributary of the big river, and he wondered if he had ever crossed it further down where it joined the Nyoka. He stayed there a long time, like one in a dream, listening to the old remembered sounds of the night to which he had been so long a stranger. Cicadas rasping, tree-frogs chirping, the yelp of a distant jackal and the hunger-cry of a hyena—all had a message for him, and then suddenly he heard the sound for which he had been waiting.

There were four of them, his keen ear told him, and they were coming upwind in his direction. The wild melancholy call sighed and rumbled among the thorn trees, just as it had done in the days when Kaspa had heard it and shuddered, a helpless cub with only Kali to protect him from the authors of that dreadful sound. They came nearer and nearer, and Kaspa leaned against the wing of the lorry waiting. He found himself trembling as the lions approached. Would they recognize him as one of them, or did the man scent cling to him so strongly that they would run from him in disgust?

Presently he saw dim slouching figures crossing the road ahead. He raised his voice and gave the greeting call. The lions stopped, and one turned toward him. It was a fine old yellow-mane, evidently the pack-leader.

Kaspa called again, and the lion answered. There was a note of inquiry in his voice as he came down the road toward the dark lorry. "A friend, a friend," Kaspa grunted. "Greeting, brother, what hunting?" But the lion had stopped. A startled snort broke from him, and he retreated at a trot into the bush. Kaspa heard him telling his followers of the trap by the roadside—the scent of man combined with the voice of a lion. Kaspa suffered a spasm of fury. This was what man's life had done for him; he had lost touch with the wild and become an outcast from both lives alike. He wrenched off his civilized clothes and stood naked in the cool wind. From a suitcase he took a belt, an old monkey-skin girdle and a hunting knife in a brass-studded sheath, the finest that money could buy.

In a few minutes he was attired once again as Kaspa, the lion-man, and as such he strode off into the bush without a backward glance at the lorry and its contents. He was free, free at last. The long months of waiting dropped from him with his civilized garments; he slipped through the thorns on bare noiseless feet, and unconsciously his throat shaped and constricted itself to a language as wild and remote from the speech of man as the veld itself. Kaspa went forward through the darkness, treading like a lion and grunting the warning of his presence to those abroad in the night. He headed for the upper Nyoka and the cave in the donga. It had been his intention when he left the coast to travel by lorry as far as a road existed and then to strike out on foot. He had pictured himself rejoining his old companions, not as a lion, but as a man, a superior being who might enjoy the privileges of humanity with the freedom of the wild animal.

The Bomogo would sell him land, and he could settle down as a respectable colonist whose nocturnal activities were of no concern to any one but himself. All these plans had now been abandoned. It was easy enough to make them in the common-sense atmosphere of a ship's smoking room, but the smell of the bush in his nostrils, and the call of the kings of the veld had in a moment stripped the veneer of civilization from him and left him a wild lion again, who could be content with nothing but absolute freedom from the ways of man.

He regretted nothing. His experiences in Canada had taught him the cunning and power of man, and he would use that knowledge for the benefit of himself and his pack. At will he could resume the habiliments of humanity and penetrate into the cities, and with his great wealth procure those things which might be necessary to himself and his friends. Horton had not done him a bad turn when he captured him and shipped him into another world than the one he knew. He pushed steadily onward, disregarding the many attractions about him. His purpose was to reach the highlands as soon as possible, for he was consumed with anxiety for the fate of his old companions, of whom he had heard nothing since that day when they roared their farewells along the river bank to the captive held fast in net and ropes.

The morning found him still trekking. He had slaked his thirst at the river and was now feeling the wind of the higher levels upon his face. He was tired and hungry; he no longer possessed that extraordinary endurance which had once been his, but he comforted himself with the belief that it would return. He had kept his muscles pliant and his body fit during the period of his captivity. Occasionally he saw traces of the Momogo, and once a herd of cattle streaming out to graze in the early dawn, but he made long detours to avoid observation, and the natives had no knowledge that the lion-god had returned to his hunting grounds.

When the sun was high he curled up in a thicket and slept, awakening again with the cool breeze of evening and resuming his journey. When the first star glittered in the dusky sky he reached the waterhole where Cloete had camped long ago, and from there he saw the tall hills like a wall across the horizon. He made his way to the water and lay down to drink his fill and rest. The object of his quest was at hand and now again those doubts oppressed him. How would Dogo and Ruka receive him? He was not the same Kaspa that had been taken from them over two years ago; his mind had altered, and for all he knew something fundamental in his make-up had altered with it. There was the aura of man about him, and a wild lion might well refuse to recognize his old playmate in the restrained, thoughtful person who assumed the garb of the wild but reeked of men and cities. He lay watching the water running beneath his face, through that pool wherein he had often bathed and watched the elephants at their play. The old horror and despair came upon him as he looked at the tree to which he had been tied while his enemies gathered to discuss his fate about their cooking fires.

To this spot he had come after his first attack upon the Bomogo manyatta, and he felt again the contempt of man that had been bred of that experience. He had been a different Kaspa in those days, wild and free and supremely confident; no world but that of the veld and forest existed for him, and now he had traveled in steamships and motor cars, dined in hotels and patronized theaters. Could it be possible that they would take him back as their friend and leader?

The velvet darkness deepened, gloom settled about the river valley, and fireflies began to flit through the shadows. Suddenly arose a sound upon the night. "Oa-aargh, oo-aargh, oo-aargh-a-h, argh-argh-argh-h!" Beginning on a high crescendo note it pealed out, was repeated three times, and followed by a series of diminishing roars on a melancholy, falling scale.

Kaspa leaped to his feet and stood straining his ears. He knew that voice; often had he heard it in his waking hours and of late in his dreams. It was Ruka sounding the rallying call for the night's hunting. He threw back his head and answered—a slightly tremulous and too eager cry perhaps, but none the less a true roar such as can only be uttered by the king of beasts upon his own domain. There was a moment's silence, and then a chorus of sound came in waves out of the blackness. There was surprise and a sort of hunger in the questing notes of it. Kaspa knew that afar in the night lithe forms were in motion towards him.

Motionless he stood, his heart pounding in his breast as he awaited the realization of his hopes or their bitter disappointment. A long dark form came out of the trees and paused to gaze. A low enquiring grunt came from it. Kaspa replied with the one sound, "Ruka!" Ruka dashed at him. In a moment they were rolling over and over like a pair of cubs, pulling and patting. The deep purr of the lion resounded throughout the glade. Dogo came hurrying to join that gleeful wrestle on the soft Kikuyu grass. Kaspa extricated himself and sat up; the lions crouched at his feet mewing and purring like a couple of big cats.

How Coughs and Colds Yield to Creosote

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (Adv.)

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

TODAY we shall continue with the advice of yesterday for the woman of reduced budget. Our readers' next problem concerns her favorite hairdresser. Since a permanent wave is essential, she is going to skimp a little on something else and arrange for one. Weekly shampoos and finger waves at the hairdressers, however, can no longer be considered. Shampooing the hair at home is not difficult and with a little practice, you can become quite skillful at wave setting.

The hair must be kept in lovely, healthy condition by vigorous brushing and scalp massage night and morning. Before retiring at night, use an atomizer to spray the hair lightly with water. Comb and press waves into place with the sides of the fingers, and little side curls may be twisted around fingers, flattened out and secured with bobbie or hair pins. Spray hair again, a little more this time, and cover with a net until thoroughly dry. This simple, daily method of spraying lightly with water and coaxing the hair into flattering waves will keep your hair well groomed always. I suggest spraying with plain water because the hair dries more quickly and can be coaxed to fall into natural waves more easily than if a heavy waving solution is used.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

CALL it what you will, change its name with the seasons, change its top and change its—er, skirt—and it is still a jumper dress!

But this summer the jumper dress goes through all sorts of manipulations, nice, practical ones, too. For instance, there is a skirt; and there are mysterious hooks and eyes and clasps, all cunningly concealed, or even flat buttons which make no attempt at concealment. And then two or three sets of suspenders, or galluses—or whatever you want to call 'em! These to hook or button onto the skirt, to be worn with a guimpe or vestee, and to make a one-piece jumper dress out of the whole thing.

The idea being, of course, that you wear the skirt with a separate, and either matching or contrasting jacket, and a blouse. Getting service out of your jumper dress in this manner—by making it do as a separate skirt as well as a dress!

And the jumper dress is cunning. Youthful, therefore suitable only to the young or the small woman, or one with a piquant face which hints of the saucy or the boyish. For any other type of woman, any of the sophisticated types, or any of the mature types, a jumper dress is ridiculous—no matter under what name it might hide its true identity—the jumper dress, I mean.

The Meanderer

Chicken chop suey is yours for 45 cents a pint in a farm-to-home market out Bethesda way. This market is open only on Saturdays and Wednesdays. How is that as a helpful suggestion for your special little week-end party or for that midnight spread after the show tonight?

Washington, too, offers the olives stuffed with anchovies, of which the Meanderer read in a smart New York magazine. A small can of these irresistibles costs only 20 cents in an importer's shop in a centrally located downtown market. This importer offers you, too, Sicilian ripe olives for 25 cents a quart.

Pickled egg plants stuffed with celery may please even the fussiest food connoisseur among your guests. The Meanderer knows a little shop near the Public Library where the pickled egg plant is sold. There, too, are Calamata olives, the like of which she has never tasted. They are ripe olives, but are dark reddish in color.

Whole-grain caviar, large grained and choice, of a famous brand, sells in 3-ounce jars for $1 in this little shop near the Public Library which it will pay you to visit and learn more about food than the Meanderer will ever have room in this column to tell.

For your rolls I'd suggest your going to a shop which sells what it calls "penny rolls" at 12 cents a dozen. There you can choose mixed dozens for your party and be sure to please each guest. The "penny rolls" are sold in bakeries in the heart of the shopping district, one on Fourteenth street, one on F street.

And if you want assorted cold meats for your party, suppose you call the Meanderer to know where to order an assortment as choice and complete as can be found in Washington. This cold meat dealer will deliver any amount of cold meat to any address within the district.

Telephone questions about items in the Meanderer's column to The Washington Post, National 4205, Extension 19, or write to the Meanderer, The Washington Post, inclosing self-addressed stamped envelope for reply.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"AQUARIUS."

IF February 10 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this day are from 9:45 a. m. to 10:45 a. m., from 5 p. m. to 6:20 p. m. and from 8 p. m. to 9 p. m. The danger periods are from 1 p. m. to 1:45 p. m. and from 10 p. m. to 11 p. m.

You may feel dissatisfied on this February 10, restless and not too content with your present lot. This should not be construed as a bad sign, but is in all probability an outward sign that you are not only willing but ready to go further along the worthwhile path of life.

The child born on this February 10 will probably have a rather high-strung and nervous temperament. He will be inclined to be restless, both mentally and physically. Quick to grasp things he will be ever on the lookout for something new to tackle. A good memory for faces.

Born on February 10, yours will probably be a long and generally healthy life. You do not allow yourself excess of any sort; yours is a well-planned and orderly life. You have great will power. Your greatest fault lies quite possibly in your desire to dominate others; you like to boss.

Successful people born on February 10:

John E. Thomson, president of Pennsylvania Railroad.

Henry M. Guernsey, physican and author.

Isham G. Harris, senator.

Ira Remsen, chemist.

William C. Noble, sculptor.

Augustus P. Cooke, naval officer.

WE make no extravagant claims for Vicks Voratone Antiseptic. It is simply the best oral antiseptic Vicks Chemists could produce. And they were aided by the chemists, bacteriologists, and pharmacologists of our 16 allied organizations, in America, England, and Germany.

They examined the whole field of oral antiseptics. Some they found were too weak . . . a few far too strong for regular use in the mouth. Most were very good . . . but all much too expensive.

So they produced a balanced antiseptic . . . mild enough to be used day in and day out without risk to delicate membranes . . . strong enough to do everything an oral antiseptic can safely do.

You can use Vicks Antiseptic in the usual way for all your customary uses. And Vicks Antiseptic has this additional unique advantage . . . Born in a depression year, it is priced accordingly. Large 10-ounce bottle . . . a usual 75¢ value . . . for only 35¢.

Stocks Increase Advances Under Shorts' Run to Cover

Gain of 1.1 Points Recorded as Sales Advance to 1,080,123 Shares.

New York, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Encouraged by its own recent performance, the stock market lifted another notch or two today as volume again expanded. It was the fourth successive day of rising prices after a period of stubborn resistance around last fall's lows.

The market was virtually through with its advance by noon. Prices thereafter fluctuated narrowly, sagging a little from the highs toward the close, but retaining numerous net gains of a point or more. Bonds were strong in most categories, while commodities ruled steady to firm. Stock sales totaled 1,080,123 shares.

The slow upward movement during the first three days of this week apparently threw a scare into short traders, who covered rather briskly this morning. Recent weak spots, including the Tobaccos, American Telephone, Standard Oil of New Jersey and U. S. Steel preferred, recovered readily, but advances in the rail division offered good leadership and the general list seemed disposed to tag those equities, perhaps on the theory that carriers had done well in the recent past and would bear followings.

Around noon advances of one to two points were plentiful and well distributed. By closing time this improvement had been shaded, but the final tone was firm. American Telephone, after heavy short covering in the first hour, cut in half a two-point rise. The two U. S. Steel issues, together with American Can, Standard of New Jersey and New York Central, Santa Fe, Delaware & Hudson, American Tobacco "B," Consolidated Gas, Byers, Chesapeake Corporation, Liggett & Myers, Kansas City Southern and U. S. Smelting, among others, finished 1 to 1½ higher.

Coca Cola and New York Shipbuilding preferred were prominent, each up around 5 points at the best. Allied Chemical was also strong, while Union Pacific, favored by the expected "regular dividend," rose 3. The average net gain, 1 1-10 points in the index of 90 shares, was the largest in approximately a month.

News of market interest was not particularly abundant, but Wall street tried to make the most of what came to hand. A rise in clearings above a year ago, for the first time in more than two years, received wide publicity, and though inferences therein were favorable, it was recalled that February 1 settlements at New York had figured in the total, whereas in the corresponding week of 1932 they did not. Word that aid for mortgage title and guaranty companies was rapidly being put in workable form met favorable comment; existence of such plans had been known for some time.

Congress heard from a railroad spokesman that the Government would have to be more generous with credit if some carriers were to be saved. There were conflicting estimates as to what tomorrow's U. S. Steel Corporation unfilled tonnage statement would show. Wall street hoped freight car loadings last week had turned upward, as indicated by preliminary figures, thereby fortifying accumulating evidence that some business improvement is taking place.

What the Stock Market Did

	Thur.	Wed.
Advances	402	252
Declines	73	121
Unchanged	98	135
Total issues	573	508

Stocks.

Larger gains were recorded by stocks on the fourth consecutive day of advancing. Short covering pushed the average rise to 1.1 points. The turnover increased to 1,080,123 shares.

Bonds.

Activity was broadened and loans climbed higher with an average gain of five-tenths of a point. Sales volume increased to $13,061,000.

Curb.

The best rally in four weeks sent curb prices upward. Trading quickened and the volume mounted to 150,000 shares. Utilities gained. Oils were firm. Industrials advanced.

Wheat.

The heaviest advance in wheat for a month was lost under profit-taking. Corn and oats were dragged lower by wheat. May wheat sold at 47⅞ to 48 cents.

Cotton.

A 60-cent per bale rise was trimmed to 3 to 6 points gain by realizing and scattered selling. May closed at 6.15. Liverpool reported a quiet market with the trade buying.

Steel Prices Unchanged.

New York, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Steel prices unchanged.

BONDS PUSH HIGHER AS SALES INCREASE

Half Point Gain Is Scored With Trading Volume of $13,061,000.

New York, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—In a market of broadened activity, bond prices continued their upward course today at an accelerated pace. There were many features of strength in all groups and the average advance of ½ point was the sharpest recorded for some time. Dealings amounted to $13,061,000 compared with $9,560,000 yesterday.

The encouraging behavior of the market was again traceable to a very lively demand for railroad obligations.

Traders said that buying interest has received considerable impetus from expectations that the forthcoming report of the national transportation committee might prove an effective opening wedge toward gaining for the carriers some relief from their present difficulties.

There were few roads which failed to contribute a gain or two to the day's record. Jumps of two and three points were quite numerous, affecting such carriers as Burlington, Pennsylvania, Santa Fe, Baltimore & Ohio, Big Four, Chesapeake & Ohio, Erie, and New York Central. Most of the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Milwaukee bonds were heavy and one or two of the North Westerns yielded some ground.

U. S. Governments were inactive, but generally firmer. Several of the Treasury issues regained a part of yesterday's losses. Foreign loans were generally strong. There was further improvement in parts of the South American list. The German group was irregular.

In the utility division demand for the high grade issues outweighed that in the less well secured descriptions, and the same cleavage was noted in industrial loans. Substantial gains were shown in Columbia Gas & Electric 5s, Detroit Edison 5s, Bethlehem Steel 5s, Chile Copper 6s and National Dairy Products 5¼s among others.

Pound Sterling Regarded As World's Trade Power

Buenos Aires, Feb. 9 (S.I.P.A.).—Off the gold standard the pound sterling may be, but it is none the less the most influential currency of the world today. One may look toward every point of the compass and currencies linked or moving with the pound are apparent. This gives point to the very active propaganda now being made in Argentina to link the peso with the British currency.

It is urged that with a large export balance now established Argentina could link the peso to the pound without fear of external depreciation of the Argentine currency, while fluctuations in grain prices, due to variations in sterling exchange, would be eliminated. The question, however, is whether Argentina wishes a peso that does not fluctuate. At times, when world prices for grain have been weak, the peso has been allowed to drop for the purpose of easing grain movements. On the other hand, stocks of imported goods are low, and a stronger peso would help the import trade, which must be considered also.

With its influential position, a pound sterling based on gold would be of the utmost help in stabilizing world trade. Nearly 40 countries today take their cue from the prices of the pound, and a firm sterling would be the greatest single step that could be taken toward international price stability. It is believed that settlement of the British war debt might do much to make possible a return to the gold standard by Great Britain.

BANK OF FRANCE.

Paris, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—The weekly statement of the Bank of France shows the following changes in francs: Gold increased 273,000,000; sight balances abroad decreased 9,000,000; bills discounted at home decreased 580,000,000; bills bought abroad increased 1,000,000; advances increased 87,000,000; circulation increased 1,248,000,000; current accounts decreased 2,073,000,000. Minneapolis, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Flour unchanged. Shipments, 16,003. Bran, 9.50@10.00.

German Duty Hits Live-Stock Imports

Tariff Up to 500 Per Cent Also Includes Lard; Americas Lose.

Berlin, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Tariff increases up to 500 per cent, calculated to curtail drastically if not to prohibit imports of lard and live stock, were ordered today by Alfred Hugenberg, minister of economics and agriculture.

The new duties, effective February 15, will hit exporters in North America and South America particularly. About two-thirds of Germany's lard is imported from the United States. The 1931 import value of that American commodity was $12,000,000. Last year's figures have not been compiled.

A statement accompanying the order explained that the tariffs are intended to protect German live stock prices, which are now about 40 per cent under the prewar level. Items which will be affected, with the new and old rates in marks, are: Live stock, 50 against 24.5; sheep, 45 against 22.5; swine, 50 against 40; fresh meats, 100 against 45; ordinary cuts, 150 against 60; choice cuts, 280 against 120; lard, 50 against 10.

Steamboat Board Reelects Norment

At the annual meeting of stockholders of the Norfolk & Washington Steamboat Co., held yesterday at the company's general offices in this city, all directors were reelected, as follows: Woodbury Blair, E. C. Brandenburg, Henry N. Brawner, jr., Wrisley Brown, G. W. Forsberg, William D. Hoover, Clarence F. Norment, Clarence P. Norment, jr., George P. Secks, Odell S. Smith and George L. Starkey.

At a subsequent meeting of the directors the following officers were reelected: Clarence P. Norment, chairman of the board; Clarence F. Norment, jr., president; G. W. Forsberg, first vice president; E. C. Bradenburg, second vice president and general counsel; Odell S. Smith, secretary and treasurer, and J. Allen Riordon, general manager.

The general manager continued the following officials in their present positions: W. H. Callahan, traffic manager; I. S. Walker, general passenger agent; J. A. Maxwell, auditor; G. E. BANK OF ENGLAND.

London, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—The weekly statement of the Bank of England shows the following changes in pounds: Total reserve increased 742,000; circulation increased 70,000; bullion increased 813,000; other securities increased 138,000; public deposits decreased 28,744,000; other deposits increased 30,526,000; notes reserve increased 734,000; government securities increased 930,000. The proportion of the bank's reserve to liability is 30.99 per cent, compared with 30.86 last week. Rate of discount, 2 per cent.

CURB PRICES RALLY IN HEAVIER TRADING

Utilities Lead Advances in Turnover Volume of 150,000 Shares.

New York, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—The best rally in four weeks developed in today's curb market, and trading quickened, the turnover of 150,000 shares showing a gain of 50 per cent over yesterday's small volume.

The market appeared to be influenced to a considerable degree by its technical position, and moved in sympathy with the big board. The drying up of selling this week finally prompted some fairly active short covering.

The utilities were generally firm, with gains of around 1 to 2 points appearing in American Gas & Electric, Commonwealth Edison, Consolidated Gas of Baltimore, Electric Bond & Share common and preferred issues, and Duke Power. American & Foreign Power warrants were active and firm. It was announced that financing had been arranged for its Shanghai subsidiary.

Oils were moderately firm, although new developments in the gasoline price situation were lacking. Gulf gained nearly a point, and several other issues were up fractionally. In the mining issues, Newmont gained 1½, possibly in response to reports of firmer copper in the foreign markets, but the gold mining issues again encountered profit taking. Lake Shore losing early a point.

In the industrials, such issues as Aluminum and Parker Rust rose about a point, and Safety Car Heating advanced 5 in a thin market. Among lower prices issues, Cord, Deere and General Aviation were fractionally higher. Quaker Oats, a thinly traded issue, however, sold at 80, off 4½.

REICHSBANK STATEMENT.

Berlin, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—The Reichsbank statement as of February 7, shows the following changes in reichsmarks: Gold and bullion increased 385,000; reserve in foreign currencies decreased 2,713,000; bills of exchange and checks decreased 92,319,000; silver and other coins increased 9,532,000; notes on other banks increased 4,809,000; advances decreased 19,130,000; investments increased 118,000; other assets decreased 26,882,000; notes in circulation decreased 95,587,000; other maturing obligations decreased 29,289,000; other liabilities decreased 4,737,000. Total gold holdings, 822,288,000. Note coverage, 28.4 per cent. Rate of discount, 4 per cent.

GOLD MOVEMENT.

New York, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Gold stocks of the United States were reduced $15,999,000 today through an increase of that amount in metal held under earmark for foreign account.

Although the New York Federal Reserve Bank made no explanation of the transaction, it was assumed in banking circles that this sum had been taken by England which has supposedly been earmarking substantial amounts of gold here for the past fortnight or longer.

The dollars necessary for such transaction accrue through operations of the British exchange equalization fund which has been selling the pound to forestall too rapid an accumulation of funds at London whither money normally flows at this time of year. Dollar exchange now held by the fund here is believed to exceed $100,000,000.

Gold thus earmarked will not be added to the Bank of England's reserves unless the exchange fund sells it to the bank.

No exports or imports of gold were reported today by the Federal Reserve Bank.

Dried Fruits Steady.

New York, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Dried fruits steady, unchanged.

COTTON NETS GAINS IN SPITE OF LOSSES

60-Cent Per Bale Advance Trimmed to Rise of 3 to 6 Points.

New York, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—After rising about 60 cents a bale, cotton fell back in the late trading today.

Considerable realizing or scattered selling was encountered at about the highs of yesterday and after advancing to 6.22, or 12 points net higher, May eased off to 6.15 and closed at that figure, with the general market closing steady at net advances of 3 to 6 points.

The opening was 4 to 6 points higher on trade buying and a moderate commission house demand. Disappointing Liverpool cables were offset by further reports of a fair business in the cotton goods market, and indications of continued light offerings from the South.

After selling at 6.10 for March and 6.35 for July, or about 11 to 13 points net higher, the market turned easier. Realizing increased toward the close, probably influenced by reactions in grain and stocks, and a little more Southern selling made its appearance. March closed at 6.03 and July at 6.27, or about 7 to 8 points off from the highs.

Weather Still Unfavorable.

The weather map showed a continuance of unfavorable conditions for the movement and early new crop preparations in the South. Some thought these conditions might be connected with the absence of Southern selling here in any appreciable volume.

Liverpool cables reported a small, quiet market with local and trade buying supplied by hedging and said Manchester was quiet although there was a fair amount of price testing by possible buyers.

Exports today, 35,013, making 5,277,290 so far this season. Port receipts, 10,329; U. S. port stocks, 4,695,598. Fertilizer tag sales in the 13 Southern States for January showed an increase of 20 per cent over last year, but were 40 per cent smaller than two years ago.

Cotton Seed Oil.

Bleachable cotton seed oil was quiet today, but in absence of any selling pressure the tone was steady in sympathy with cotton and lard.

Final prices were 6 points higher on March, the only month traded in with total sales of only three contracts, including an exchange of one lot of March for September at 34 points. Bleachable spot closed 3.55; March, 3.75; May, 3.85; July, 3.95, and September, 4.05.

4 Commodity Markets Consolidation Assured

New York, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Union of four New York commodity markets was assured today when the National Raw Silk Exchange approved the consolidation which had previously been sanctioned in the Hide, Rubber and Metal Exchanges. The new organization will be known as Commodity Exchange, Inc.

Operating details remain to be worked out, but it is expected the four markets will begin to function as one beginning May 1. Negotiations for the merger were begun about two and a half years ago.

HEAVY WHEAT RISE IS LOST IN SELLING

Profit Taking Defeats Gains, Dragging Corn and Oats Lower.

Chicago, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Setbacks of grain values late today followed an early brisk rise to the highest point reached by wheat in almost a month.

Profit-taking on the part of new speculative buyers of wheat, together with persistent sales attributed to Government-sponsored sources, did much to offset the market influence of crop damage advices and of reports that two additional cold waves were threatened, one working downward from Alaska and one working eastward from the Pacific northwest. Late estimates of fresh export business at Winnipeg were disappointing, and Argentine shipments this week were large, about 1,000,000 bushels more than last week.

Wheat closed easier, unchanged to ¾ down, compared with yesterday's finish; corn, ⅛ to ⅜ off; oats, unchanged to ⅜ decline, and provisions unchanged to 15 cents lower.

Buying for Overseas.

Only about 300,000 bushels of North American wheat were purchased today for overseas, and the bearish effect of this circumstance was emphasized by a decline in Canadian exchange. After about a cent a bushel jump in prices, buying here slackened, influenced more or less by relative heaviness of the Winnipeg market. An undertone of strength pervaded Chicago dealings, however, owing largely to general belief that there was little likelihood of the weather moderating soon.

Comprehensive reports current today apparently indicated that serious damage to wheat by unusual cold was increased by preceding absence of moisture. These reports stressed assertions that, especially in Kansas, prolonged dry weather ahead of abnormal low temperatures had been detrimental, and had curtailed the wheat output of former years. A better domestic milling demand for wheat was in evidence today, but failed to offset the late reactionary trend of prices.

Corn and oats swayed with wheat. Country offerings of corn to arrive here were larger.

Provisions weakened, responsive to downturns of hog values.

$5,719,775 Is Earned By Investment Trusts

New York, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—The Commercial Investment Trusts Corporation reports for 1932 net income of $5,719,775, compared with $7,554,998 in 1931. After preferred dividends the balance for the common was equal to $2.04 a share, against $2.54 in the previous year.

The balance sheet shows current assets of $116,310,483 and current liabilities of $11,478,727. Cash at the end of the year amounted to $14,738,532, and there were no bank loans outstanding.

The net volume of bills and accounts purchased by the company during the year totaled $317,397,520, compared with $374,093,766 in 1932.

Financing Is Arranged For Shanghai Power

New York, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—The American & Foreign Power Co., today announced that new financing had been arranged for the Shanghai Power Co. Its subsidiary, in the form of a first mortgage bond issue of $33,000,000 silver taels, underwritten by the Hongkong & Shanghai Banking Corporation. This is equivalent to approximately $9,250,000, at the current rate of exchange.

Of the total issue, 15,000,000 taels were offered publicly in Shanghai today, at 96 and interest. The issue bears a 5½ per cent coupon rate, and matures in 40 years. The Shanghai Power Co., arranged to buy the property from the international settlement of Shanghai in 1929. The final amount due, and payable this year, amounts to 28,000,000 taels, which is being financed through the bond issue.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Preliminary balance sheet figures of Continental Can Co. as of December 31, show a $4,000,000 increase in cash to a total of about $13,000,000, together with a substantial reduction in inventory and receivables, says an official estimate. The company recently purchased a building in Memphis, Tenn., which it will utilize as a can-making plant, also authorized construction of an additional warehouse at San Jose, Calif.

Firmer wholesale food prices in the first week of February brought a rise of 2 cents in Bradstreet's price index of those products. The composite was lifted to $1.51. Butter and eggs were among the items to show gains.

Stockholders of Blue Ridge Corporation today approved the proposal to adjust the investment trust's book value of investments as of December 31 to market prices on "an estimated fair value" on that date.

Shareholders of Kelsey-Hayes Corporation today voted to dissolve the corporation in accordance with the reorganization plan which provides for acquisition of the assets by the new Kelsey-Hayes Wheel Co.

Zinc stocks in the United States on January 31 totaled 129,524 short tons compared with 124,705 at the end of December, and 129,909 on January 31, 1932, says the American Zinc Institute. January production was 19,859 tons against 18,489 in December and 22,471 a year ago. Shipments amounted to 15,040 tons, slightly decreased from the December total of 15,582 tons.

UNION PACIFIC VOTES USUAL $1.50 RETURN

A. T. & T. Reports Earnings of $145,906,909 on 1932 Operation.

New York, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Directors of the Union Pacific Railroad today declared a dividend of $1.50 a share on the common stock, similar to the payments made in the three previous quarters. The disbursement is payable April 1 to stock of record March 1.

Directors of J. I. Case Co. today declared a dividend of $1 a share on the 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock which had been on a $1.75 quarterly basis. The dividend is payable April 1 to holdings of record March 12.

The New York Shipbuilding Corp. today declared dividends of 10 cents each on the participating and founders' shares.

The former had received no payments since 1927 and the founders' issue nothing since 1925 when an exchange was made for stock in the former company of the same name.

A regular dividend of $1.75 was also voted on the preferred stock. All are payable April 1 to holdings of record March 20.

The preliminary report of American Gas & Electric Co. for the twelve months ended December 31 shows net income of $11,726,703, equal to $2.31 a common share. This compares with net of $16,671,135, or $3.64 a common share for 1931.

The American Telephone & Telegraph Co.'s annual statement, issued today, shows net income for 1932 of $143,908,909, equivalent to $7.82 a share on the average amount of capital stock outstanding during the year. For 1931 the company reported net income of $166,666,533, or $9.05 a share.

Dividends paid during the year exceeded net income by $22,047,694, and this amount was charged to surplus. Dividends received from the Associated Bell Companies totaled $137,379,816, of which about $22,400,000 was not earned, but taken from subsidiary company surpluses. In 1931 the Bell companies paid total dividends of $150,135,883 to the parent company, of which approximately $3,400,000 was not earned.

RAW SUGAR—Quieter early today and as refiners had secured enough stock to take care of immediate requirements they were showing no interest, although there was further offerings at last paid prices or 2.70 for spots. No sales were reported, but it was revealed that yesterday's business totaled much more than originally reported, additional lots of 36,000 bags of Puerto Rico going to local refiner for February shipment at 2.70, and about 100,000 bags of Philippines to outport refiners and operators for February-March and March-April shipment at 2.71. Futures opened unchanged to 1 point lower and later showed net losses of 2 to 3 points under scattered liquidation prompted by increased offerings in the spot market and the disappointing showing of London.

REFINED SUGAR—Steady, but demand was light. Prices were unchanged at 3.90 for fine granulated. The domestic sugar bureau reports total deliveries of all United States beet sugar companies in January this year at 1,858,184 bags, against 1,966,220 bags of January, 1932.

SYMPHONY OFFERS SPRIGHTLY CONCERT

One of Schubert's Works Is Presented First Time in Capital.

Presenting for the first time in Washington the "Symphony No. 5 in B Flat" of Franz Schubert, the National Symphony Orchestra, under the leadership of Dr. Hans Kindler, played yesterday at Constitution Hall their thirteenth Thursday concert, with Marcel Tabuteau, solo oboist, as guest artist.

The "Concerto Grosso in G Minor" of George Frederick Handel was Mr. Tabuteau's contribution to an afternoon of the more lilting of symphonic music. In the grave, allegro, sarabande and closing allegro movements of the concerto, the soloist, accompanied by the orchestra, offered a truly unique piece.

The Schubert symphony, in contrast with the more widely played "Unfinished" and C Major symphonies, was more lilting and sprightly, more in keeping with the more popular of the composer's songs. The allegro, andante con moto, menuetto and finale (allegro vivace) movements combined to make this Washington premiere one to be long remembered.

Opening the program was a transcription of Johann Sebastian Bach's "Adagio," made for this orchestra by Jacques Posell, principal contrabass of the organization. The "Roumanian Rhapsody No. 2" of Georges Enesco, together with the closing number, the overture "Carnaval Romain" of Hector Berlioz, gave the opportunity for a demonstration of the full power of the orchestra, the strings and woodwinds bearing the brunt of the service in the earlier numbers.

The "Carnaval Romain," being an overture arrangement of special numbers in the composer's ill-fated opera, "Benvenuto Cellini," closed in musical splendor, terminating a program easily the equal of any of the National Symphony Orchestra.

Thomas Ewing, Jr., Dies in New York

Bishop Freeman to Direct Services With Burial at Yonkers.

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, Feb. 9.—Thomas Ewing, jr., president and director of the Alexander Smith & Sons Carpet Co., of Yonkers, N. Y., which was founded by his great-grandfather, Alexander Smith, died last night at his home, 720 Park avenue, New York, after a brief illness of pneumonia. He was 35 years old.

Private funeral services will be held at Mr. Ewing's home here at 12:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, with the Right Rev. James Edward Freeman, Bishop of Washington, officiating. Interment will be in the family plot in Oakland Cemetery, Yonkers.

Mr. Ewing was the son of Thomas Ewing, who was United States Commissioner of Patents in President Wilson's administration and has been practicing patent law in New York since 1917. His grandfather was Thomas Ewing, a Civil War general. His mother was Anna Phillips Cochran, daughter of William F. Cochran. His uncle was Alexander Smith Cochran, former head of the carpet company and grandson of its founder. Mr. Cochran died on June 20, 1926. In his will he left his residuary estate of $19,166,046 to Thomas Ewing, jr. The late Gifford A. Cochran was another uncle.

Mrs. Ewing survives, with two infant sons, Thomas Ewing, 3d, and Alexander Cochran Ewing. Also surviving is a sister, Mrs. Newbold Noyes, of Washington.

Mrs. Thiebaud Dies After Brief Illness

Native of New York Came to Capital During Civil War.

Mrs. Emma Harrington Thiebaud, 79, daughter of Henry William Harrington, representative from Indiana during President Lincoln's administration, died Wednesday in Emergency Hospital following a short illness. Mrs. Thiebaud was born in the Genesee Valley, N. Y., and at the age of 3 moved with her parents to Madison, Ind., where Judge Harrington practiced law for many years. Her mother was Abigail Harrison Harrington.

The Harringtons moved to Washington during the Lincoln administration and later went to St. Louis, Mo., where his daughter was married to Charles B. Thiebaud. They subsequently went to Vevoy, Ind. They came to Washington in 1925 when Mr. Thiebaud became ill. He died here in 1926. Mrs. Thiebaud had lived here since that time with her daughter, Mrs. Russell MacDuff, of 1813 F street northwest.

Funeral services were held yesterday at Vevoy. The body was entrained Wednesday night, accompanied by Mrs. MacDuff and her husband.

Dr. John H. Botz Buried.

Funeral services for Dr. John H. Botz, 67, Washington dentist, who died Tuesday in his residence at 1712 New Hampshire avenue, were held yesterday at the W. W. Chambers Co. funeral home, 1400 Chapin street. Interment was in Fort Lincoln Cemetery. Both the funeral services and burial were private.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

WELL, if it isn't one thing, it's something else — a circumstance that may have impressed itself upon you before this.

Marlene Dietrich.

No sooner do you hear about the furore occasioned by Marlene Dietrich's assumption of masculine attire than you begin to get pictures for the Roto section of ebullient Miss Lina Basquette dashing out of her New York hotel similarly clad and with a handsome German shepherd dog on a stout leash to keep the admiring crowd at bay; you run into girlish looking men on the streets of the Capital and altogether wonder what the world is coming to—if anything!

But out on the coast where the film colony is, the thing is really getting serious. I quote good old Hubbard Keavy, head man of our Hollywood feather-in-the-breeze department:

"This town is like a house divided against itself—all on account of Marlene Dietrich and her trouser costumes.

"Feminine Hollywood either wears pants or it abhors them. There is no halfway measure. They either get into them or stay out of them altogether.

"'Not all the world is panting for a change,' says Madge Evans, herself a slave to slacks and pajamas but still straddling the fence, so to speak, about pants.

"Bettie Davis, also an anti-panter, says it would be just as reasonable for the men to wear women's clothes.

"Joan Crawford likes to wear slacks around the house, but she won't be convinced she would look well in junior's full dress suit.

"Miss Dietrich, who started all this discussion, says with an air of finality 'They are comfortable.'

"Loretta Young, whose long, slim lines would be a delight to any pants-maker, put her foot down without first sticking it through a trouser leg. 'Unfeminine,' she calls it.

"It's the younger generation of screen players, those who first fell for pajamas and slacks, who are adamant on the matter of pants. They will battle serge with ruffles any time, and not get too ruffled in the surging horde!

"Nor are they fighting alone. Kay Francis, whose clothes start styles, is not one to hide her figure under a shapeless tweed.

"'Let those who grow bulgy wear the baggy trousers,' she advises. 'If American women were to adopt the mannish attire seriously they would grow as careless of their figures as are the men whose clothes they are aping.'

"Which gives everybody something to be mad about!"

If all these warring parties ever really get to the seat of the argument, I trust they will be able to patch it up!

Of unusual interest in connection with the approaching engagement of "The Green Pastures" at the National Theater is the fact that the final performance in this city on Sunday night, February 26, will mark the beginning of the third year of the Marc Connelly play.

The premiere occurred at the Mansfield Theater, New York, on Wednesday evening, February 26, 1930, and a run of 640 performances was achieved at that theater before "The Green Pastures" departed Broadway for its road tour. Nation-wide attention was focused on the play upon its premiere, because it represented the first time that the character of God ever was presented upon the stage in this country.

Commemorating the third anniversary of this extraordinary work, a performance will be given in the National Theater on Sunday night, February 26, for the benefit of the educational fund of the Colored Elks Lodge of Washington.

All profits from that performance will be devoted to the furtherance of the education of worthy young members of the colored race, who, without the assistance afforded by the Elks' fund, would be unable to receive the benefits of a college education. Tickets for this benefit performance are on sale at the Thomas Pharmacy, 1200 U street, as well as at the theater box-office.

Mr. Frank La Falce, mouthpiece of the Warner Theaters in and around the National Capital, is lashed into a frenzy of indecision and asks the dramatic editors to lend him the aid of what is humorously referred to as their better judgment in his dilemma.

"Warner Brothers some months ago brought here 'Congress Dances.' For some weeks we have been considering 'Maedchen in Uniform,'" says Mr. La Falce. "I wonder what reaction you have to this picture—whether Washington would care to see this photoplay that has garnered more publicity (including blobs like this, eh, Frank?) than any other since the coming of sound?

"Please give me your unbiased opinion, whether you care to see it—if you have not already done so—and whether you believe many other Washingtonians would also like to see it at the Metropolitan.

"Upon your response rests our decision whether 'Maedchen in Uniform' is to be presented in this city."

This department can not, of course, pass judgment upon the merit of any picture it has not seen. The preponderance of evidence, however, in this case seems to be entirely on the side of showing the picture to Washington audiences. It has been acclaimed as one of the notable productions in the history of the cinema, whether in this country or abroad.

From Mr. W. A. Whitney of this department's reviewing staff, who viewed the picture in Boston earlier in the season, I learn that certain implications of impropriety that have been made against it are wholly without foundation in fact; that there is no kinship between "Maedchen" and "The Captive" in the likely view of intelligent audiences.

Being heartily averse to condemnation of pictures by groups, categories, classifications or nationalities, I find it difficult to appraise the probable worth of "Maedchen in Uniform" upon any other basis than its individual claim to virtue as an entertainment.

From all reports, its claims in this regard are well founded. So let's see it.

Furthermore, its booking at the Met might occasion another visit to the city of Miss Jean Dalrymple, most charming of the peregrinating publicists. So by all means let's see it! The quicker the better.

It being a specific proviso of these declarations, however, that they neither in whole nor in part constitute any earnest, pledge or guarantee of any box-office receipts whatsoever, either in toto or in any sum thereof, as long as ye two shall live—or is that another contract?

But this U. S. mail business, I find, is largely the bunk. I mean to say that through it come evidences of the crassest ingratitude for kindly offices that are proffered from time to time, even at these prices!

For instance, one of Mr. Brown's gray-clad minions yesterday deposited this ungrateful castigation upon my desk in payment for invaluable services rendered. Can ya imagine!

Dear Nels: Are you baiting me for a rise? Or are you just burning your complexes behind you?

There's nothing "ecstatic" about the Madrilion publicity. In fact, I often fear that it errs on the side of understatement.

Besides, Dr. Bell, didn't you add some trimmings of your own? I know that I referred to "torch songs that scorch the eardrums," and I may have mentioned that Herb Gordon and his boys go in for "caressing rhythms."

But that stuff about "glamorous Havana laved by languorous oceans," and the "dust of dreamy stars" was strictly your own idea. And well you know it! Whadda I care about the wild waves at Havana? My idea of something grand is just to sit and watch that tidal wave of customers pouring into Mr. Borras' elegant eatery.

And what do you mean, you great big this-and-that, by referring to me as a "romantic publicist?" I may be romantic. But a lot of good it does me!

The trouble with you, Nels, I fear, is that you've been overcome by that fragrance of fresh paint that now permeates your office. It nearly got me the other day. Don't be a pretzel just because you're being done over in old ivory.

May we expect a retraction? Or do you want your valentine to be a subpena. Cordially yours, M. H.

Never mind the subpena. I surrender, dear!

By the way, the plum tree out in the back yard has decided not to blossom just yet!

First Lady to Launch New Aircraft Carrier

(Associated Press.)

Mrs. Herbert Hoover will christen and launch the new naval aircraft carrier Ranger at Newport News, Va., at noon on February 25, and then speed back to the White House to attend an Army and Navy reception that night.

The Ranger, now little more than half completed, will join the Lexington and Saratoga and the converted Langley and Wright as naval aircraft carriers.

SCHAAF 2-1 FAVORITE TO BEAT CARNERA TONIGHT

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

AN interetsing phase in the development of the Washington Ball Club is recounted this morning in accompanying columns in conjunction with The Post's current baseball contest and recalls to this department many of the unkind things said about Bucky Harris by fans who never liked him.

The article dealing with the Washington Club in 1923 points out that it was during that year that Donie Bush, in his brief term as manager, piloted into fourth place the seventh-place club of 1922 which was to win a pennant under Bucky Harris in 1924.

There were those unkind enough to say that Bucky Harris, when he took over the management of the Nats in 1924, fell heir to a pennant-winner developed in 1923 by Manager Bush, who was not given a chance to further his policies the next season, when he was dismissed by President Griffith.

Bush Introduced Important Cogs.

This department does not seek to deprive Bucky Harris of the full credit for piloting the Nats into the 1924 pennant after Bush's fourth-place finish in 1923, but it does seem significant that such players as Muddy Ruel, Nemo Leibold, Allen Russell and Fred Marberry, who were such integral factors in the 1924 team's success, were first introduced to Washington by Bush in the preceding season.

The part that these men played in the pennant conquest of the Nats in Harris' first year as manager is a high-light in the history of the Washington club, especially the relief pitching of Marberry and Russell and the reliable catching of Ruel, all of whom came here at the suggestion of Bush.

Harris won the pennant in 1924 with virtually the same club that he took over from Griffith, with the exception of Earl McNeely and Curly Ogden, who joined Harris' 1924 team late in the season and did such yeoman service. The pennant triumph may have been an index into the comparative abilities of Harris and Bush, or it may have been that Bush could have accomplished the same feat with the assistance of McNeely and Ogden. It is a very much mooted question.

Harris Grabbed Ruether, Coveleskie.

But none can deny full credit to Harris for the pennant triumph of 1925. That was the year in which the boy manager of the Nats claimed Stanley Coveleskie and Dutch Ruether on waivers after every other manager in the league scorned their talents, and then saw the two old-timers virtually pitch the Nats into the championship. Harris also went into the ranks of the veterans to claim Joe Harris, whose slugging kept the Nats in the race and almost won the world series from the Pirates.

Donie Bush learned a few years later, however, if he did not already know, that baseball fans are a fickle lot. After catching on as manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates in 1927 and leading the club to the National League pennant, Bush learned that in some quarters he was regarded as merely a lucky manager who had fallen heir to McKechnie's great team of 1926 which all but won the flag. So it goes, or words to that effect.

Old Line Five Wins, 37-28, Over Va.

Wipe Out Cavaliers' 12-to-4 Lead in First Half.

Chase, Snyder and Vincent Star for Maryland.

By DAVE HERMAN.

GAINING revenge for an early season defeat in Charlottesville, University of Maryland's basket ball team overcame Virginia's lead in the first fifteen minutes and then staged a strong finish to win from its time-honored rival at Ritchie Coliseum last night, 37 to 28. Chase, Snyder and Vincent led the attack for Maryland with 11, 10 and 10 points, respectively, while Hudson starred for Virginia with 12 points.

Both teams were guilty of fumbling the ball in the first few minutes of play, but later settled down to some sensational shooting and passing. Harrison was the first to break the ice, with a long field goal. Virginia ran up an 8 to 2, lead before Buscher, Maryland guard, crashed through with the Old Liners' first field goal after the ten minutes had ticked by.

Johnson and Strum followed with field goals in rapid succession to give Virginia a 12 to 4, lead.

Maryland Rallies To Gain Lead.

Maryland fought back and delivered its answer in the form of a looping one hand toss by Snyder, a foul goal by the same player, and quick shots underneath the basket by Vincent and Buscher. Maryland then was trailing 10 to 12. Chase gave Maryland the lead for the first time in the initial half by dribbling through the Cavaliers' defense to sink a goal and putting the home team in front by 15 to 14. Snyder caged a goal from the side and the half ended with Maryland leading, 17-14.

Maryland maintained its steady pace in the second half and after four minutes of play had rolled into a 22 to 14 advantage, thanks to field goals by Weber and Chase. Then Virginia came back. Hudson made good two foul goals and wheeled around under his basket and sank a goal. Harrison of the Cavaliers followed suit and the visitors had moved up to 20 to 22.

Vincent's Two Goals Clinch Victory.

With ten minutes to go, Hudson followed with a shot for Virginia, but Maryland led at the time 26 to 24. That was the closest Virginia came to overtaking Maryland in the second half. Vincent rendered victory more complete for the Old Liners by dribbling in speedily and twice sinking field goals.

Old Line Grid Letters Voted at M Club Fete

"University of Virginia would rather play Maryland than any other college in the country because both are building up athletes along the same principles," James M. Driver, director of athletics for the Cavaliers, declared last night at the "M" Club banquet at the university dining room in College Park preceding the basket ball game between the two teams.

The main speaker on the program, Mr. Driver paid tribute to the Maryland teams and Director Curley Byrd, stating that Maryland, like Virginia, "does not emphasize winning games, but has as its prime motives fairness and decency in athletics."

Other speakers were the Rev. Walter Plumley, who delivered the invocation; Dr. Frank B. Bomberger, toastmaster; Dr. Raymond A. Pearson, president of the University of Maryland, who delivered the address of welcome; James M. Burns, president of the "M" Club; Charles R. Fenwick, line coach, who presented letters to the football players, and Robert M. Watkins, professor of public speaking.

The following football players were awarded varsity "M's:"

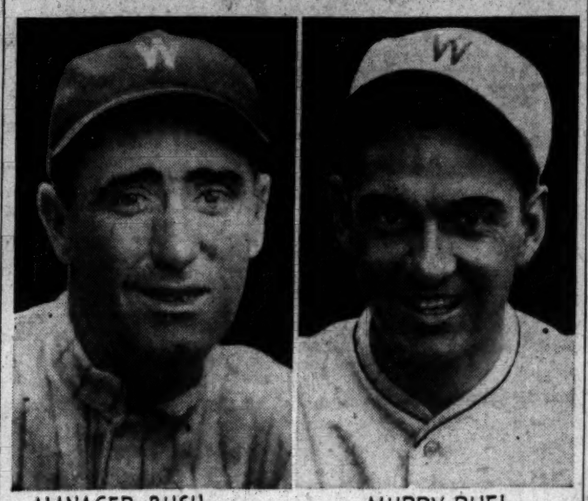
Nats' Pennant Trend Seen In Donie Bush's 1923 Club



MANAGER BUSH

MUDDY RUEL

Post Staff Photo.

The 1923 season in the history of the Nats is remembered as the year before Washington won its first pennant. Donie Bush piloted the club into fourth place, aided by the catching of the newcomer, Muddy Ruel.

Leibold, Ruel, Russell, Marberry Joined 4th Place Team.

(Herewith is the thirteenth of a series of articles in conjunction with The Post's baseball contest.)

SOMETHING began to happen to Washington's baseball club in 1923. For the third consecutive season, President Griffith decided to change pilots, and this time he relied upon a cocky little former Detroit infielder, Donie Bush, nearing the end of a long playing career.

In the midst of one of the closest American League races in recent years, Washington climbed from a pretty bad seventh place up to fourth by the end of the '23 season. Walter Johnson indignantly denied in the middle of the season that he was through and proved it by finishing the year strongly enough to give him a record of 17 wins and 12 losses, his best record since 1919. His 126 strikeouts won for him the league strikeout championship for the twelfth straight year.

Mogridge Backs Up Johnson.

Backing him up came George Mogridge, with 13 wins and 13 losses, and Tom Zachary, who slipped a mite (10 wins and 16 losses), but still held his own as one of the three workhorses of the pitching staff. President Griffith got the promising young pitcher he was looking for, a big, clumsy kid from Little Rock, named Fred Marberry. The rest of the pitching staff was nothing to cable Aunt Priscilla about—Zahniser, Warmoth, Russell, Hollingsworth, Brillheart and Friday.

Scrappy Donie Bush did something to the batting eyes of the Nats. From August on to the end of the season the boys began slugging the ball with a vigor—if it had started in the beginning of the year and lasted all season—would have given the pennant-hungry Washington fans their hearts' desire just one year earlier than actually. New York did win the pennant and then trimmed the Giants four out of six in the world series.

The definite passing on of Milan gave young Goose Goslin the chance he had been waiting for. The belaying outfielder played in every game of the season, batted .300, and gave definite proof of his future greatness. Joe Judge sprung some leg trouble during the dog days, when Ed Gharrity filled in for him, but finished strongly to bat .314, 20 points higher than 1922.

Sam Rice was moved over to right field from center, batted .316, 21 points higher than the year before; Goslin went in left field, batted .300, and little Nemo Leibold was brought from Boston at the insistence of Bush, who put his peppy little prototype in center field. Nemo batted .294.

In the infield, Bucky Harris at second was gradually improving his stick work, elevating it from .269 to .282. Peck, at short stop, was making the fans forget the fielding achievements of George McBride and batting .264. Young Ossie Bluege was being depended on more and more at third base, now that Hank Shanks was gone. Bluege was occasionally ousted to make way for Manager Bush, who was not one to sit on the bench when the game got too hot. Donie, by the way, batted in the .400's all season. The future world's champions were forming rapidly.

But the real pride of 1923 was Herold Ruel, who came to Washington at the start of the season from Boston with Allan Russell for Val Picinich and Hank Shanks. Shank's going ended the local career of the most versatile Nat of all time. Ruel is an everlasting tribute to the trading genius of Clark Griffith. Instantaneously, he "took" with the fans and in the game as a National. He was to become one of the most popular men ever to don a Washington uniform and his .316 batting record his first year here certainly did nothing to stand in the way of his increasing popularity.

It is somewhat aside from the general question but Ruel remains one of baseball's most dignified personalities, a full-fledged barrister with the right to appear before the Supreme Court of the United States.

Baseball was on the upswing. Crowds were better at the ball park than at any time since the early days of the War. Walter Johnson pitched his one hundredth shutout late in July, beating Detroit, 1-0, the lone run being driven in by Ruel. Up in New York George Mogridge and Joe Bush pitched one of the great games of the decade, which went into the last half of the fifteenth inning tied at 1-1—when Babe Ruth crashed one high over the right field wall for victory.

Nineteen twenty-three saw one of the closest American League races on record, no less than six positions were decided as the result of the final day's games.

A few days later Washington lost its ranking number one rooter, President Harding.

Contest Facts In Brief

Clark Griffith, president of the Washington Baseball Club, will select in The Washington Post of March 19 his all-time, all-star team from among the clubs that represented Washington during the years from 1912 to 1932 inclusive.

The fan who submits the selection that matches or most nearly matches Griffith's selection will be adjudged the winner of the contest.

One man is to be selected for each of the infield and outfield positions with four pitchers and two catchers.

To the winner The Washington Post will award eight box seats to the 1933 opening game between Washington and Philadelphia.

Second place will net four box seats, with third place earning two box seats.

Entrants may use the accompanying coupon for their selections, although the use of the coupon is not necessary for entrance in the contest.

The contest will close March 15.

Each entrant is limited to one selection.

Jones Victim Of Bruising M'Millan

Texan Succumbs to Powerful Foe in 37 Minutes.

Stecher and Dusek in Draw; 3,500 See Good Show.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

JIM McMILLAN, public enemy No. 1 of the righteous Washington wrestling fans, hauled out a new and dastardly trick last night to cause the downfall of heroic old John Paul Jones on the gore-flecked mat at the Auditorium before 3,500 witnesses. The usual four guys wanted to fight McMillan, a constantly recurring miracle which is worth the price of admission alone.

It seemed that only an ardent plea to St. Jack Curley could save McMillan last night, if he had not brought forth his nefarious plan. Jones was all over him from the start, thumping him around the ring in a manner most ungentle and impaling him, at five-minute intervals, with vicious hook-scissors holds.

Jones Has Kit of Locks.

McMillan's only hold seemed to be a comfortable headlock and an occasional bust in Jones' rambling nose. Jones opened his kit of locks, ranging from standing leg splits to ear-tweaks and back.

But whenever Jones fastened about nine simultaneous holds on McMillan and had him stretched out flatter than gold leaf, what would this McMillan do but reach one long leg out to the middle rope, push it down below the bottom rope and stick his ankle through the resulting opening! Well, it certainly made us all sore. From the hisses you would have thought that the indignant citizenry had suddenly espied the swaggering, checker-vested figure of Simon Legree busking across the Auditorium stage, his pockets spraying mortgage foreclosures.

There wasn't much Jones could do, in the face of these impious acts, except lose in 37 minutes, which he did, aided by a couple of McMillan tackles.

A most amusing bout was the 30-minute draw amongst Joe Stecher, reformed champion; Ernie Dusek, Rudy's tough little brother, and Tiger Boins, obese official. This was the most confusing bout of the night.

The three boys came out in the ring, shook hands and promptly flopped to the mat. There was a great deal of dust, and suddenly Burns would be on top. Then, upon leaving the place for a coca-cola, we espied Stecher on top of the other two, and once Francis Stan avers he saw the bright blue tights of Ernie Dusek atop the crowd. At the end Burns was stretched out on his back across the prone figures of Dusek and Stecher, but they wouldn't award the referee the bout, which was one of the most unfair bits of discrimination ever seen at the Auditorium.

Rudy Dusek beat the honk out of Frank Buresh, a newcomer, in 22 minutes and pulled a nice trick by slapping him in the face and fleeing the ring at the end, while a terrific boo boosted him up the stairs to the dressing room. Fred Grobmeier was resurrected for the occasion and beat Lou Plummer, an old tramp athlete, in 17 minutes with one of the worst-looking crab scissors ever displayed here, while Doc Wilson and Jacques Humberto plodded to a 30-minute draw for the championship of the Sinus trouble ward at the Philadelphia General Hospital.

Grand fun, gents.

G. W. Triumphs By 38 to 28 Over Wake Forest Five

George Washington found its battle ax a bit blunt from frequent use as it carved another victory before a near-capacity audience at its spacious sports arena, located on H street near Twentieth, last night. Wake Forest was the unwilling victim, losing by a score of 38-28.

Wake Forest seized the lead soon after the opening whistle and held it until just before the intermission, when Wayne Chambers dropped a foul shot to tie the score at 14-14.

This state of affairs was but temporary, however, for Barnes and Mulhern pushed the leather through the basket to boost the Southerners' total to 16 and then to 18 while G. W. was adding but one field goal to its score.

Art Zahn's shot knotted the count at 18-all and Forest Burgess put the locals ahead with a patented Burgess pot shot. Swing brought Wake Forest abreast of its rival for the last time with a long shot immediately after, but Roy Howell came through with a pair of double-deckers that put George Washington definitely in the lead.

As Campbell Finds Beach at Daytona Improved; May Try Sunday.

By HENRY McLEMORE.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 9 (U.P.).—The shrieking siren which is sounded as a warning to bathers and motorists three hours before Sir Malcolm is scheduled to send his four-ton Bluebird car hurtling down Daytona Beach, may be heard as early as next Sunday if the racing strip continues to improve as it has in the past 24 hours.

Such was the prediction made by Sir Malcolm today after covering the beach course in a heavy touring car. On his previous inspection of the beach the British racing ace sat in the back seat, but today he handled the wheel himself.

During most of the trip from the boardwalk to the lighthouse at Mosquito Inlet, Sir Malcolm drove slowly. But between the two posts that mark the measured mile, he stepped on the gas until the car reached 65 miles and hour and reacted to the surface, in a small measure, of course, as would the Bluebird.

"It's much better than at any time since my arrival. While it's impossible to say when everything will be ready because of the contrary weather, it seems it should be in shape by Sunday or Monday at the latest."

The beach started smoothing out today with the arrival of a stiff northeast wind that whipped the water high on the sands. A northeaster, local weather experts say, is the only sort of wind which will pack the racing strip like concrete. A northeaster swirls the water on the sands where it has the same effect as though some one had taken a giant trowel and swept the beach.

The wind, if it continues until tomorrow, will have an ally when the moon becomes full. A full moon high tide is three feet higher than a normal one, and wherever the waters touch the sand becomes packed hard.

SIR MALCOLM CAMPBELL.

High Schools Will Enter Teams in A. A. U. Tourney

Record Entry in Basket Ball Championship Classic; Registration Period Closes Next Wednesday; Entry Blanks Ready.

AN unusually large number of teams recruited from high school squads are expected to participate in the annual A. A. U. basket ball tournament, sponsored by The Washington Post, which opens March 2 at Tech High School. Several teams played last season, notably Tech and Eastern regular quintets. At least ten, and possibly more, are expected this year.

Leading the list will be Western. Coach Cliff Moore stated last night that he expected to have two 130-pound teams, one 115-pound quintet and one 145-pound group entered. The latter will include the majority of boys who bore the school's colors in the recent high school championship series. Moore is entering the teams for the valuable experience to be gained.

Boyd Expects to Enter Team.

Coach Artie Boyd expects to have at least one team from Tech in the biggest basket ball show of the year. Tech entered last season hoping to get another crack at the champion Eastern five. This time it wants to play Central, but alt is doubtful if Central will compete.

Tech may play in the Washington and Lee tournament, March 2, 3 and 4, at Lexington, and, of course, if it does it will be impossible for the Maroon and Gray courtmen to enter the local tourney.

Sentiment strongly favors entering two teams from Eastern. Every man on the squad is anxious to match wares with several of the leading independent teams. Should Eastern's first team vie for unlimited honors there is a possibility that reserve members of the squad will be organized into a 145-pound team and compete in that class.

All prep schools have been extended invitations to enter teams and there has been a generous response. St. John's, which annually supplies about three teams, is expected to lead the list.

Record Entry List Expected.

Officials in charge of the tournament predict a record number of entries. All local leagues, the Community Center, Government, Departmental Boys' Club and District Amateur, are expected to enroll 100 per cent.

Players are again warned against deferring their registration in the A, Schaaf Forecasts His Victory in Battle With Italian.

Giant Faces Sharkey in June Providing He Wins Tonight.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Primo Carnera, huge as ever but with most of the gloss of his early days punched off, can win himself another match with Champion Jack Sharkey tomorrow night, but for Ernie Schaaf there looms only his usual second place berth in the title holder's private stable, win, lose or draw.

They meet for fifteen rounds in Madison Square Garden in the most important heavyweight tilt of the indoor season. The Garden has made provisions for future matches only on the basis of a Carnera victory.

Primo, with an attorney acting as his manager, agreed to terms for a match with Sharkey in June here, provided that he whips the champion's protege tomorrow night. It was further agreed that if Carnera should by any chance beat Sharkey in June, then the Italian giant would defend his newly won crown under Garden auspices next September, or at least in 1934.

Carnera will enter the ring at 262 pounds to 210 for Schaaf.

Schaaf Favored In Battle.

In the eyes of the experts, all these arrangements seemed needless today, inasmuch as Schaaf, whose contract is owned in part by Sharkey, stood out as a 2-to-1 favorite to lick the gondola man.

Sharkey walloped Carnera with great ease and completeness in fifteen rounds early in the fall of 1931, but there have been widespread reports, indignantly denied, that the Italian would be aided to victory tomorrow night for the financial purposes of a return match. The doubters pointed out that there would be no object in Schaaf winning, inasmuch as the faithful would never stand for a title match between him and Sharkey.

In refutation of such unheard-of goings-on in the fight game, Schaaf has been forecasting his own triumph in loud tones, even though it will leave Sharkey with no opponent, and the Garden with no competition for Jack Dempsey's match between Max Baer and Max Schmeling, somewhere, some time in June. Carnera answered the critics by breaking the arm of a sparring partner in his workout yesterday.

Back in the form that stamped him the best of the young heavyweight prospects two years ago, the burly

COAT TAILS SHOWS WAY TO FLORIDA DERBY CANDIDATES

Healy's Colt, Off Slowly, Triumphs

Overtakes the Field to Beat Out Helios by a Length.

Stealingaway, Totem Score Double for Ed Haughton.

HIALEAH PARK, Fla., Feb. 9 (A. P.).—The first noticeably unpleasant weather of the Miami Jockey Club's current meeting prevailed here today, but the attendance was good considering the threat of rain. A light drizzle fell early but did no harm to the racing strip, and the surrounding grounds benefited by the mild wetting.

Florida Derby candidates were on view in the Avon Park Purse, a mile test exclusively for 3-year-olds, and a new name was added to the list of likely contenders when Coat Tails, owned by J. Simon Healy, scored in impressive fashion. The Flying Ebony colt beat the Anall Stable's Helios by a length, while Dixiana's Prewar was a length and a half out of second place. Coat Tails paid $11.50.

Coat Tails Overtakes Entire Field.

The winner, which is the type of runner suited by a distance from all appearances, broke slowly and overtook the entire field to win. Helios showed the way until well into the stretch, where he found the winner's bid too much to handle. Prewar, which likes to run in front, failed to get off on that right foot. The Man o' War campaigner caught Helios at the head of the stretch, but faltered under pressure.

Capacity, with Johnny Gilbert in the pilot house, made every pole a winning one in the 7-furlong opener and breezed home by five lengths a slightly better than 3 to 1. Camp Boss took the place from Mud by a neck with My Purchase, the favorite, fourth. Gilbert had his mount off flying and nursed him along to the end without serious contention. Camp Boss was driving hard to save the place.

Stealingaway Wins for New Owner.

Stealingaway, recently claimed by Ed Haughton, was extended to the limit to reward favorite players in the third contest. Alfred Robertson had to pump the son of Ed Crump hard to beat the neglected Mudraker by a half length. Everfair came from a long way back to land the short end of the purse. Stealingaway took the lead from Mudraker rounding out of the back stretch, but the long shot made it a battle to the end. The winner returned $3.80.

Ebony Lady, well ridden by Charlie Corbett, was under a mild drive to beat the heavily backed Sky Haven in the fourth event. Bobbing always held the show position safe. Corbett indulged Sky Haven with the lead until ready to strike in the stretch, then Ebony Lady overhauled the pacemaker and won by two lengths going away. Ebony Lady paid $6.20.

Totem Gives Haughton A Double.

Totem, which, like Stealing Away, recently was acquired by Ed Haughton via the claiming route, gave the owner a double when he easily won the sixth race. Jockey G. Riley also recorded his second success of the day although not for the same owner. Totem passed the judges five lengths before Potentate while Tela was third. The winner was rated off the pace for 6 furlongs then went after Potentate and taking charge in the stretch drew away to pay $5.50.

Golden Fate won the last race by a length to pay 4 to 1. Long Chance beat Crap Shooter by a neck for the place. An unusual coincidence of today's sport was that every winner on the card was a previous winner at the meeting. The play through the machines today was approximately $4,000 more than yesterday, despite the dreary weather. The handle today was $178,043.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: MIAMI, FEBRUARY 9.

Having absorbed a shutout today, my first of the Florida season, I must again resort to technicalities to prove that the day was not an entire loss. In fact (and I hate to put it this way), six of the winners were among my place and show picks. My selections didn't have any the best of the luck, however. Everfair, upon which I was counting heavily, virtually (whatever that is) was left at the post. And having thus alibied, I'm digging deeper into the books tonight in an effort to start a brand-new winning streak. Mike went out looking for a crap game, so we won't be bothered with his selections for tomorrow.

BILL.

FIRST RACE — GRACE BLOTTER, KATE and MEMORIES DEAR should battle it out for this purse. I like them in the order named. If the threat of rain here tonight turns the track muddy, ENGLEWOOD would have a good chance, although this one has slipped back a lot.

SECOND RACE—This is the toughest race of the day. COLLATERAL, CABOUSE and JESTING QUEEN seem as good as the rest, although I would not waste a dime on the hop, skip and jump of 3 furlongs.

THIRD RACE—Maiden 3-year-olds clash in this, and we might as well take REDRESS, with Workman likely to ride. This one has shown fair form in trials. ONDOTT and MAHOMET to battle it out for the rest.

FOURTH RACE—ZORANA appears the short-price winner of this sprint. Seems to have the dope edge on the field. BANNACH LATH is a fair sort and may place in front of LADY LEGS.

FIFTH RACE—AEGIS was a fast second the last time and should better that race tomorrow and collect a purse. FLYING CHEROKEE improved with a bang here the other day and may be second ahead of HAGGERSON, which was only kidding the last out.

SIXTH RACE—MERIDIAN QUEEN has been showing keen speed of late and seems capable of handling this group. SOLACE looks like the one to cause trouble if any materializes. AMERICANA for the show.

SEVENTH RACE—TRY IT, FORT DEARBORN and GABBO is the way I like them in the final. Looks like a close fit, with the first named picking them up in the stretch.

Hitting the Headpin

JUDD & DETWEILER smashed the all-time set record for the National Capital League at Lucky Strike last night, rolling games of 622, 660, 680, for a total of 1,962. The mark betters the 1,950 score made by Colonial Ice Cream earlier in the season. The previous all-time record was hung up by National Pale Drys September 30, 1931, when they bumped off 1,956 pins.

Sets that made up the new mark were: Hugh Crawley, 353; Bill Cox, 439; Paul Bryan, 347; Jack Gooding, 421, and Bill Beatty, 402. Cox's effort was within two pins of tying Charley Phillips' all-time record for the loop. Crawley had a 160 game and Gooding a 159.

Pop Evans rolled 409 as Plant Industry battered the maples for a new season's record of 1,764 at Lucky Strike, and won three games from the leading Economics Team in the Agriculture Interbureau League. Economics toppled the wood for a season's game record of 626.

Murrill Dawes, one of Lucky Strike's floormen, rattled the wood for a game of 142 in the Independent League. Harold Kasson had an even 400 for set. Internal Revenue rolled 602 and 1,739 to lead the teams.

Evelyn Carr's 139 and Esther Burton's 337 accounted for the prizes distributed in the Ladies Federal League at Arcadia. Interstate bowled 551 for high team game, followed by Commerce Comets, who clipped the wood for a set of 1,523.

Angelo Ganna, with 381 for set, and Ivan Sarnoff, who rolled a 143 game, topped the Interior Department League at Columbia. Pension's 1,610 and 565 outdistanced the teams.

Booth (not Aible) rolled 330 and Reagan socked the maples for a 140 count to head the list of outstanding performers in the I. C. C. Examiners loop at Columbia. Finance had a 522 game and 1,487 set.

Johnny Moore's 136 and Eddie Eddinger's 366 furnished the high scores in the Daylite League at Convention Hall. Washington Herald took the team prizes with 546 and 1,602.

Norman Baxter cut quite a figure in the Nation-Wide League at Convention Hall, knocking 'em down for a 125 game and 315 set. Padgett Printers had 502 for game, and Morton's Salt (it didn't rain) had 1,427 for set.

George Bosley's 133 game and 354 set bagged the honors in the Kilowatt loop at Convention Hall. Schedule rolled 573 and 1,609 to lead the teams.

Interest was added to the Intercollegiate Alumni League race by Cornell's 2-1 win over the leading Michigan quintet, while the second-place Yale pinmen were winning all three from Princeton. Harry Hathaway rolled 148 and 403.

Franklin's 155 and 379 were high in the War Department League at Arcadia. Barbettes bagged team honors with a 611 game and 1,714 set.

DE ANGELO IS READY FOR BATTLE

Local Boxer at Top Form for Sarron Tuesday Night.

WHEN the bell sends Frankie De Angelo and Pete Sarron out for war Tuesday night at Portner's Arena, the local Italian featherweight will be in the best shape of his career.

De Angelo, who is a notorious loafer in the gym, is completing his third week of training at Frankie Mann's gymnasium. Not only does he hit the road every morning, but he takes a ten-round workout in the afternoon.

Sarron is no stranger to De Angelo. Frankie is not ignorant of the fact that the Syrian boy had Benny Schwartz on the floor five times and whipped the sensational Davey Abad.

For that reason, the local Italian is working as if his very life depended upon this battle. After his drill at Frankie Mann's gym yesterday he said:

"I am biting off a big piece, but it doesn't bother me. All I'm worried over is my condition. Harry Groves tells me I'm ready to go right now. I never felt better in my life and that's a sign of a good night in the ring."

Sarron will arrive here Saturday morning and complete his training at Portner's Arena, where Jimmy Erwin's stable is holding forth.

8-Inch Cups Planned On Municipal Links

Rock Creek and East Potomac will give the 8-inch cup, recently suggested by Gene Sarazen, a trial within a week or two, it was announced yesterday.

The enlarged holes will be inserted on the B course at Rock Creek and D at East Potomac.

Bannockburn installed the larger cups on the second nine of its course a week ago.

Corbett's Condition Remains Unchanged

New York, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—The condition of James J. Corbett, seriously ill with a disease of the heart, today was reported unchanged.

The former heavyweight boxing champion has been confined to his bed in his suburban home for eight days.

WESTERN IS VICTIM OF G.U.PREP

Keating and Nee Star in Spirited Game; Corcoran Shines.

GEORGETOWN PREP went ahuntin' yesterday and brought home another victory, winning over Western High School by a score of 30 to 25 in a spirited fray at Garrett Park.

Led by Tom Keating and Maury Nee, Georgetown rolled up a commanding 19-to-8 lead in the first half. Western rallied in the second half, but when it came within hailing distance of its foe "Shanty" Allan added enough points to the Prep score to protect its lead. Bill Williams played a good game at guard for the winners. Jim Corcoran, Swanson and Forney were outstanding for Western.

Today Georgetown Prep plays Devitt Prep at Garrett Park at 3:30 p. m.

St. John Beats Takoma, 31 to 25

The well-known law of averages came through with a victory for St. John's last night, the Cadets winning over Takoma-Silver Spring High School in a hotly contested game played on the winners' court. The final score was 31-25.

St. John's amassed a 23-12 lead in the first half hour, but its defense crumbled in the final period and the suburbanites came within a point of tying the score at 25-25. Barrett and McCulloch sank field goals in succession to pull the game out of the fire.

Takoma was greatly handicapped by the absence of Leizeer, its star guard, who was evicted via the four fouls route early in the fray.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

THE new WCAU Building in Philadelphia will be officially dedicated by President Hoover with a short talk from the White House during a special dedicatory program over Station WJSV at 10:15 o'clock tonight.

The WCAU Building is said to be the first in the country to be built for broadcasting purposes exclusively. Seven studios, ranging in size from a speaker's room to one that will hold an orchestra of 100 men, have been constructed for this 50,000-watt station.

A new acoustic principle of "live" and "dead" ends has been employed. From one-half to two-thirds of each studio, depending entirely upon its size, is built of sound-absorbing material to form the "dead" end. Here microphones will be placed to pick up every part of the program originating in the "live" portion of the studio. The walls in the "live" end reflect the sound waves to the microphones in the "dead" end of the room.

Among the entertainers on the WCAU program will be Mary Garden, operatic singer; Morton Downey, tenor; Tom Howard and George Shelton, comedians, and John P. Medbury, master of ceremonies, and an orchestra under the direction of Meyer Davis.

John McCormack not only will sing some of the selections that have endeared him to the American public, but also will reveal the incident which eventually brought him world-wide fame when he appears with Edwin C. Hill on the third "Inside Story" program over WJSV from 9:30 to 10 o'clock tonight.

STUART O. BLYTHE, formerly of Washington, spending a winter vacation in Redlands, Calif., finds it difficult to become accustomed to the three-hour time difference in radio programs.

"The hardest thing for an Easterner out here," he writes, "is to get used to old standbys at unusual hours—i. e., Rudy Vallee at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, Ed Wynn at 6:30 o'clock, Lucky Strike at 7 o'clock, and so on."

Princeton University's Glee Club will serenade Washingtonians over WRC at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

The singers of Old Nassau, under the baton of Dr. Alexander Russell, director of the club, will broadcast a 45-minute program.

Their numbers will include "Meet Me Again Tonight," "Morning Hymn," "Old Nassau," "Princeton Marching Song," "What Shall We Do With the Drunken Sailor?" "I Got Shoes," "Battle of Jericho," "Old Man Noah," "Eight Bells" and "Away to Rio."

"Depuis le Jour," from Charpentier's opera "Louise," will be sung by Jessica Dragonette, soprano, as the opening selection on the Cities Service Concert over WRC at 8 p. m. Miss Dragonette also will sing "Rose of the World," from Herbert's "Rose of Algeria;" "Alice Blue Gown," from "Irene," and with John Seagle, baritone, the "Song of Love," from Romberg's "Blossom Time." A medley of traditional Italian songs will be featured by the Cavaliers.

JUST a couple of young fellows trying to get along, Martin Codel and Sol Taishoff, who were then working for a living as radio writers, seeking a field of richer compensation and a life of ease, started Broadcasting magazine in Washington as a trade journal for the broadcasting industry.

That was only a year and a half ago, but the boys did such a good job of it and despite unusual business conditions, succeeded to such a degree that yesterday they acquired their principal competitor, Broadcast Advertising, which for the past five years has been published in Chicago by Gustav Stamm.

Broadcasting will now combine both publications in the National Capital, with Codel as editor, "Solly" Taishoff as managing editor, and last, but not least, their Hoosier advertising manager, F. G. Taylor.

Cesar Agusto Sandino's signing of a pact of peace with President Juan Sacasa of Nicaragua will be dramatized during the "March of Time" (WJSV, at 8:30 p. m.). Other current events scenes will include the confiscation of the property of the wealthiest man in Spain and the declaration of a legal holiday in New Orleans for the purpose of stopping a run on the Hibernia Bank & Trust Co.

MOST all of the radio audience has heard "Big Ben" broadcast from London, but the deep-toned bell of the Kremlin, in Moscow, was heard throughout the United States for the first time on Wednesday afternoon, as engineers picked up a short-wave program from Russia and succeeded in rebroadcasting the sound over a network.

The program came in at 4:05 p. m. As the sound of the bell faded out a spirited burst of music increased in volume. It was "The Internationale." It came through the studios of Station RW-49, in the Trade Union Building at Moscow, and was put on the air on a wave-length of about 50 meters. The signal was reported unusually strong and steady. For the past few days the Russian station has been heard with considerable clarity.

The Drama League of America will observe Drama Week over the WJZ network at 11:15 o'clock tonight with scenes from four of Broadway's most popular productions.

The plays and players who will appear include "Biography," with Earle Larimore, Charles Richman and Jay Fassett; "Dinner at Eight," with Constance Collier, Charles Trowbridge and Paul Harvey; "Good-by Again," with Sally Bates and Osgood Perkins, and "The Late Christopher Bean," with Walter Connolly and Beulah Bondi.

"APROPOS the various items you have carried in your column with regard to Julia Sanderson's musical laugh, I'd like to say right here that I hope you haven't sent your critical item to them with regard to Julia's forced laughter—which isn't forced laughter at all," an "Interested Listener" writes.

"I feel as though I had indeed lost something during the week if I don't hear Frank's spontaneous chuckle and Julia's musical laugh both on their night program and during their morning broadcast.

"It seems to me that those who are criticizing such spontaneity must be the long-faced, never-smiling, never-laughing, always-critical variety. What if they do laugh at each other's little jokes—we all like to have our jokes laughed at. Laughing is catching and what we all need these days is a little more laughter and less solemn visages—more smiles and more laughter in our daily contacts with people to help beat this solemn age we are passing through.

"If you were on a program with Irvin Cobb, you couldn't help but laugh at or with him. Perhaps you don't know that Irvin Cobb is a humorist."

M. J. J. RAJPUT, former Hindu secret service agent, will be heard over Station WJSV three nights a week in a series of hair-raising adventure tales starting Monday, February 13, at 7:15 p. m.

According to WBBM, Chicago, the Rajput programs are unusually entertaining radio fare. The series just completed there having broken all records for fan mail.

As a secret service agent in India during the World War, Rajput was called upon to unravel and expose many secret intrigues and political crimes. His exciting experiences, plus unusual speaking ability and a forceful radio personality, are said to make his programs unique.

Bob White

The Old Philosopher

SAYS:

Question—Do you think school teachers are too highly paid, or do you feel their work is underestimated?

Answer—Yes, I feel and have always felt that school teachers are underestimated and poorly paid.

Last summer several teachers were staying at a boarding house in which I had made a temporary home for my family. These teachers were from another city. For two months or more they had not received any pay—the city couldn't afford it—and to many a summer vacation was nothing more than a nightmare—staring stark starvation diet.

Now this is a pity. It shows a poor appreciation of their worth, but a poorer conception of our ideals of citizenship, for within the hands of our teachers is the molding of tomorrow's America.

To pay teachers a double salary would not be extravagant. To withhold their pay while money is squandered by officials, drunk with a little power, shows, to say the least, a lack of civic pride. Able teachers are of more worth than mayors or city managers—corporations or councils. Teachers train sound thinking and sound living. They are the carpenters of life, building the future and furnishing the homes of tomorrow. There is no measure of their value to society. It is they who create the social outlook of the generations to come.

Select carefully your teachers. Give them your confidence. Pay them if needs be extravagantly, for we can not be too extravagant in our investment for the future. The yield will not be silver and gold, but manhood and womanhood, character of worth and an intelligent people.

Bob White, the old philosopher, will answer an outstanding question each week day on this page. He is heard twice daily over WMAL, at 8 a. m. and 4:30 p. m.

Lennox School Theater Party.

One hundred and fifty Lennox School children will be the guests of the Earle Theater and Miss Anna Slanner, "angel of the poor," this afternoon, at a theater party at the Earle.

DARROW AGAIN TAPS EMOTIONS OF COURT

Draws Pathetic Life Story From Youthful Slayer and Robber.

Rockford, Ill., Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Again the attorney for the defense, Clarence Darrow, led an 18-year-old murder defendant today through the story of a poverty-stricken boyhood.

Under Darrow's father-like questioning, the defendant, Russell McWilliams, told of a home in which there never was a book, of how he killed a street car motorman two years ago in a robbery, and of how he sat in a prison death cell.

His voice husky, Darrow leaned close to the boy on the witness stand and asked:

"How did you happen to do it?"

"I was getting off the street car when the motorman tried to hit me," McWilliams said, "I heard a muffled sound when the pistol in my hand went off. I didn't intend to shoot him, and I didn't realize it. I was in a daze."

Young McWilliams insisted he could not remember firing five bullets into the motorman's body, and could recall little of his flight from the scene.

He took his first drink of liquor, he said, on July 4, 1931, and then began a career of crime that included six robberies and culminated when he killed the motorman, William Sayles.

His hair ruffled and his black string tie awry, the 75-year-old Darrow questioned McWilliams more than two hours on every phase of the youth's life from his birth in an Iowa village to the present.

It was the first time McWilliams had testified in his three trials for murder. Twice the State Supreme Court has ordered new trials after a judge had sentenced him to death on guilty pleas.

A New Yorker AT LARGE

By MARK BARRON.

New York, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Although they were cleared out for a few weeks, the mob of panhandlers working in the Fifth and Park avenue districts are back again.

A close study of them will show that the majority are not honestly people down on their luck, but Bowery bums who make a profession of begging.

In the more expensive section of Fifth avenue you see one standing in every block. With dissipated faces and ragged, soiled clothing, they stand silently with their eyes cast downward. They don't openly ask for coins, but they hope that sympathetic passersby will pity their forlorn appearance and offer them money.

Bad Spirits.

Most of them, a detective on the mendicant squad tells me, hang around until they have collected a few quarters and then they move along to "smoke" shops in the Bowery where they spend their money on liquor that is poisonous and stupefying.

The neighborhood around Grand Central terminal is another favorite camping ground for the panhandlers. Native New Yorkers have become used to them and are hardened to their pleas, but they do find many generous hearts among the out-of-towners who arrive at the terminal.

You will encounter them even inside the terminal, although a squad of private watchmen tries to keep them out. This type usually is fairly well dressed so that he won't be suspected, and most of these have the same story—that they are stranded in town and want to borrow the price of a ticket to some nearby suburban community.

The only panhandlers I have thought are truly sincere are those in the not so expensive blocks of Sixth and Eighth avenues. Most of these are really hungry, as they, in many cases, will prove it if you take them into one of the cheap lunch counters over there and buy them a meal. They devour it as if they hadn't eaten in weeks.

Slim Picking.

And you know that no professional beggar is going to work along Sixth avenue, for it is along here that the employment agencies are located, and the majority of pedestrians are jobless people looking for work.

In one of these beef and bean cafes one night there came a Negro boy who offered to wash dishes all day for a plate of the baked beans.

"When did you last eat, boy?" he was asked.

"I don't rightly remember, boss," he answered, "but I come up from Tybee, Ga., and I think it was somewhere south of Baltimore."

BOOTHILL, CEMETERY, appropriately named for the two-score men and women buried there who died with their boots on, is located near Billings, Mont. According to tradition the cemetery was started when one man called another a liar in a saloon.

From then on until the last burial in 1882 pioneers of all types—peace officers, bad men, even women—who came to their deaths by violence, were laid to rest in the strange frontier graveyard.

The monument shown above was erected in 1912. It is made from small stones picked up from the burial ground.

There is no military command of "Right about face" in the United States Army. Although this is commonly assumed to be in use in the Army, the command simply is: "About face." "Right face" and "Left face" are also used, but never "Right about face."

How many leap years in a century? Sometimes 24, sometimes 25. Every fourth year is not necessarily a leap year. Years exactly divisible by four, as 1920, are leap years, except the last four years of the centuries, which are leap years only if divisible by 400. The year 1900, then, was not a leap year, but 2000 will be.

Colors give added realism to strange things and happenings illustrated by John Hix on a full page in The Sunday Post.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

NAUTICAL BALLAD WITH THE USUAL APOLOGIES.

A CAPITAL ship for an ocean trip
Was the superyacht Nourmahal;
In privacy she sailed the sea,
Without any scribes at all;
The man at the wheel was taught to feel
Contempt for the press and screen;
And the honored guest had a lovely rest
Far out on the raging green.

II.

The People's Choice in his deepest voice
Said just what he wanted to
On affairs of state to the captain's mate,
Not fearing the press would know;
He conversed about debts and the "drys" or "wets"
Without guarding his private views,
And he lacked any fear a scribe would be near
To cable it back as news.

III.

The captain sat in a commodore's hat
And waved other ships away;
Not a newsreel guy could get very nigh
To hear what the guest might say.
For our Franklin D. there was privacy
Of a very convincing sort;
Not a man was near who could overhear
And send out a press report.

IV.

And we searched each day for a stowaway
From the ranks of the daily press,
And we looked each night 'neath the bunks to sight
An editor in distress;
When some ships came near they would darkly peer
And study the unknown boats,
And they'd cry "Full speed!" if the mate thought he'd Seen any one taking notes.

V.

What a treat it felt to a Roos-e-velt
To be far from the public eye,
With reporters bold barred from deck and hold
As the rollicking waves rolled by!
He could talk himself blue on the things he'd do
When he sat in the White House chair,
And no man on the ship would produce a slip
And ask, "May I quote you there?"

VI.

They were just good friends with no selfish ends
To serve as they paced the decks;
There were George and Fred and the son of Ted
And Vincent (he signed the checks);
On the splendid yacht in a climate hot
To tropical seas they ran;
Among those behind they dismissed from mind
Was the well-known Forgotten Man!

• • • •

PROBABLY ADDING, "THAT'S ENOUGH, NOW!"

Vesuvius began erupting in a big way the other day but promptly changed its mind at a disapproving glance from Mussolini.

Caustic crack at a Democratic chieftain: "Aw, go hire a Nourmahal!"

WITH CHEERS, TOO.

"Hitler Asks for Four Years."—Headline. Some of the old-timers would gladly make it life.

The president of the Encyclopedia Britannica resigned recently and what some people wonder is whether in his letter of resignation he said anything about being at a loss for words.

Fraternity Alumni Association Meets

Senator Reynolds Is Honor Guest at Dinner of Beta Theta Pi.

The monthly dinner meeting of the Beta Theta Pi Alumni Association of Washington was held last night at the Cosmos Club with Senator Robert R. Reynolds, of North Carolina as guest of honor.

Senator Reynolds is a graduate of the University of North Carolina and a member of the fraternity. An invitation to the dinner was sent to his son, who is also a member of Beta Theta Pi Fraternity, and who is attending the University of North Carolina.

Among others attending the meeting were Robert H. Frazier, of Greensboro, N. C.; Dr. Thomas S. Barclay, Brookings Institution; Chester H. Warrington, president of the Beta Theta Pi Alumni Association of Washington; Dr. Stanley K. Hornbeck, Col. Thomas M. Spaulding, John Marshall, James Maxwell Fassett, Dr. George M. Churchill, Dr. C. W. Warburton, Raymond C. Mackay, McFall Kerbey, Dr. James G. McKay, Maj. S. Glenn Brown and Maj. Frederic A. Price.

Dr. Walsh Will Speak Tonight on Communism

Dr. Edmund A. Walsh, vice president of Georgetown University and regent of its School of Foreign Service, will give the first of a series of ten public lectures on "The Evolution of Communism" tonight at 8:30 o'clock in Gaston Hall, at Georgetown.

This is the tenth year of Dr. Walsh's public lectures on affairs growing out of the Russian Revolution and policies of the Soviet government. He is one of the leading opponents of recognition of the Russian State. The final two lectures in the series will deal with the problems which have caused America to withhold recognition. Dr. Walsh will deal with "Classical Communism."

Woman Burned by Accident.

Mrs. Nellie Goforth, 41, 616 Tenth street northeast, suffered second-degree burns to her back, chest and arms yesterday afternoon when her dress brushed against a gas heater and caught fire while she was scrubbing the floor. She was treated at Emergency Hospital.

REMOVAL REVIEW WON BY WAMPLER; RELEASED ON BOND

Plea Granted by Court After Turnage Orders Him to Go to Baltimore.

Ordered removed to Baltimore for trial "forthwith" on an indictment charging him with evading income tax payments in 1930 and 1931, T. Morris Wampler, attorney, later yesterday was released from technical custody after he obtained from Justice Joseph W. Cox a writ of habeas corpus directing that he be immediately produced in court.

Justice Cox also directed that, pending a formal hearing, Wampler should be released on a $10,000 bond, which was furnished by Milton S. Kronheim, a professional bondsman. Incidentally, by a peculiar twist in the District laws, Acting Coroner A. Magruder Macdonald was the only person who could legally serve the writ on the deputy marshal who had Wampler in his custody. Under the law, the coroner is the only officer empowered to remove a person from the custody of the U. S. marshal.

Returnable February 23.

The writ, by direction of Justice Cox, is returnable in District Supreme Court on February 23, at which time Wampler, through his attorney, William E. Leahy, will be given a review of United States Commissioner Turnage's order returned yesterday requiring him to go to Baltimore.

Wampler charged that the Baltimore grand jury that indicted him did not have jurisdiction, inasmuch as the crime, if any, was committed here and not in Maryland.

Jurisdiction Challenged.

At the hearing before Mr. Turnage, Leahy challenged the jurisdiction of the Baltimore court and he also said that if any crime was committed, it was done here, where the income tax return was made and sworn to, and then mailed to Maryland.

Office employes of Wampler declared he had nothing to do with the making up of the disputed returns. They said the entire job was done by certified public accountants, to whom Wampler had turned over all his accounts. Thirty character witnesses were refused permission to testify because the commissioner held that their testimony could not shed any light on the jurisdiction of his office to order the removal.

Month's Delay Forecast In Gas Value Hearings

The scheduled public hearing on the valuation of properties of the Washington and Georgetown Gas Light companies and their Montgomery County subsidiaries was in effect postponed a month yesterday by the Public Utilities Commission.

While the hearing will open on February 27, as previously announced, it will be adjourned probably for a month, or until March 27, after some preliminary evidence is offered. The reason for the delay is attributed to the failure of the gas companies to complete their case.

Mechanic Injured In Double Mishap

Torch Spark Flies in Eye and He Staggers Into Red Hot Rod.

Staggering in pain after a spark from the acetylene torch with which he was working flew into his eye, Maurice Minch, 29, Capitol Heights, Md., an employe of the DuPont Auto Works, 2130 L street northwest, was seriously injured yesterday afternoon when he fell against a red-hot rod.

His abdomen was penetrated and an immediate operation was performed at Emergency Hospital. It was feared that a piece of the rod had broken off, but the operation failed to disclose any slivers.

His condition was reported serious at the hospital last night.

Frank E. Cunningham Is Indigestion Victim

Seized with an attack of indigestion while eating lunch in a restaurant near the courthouse, Frank E. Cunningham, veteran clerk of the District Supreme Court, was in an undetermined condition last night at Emergency Hospital.

This group will present "A Family Affair" tonight in the Grace Church parish hall, Ninth and D streets southwest. Seated, left to right, Margaret Commick, Carolyn B. Samaha and Elizabeth Abendschein. Standing, left to right, Jack Sprouse, R. G. Klotz and C. W. Walcott.

HEADLEY SUGGESTS CHANGING PRECINCT

Report to Police Head Says Old Fourth Should Be Restored.

Restoration of the old Fourth Police Precinct, now consolidated with the Fifth, was recommended in a report to the superintendent of police by Inspector A. J. Headley, published hearings of the House District appropriations subcommittee disclosed yesterday.

The investigation and report by Inspector Headley followed a petition circulated by residents of Southwest Washington, who do not believe they are getting adequate police protection. The report was ordered printed in the published hearings by Chairman Clarence Cannon of the House committee.

Inspector Headley brought out that the present Fourth Precinct has a population of 66,414, as compared with 23,965 in the old Fourth Precinct. He said he believes this is "a considerable responsibility for one captain to assume."

"I believe the cost of restoring No. 4 Precinct would be small, as all the wires are intact in the basement, and the largest item would be for removal for some of the property in storage," he reported to Maj. Brown.

Representative Cannon questioned the superintendent of police exhaustively as to the need for restoration. The old station house on E street southwest, between Four-and-a-Half and Sixth streets, is now being used for storage.

Hunter, War Airman, Placed in Walter Reed

Capt. Frank O'D. Hunter, famous war-time ace of the Army Air Corps, who was severely injured in the crash of a test plane at Wright Field, Dayton, Ohio, last month, has been brought to Walter Reed Hospital for treatment.

The officer, who survived the accident, which took the life of Capt. Hugh Elmendorf, has a fractured vertebra as well as other injuries. He is encased in a plaster cast and has not been allowed to see visitors. It is believed he is out of danger, but that it will be some time before he is able to resume his duties.

TRAFFIC POLICEMAN HURT AS CARS CRASH

Driver of One Arrested When Gosnell Is Hit Near White House.

James Gosnell, 26-year-old traffic policeman of 321 E street southeast, was in a serious condition at Emergency Hospital last night from injuries incurred when he was struck by one of two cars that collided at Pennsylvania and East Executive avenues yesterday afternoon.

The policeman was directing traffic at the intersection when a roadster driven by John P. Peters, 40, of Vienna, Va., collided with a taxicab operated by Ray A. Shaw, of 4815 Foote street northeast. The impact caused Peter's car to careen into Gosnell, knocking him to the asphalt, according to Lieut. H. W. Lineberger, of the Traffic Bureau, who investigated.

Peters was arrested and charged with reckless driving and having bad brakes. He was released on $600 bond for appearance in Police Court.

At the hospital, Gosnell was said to be suffering from injuries to his head and legs and may have a fractured skull.

Ivan W. Baily, 28, of 2621 Seventeenth street northeast, was still in a critical condition at Emergency Hospital last night with possible internal injuries, fractured skull and lacerated face suffered Wednesday night when his automobile skidded near Thirty-sixth street and Connecticut avenue northwest, ran through a barricade, hit a steam shovel and finally catapulted across the street onto an apartment house lawn.

Mrs. William A. Slade Heads Y. W. C. A. Board

Mrs. William Adams Slade was elected president of the board of directors of the Young Women's Christian Association yesterday.

Other officers named were Mrs. Fred E. Wright and Mrs. Luke I. Wilson, vice presidents; Miss Louise Davidson, recording secretary; Miss Margaret Fox, treasurer, and Miss Mary Jane Winfree, assistant treasurer.

Legion Chief Indorsed For District Attorney

Commander Norman B. Landrau, of the District Department of the American Legion, was indorsed for United States attorney for the District of Columbia last night by the Sergt. Jasper Post, No. 13, American Legion.

Col. John Thomas Taylor, vice chairman of the national legislative committee of the Legion, addressed the meeting.

Princess' Apartment Entered; Loss Is $432

Princess Elaine von der Lippe-Lipski reported to police yesterday afternoon that an apartment she has rented at 11 R street northwest had been entered and laces and linens valued at $432 stolen.

She discovered the theft upon her return from New York, where she had been for some time.

TRAFFIC TOLL

TO DATE.

Stop signs are placed at various intersections to allow traffic an uninterrupted course on certain highways and busy streets and as a preventive of accidents.

When a motorist approaches one of these signs he is required to bring his car to a complete stop, not just slow up and then go tearing through the intersection. If there are any illiterate persons driving autos who cannot read the word "stop," and there seem to be some, they have no right to be at the wheel of a car.

The accident figures are:

	1932	1933
Deaths	12	6
Injuries	403	391
Accidents	870	942

LABOR DISPUTANTS LOOK TO TREASURY IN MALL IMPASSE

U. S. Projects at Standstill Because of Quarrel Over $8 Scale.

With Federal building activities in the Mall at a practical impasse, all eyes turned today toward Treasury Department officials for a decision in the wage dispute between subcontractors and carpenters.

Both sides last night remained determined in their stands. The carpenters were willing to be "locked out" until the $11 wage is paid, while the subcontractors were firm that $8 is the prevailing wage.

That Secretary of Labor Doak must shortly referee the controversy and announce what the prevailing wage is was the consensus of all concerned in the dispute.

Appeal to Maj. Heath.

The carpenters officially have asked Maj. Ferry K. Heath, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, who is the contracting officer for the Government, to adjudicate the matter under the Bacon-Davis law.

No intimation was forthcoming from Maj. Heath last night, but it generally was expected that the matter shortly would be in the hands of the Labor Department.

David Lynn, architect of the Capitol, is contracting officer for the addition to the Library of Congress, the other projects affected. He had not been approached by either side early last night.

Unions Hold Conferences.

What the carpenters termed a lockout took place yesterday morning at 7:30 o'clock. Carpenters reported for work, but refused to go ahead after being informed that they would be paid at the rate of $8 a day instead of $11.

On most of the projects work went ahead haltingly, but it was indicated that by Saturday little will be left to do. The duties of the carpenters dovetail closely with the general structural scheme.

It was too cold yesterday for pouring concrete into the forms constructed by the carpenters, and this factor made it possible for work to continue a short while further without carpenter work.

Contractors held a long meeting yesterday, but no statement was forthcoming. Carpenters and other union labor groups also held long conferences during the day.

United Food Exposition Opens Tomorrow Night

With the construction of display booths and exhibition stands virtually completed, exhibitors participating in the second annual United Food Stores Expositions began moving into their assigned places in the Washington Auditorium yesterday, in readiness for the grand opening tomorrow night.

Between 75 and 100 exhibitors, representing scores of Washington manufactures, in addition to out-of-town products, will take part in the diversified display of food products, which will continue at the auditorium all next week.

Morris L. Kraft is chairman and Morris Vigderhouse, vice chairman, of the show committee.

Bad Money Maker Faces Court Today

Lester Lillie, Who Shot 2 Policemen, Will Answer Variety of Charges.

Lester L. Lillie, confessed counterfeiter, will be arraigned today before United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage on counterfeiting charges and will then be arraigned in Police Court on charges of assaulting two policemen with intent to kill.

Lillie, asserted Monday night after he had tried to shoot his way from the custody of two policemen who had arrested him for trying to pass one of his bogus notes, faces more than 45 years in prison because of his counterfeiting activities. He may also get more time for shooting the policemen.

Lillie shot Patrolman A. L. Lay and Arthur Gernhofer when they arrested his near Eighteenth street and Columbia road. Both are recovering from their wounds.

Camp Leader Course Is Opened at G. W. U.

A course in camp leadership, designed to train leaders in the camping movement, opened last night at George Washington University, with a lecture by J. Milnor Dorey, noted educator, on "What Can Camp Contribute to Progressive Education?"

The course for both men and women is conducted in cooperation with the Council of Social Agencies of Washington. The committee in charge of the program consists of Miss Ruth H. Atwell, associate professor, director of department of physical education for women, George Washington University; W. L. Leitch, director of camping, Boy Scouts of America; Dr. Marie M. Ready, associate specialist in recreation, Office of Education, United States Department of the Interior.

Dances Will Be Staged At Mt. Alto Hospital

A dance review will be staged at Mount Alto Hospital Wednesday for the entertainment of veterans there and with inmates of the Industrial Home School as special guests by Miss Anna T. Mitchell, local dancing instructor.

The show will be repeated next month at St. Elizabeths Hospital. Miss Mitchell is leaving for New York City today to gather data for the affair.

John Burroughs P.-T.A. Observes Founder's Day

Founder's Day of the John Burroughs Parent-Teacher Association was celebrated last night in the auditorium of John Burroughs School.

An entertainment program was presented by pupils of the second grade under the direction of Mrs. F. B. Lawson. Seldon M. Ely spoke on the organization's activities and musical selections were rendered by Mrs. Ernest Haynes.

Zoo Robs Nest of Python And Puts Eggs in Incubator

Keeper Roy Jennifer, of the Zoo's reptile house, has been robbing a snake's nest. The eggs are those of the reticulated python and they are to be hatched in the basket of moist earth.

Keepers Feared Reptile's Inability to Hatch Them.

Thinking that the reticulated python at the Zoo would perhaps be a poor mother, Keeper Roy Jennifer will attempt to hatch her eggs in a makeshift incubator—a basket of moist earth.

The lady python, one of the largest in the reptile house, had difficulty in coiling her long body around the fourteen eggs that she laid, so it was decided to take them from her.

The process of robbing her nest did not meet her approval and required much patience on the part of Keeper Jennifer.

If the artificial incubation works, there will be young pythons in about 60 days. The time of incubation has been learned from python births at other zoos, none having been hatched here before.

The incubator will be kept at a temperature of 70 degrees. This temperature was recorded when a thermometer was placed between the coils of the African python last summer when it was unsuccessfully trying to hatch some eggs.

BRICK SOCIETY RAPS GOVERNMENT POLICY

Federal Competition Is Hurting Industry, National Association Charges.

Basing his speech on a list of more than 200 items of Government manufactured products, Rufus S. Tilden, manager of the New York and New Jersey Common Brick Association, bitterly attacked Government competition with established industry at a meeting yesterday of the Brick Manufacturers' Association of America at the Shoreham Hotel.

Reciting instances of Government competition, Mr. Tilden said, "I believe that industries of the country are suffering from a vast amount of competition by Government."

While speaking on the activities of Government which directly harms industry, Mr. Tilden charged that the Interstate Commerce Commission is one of the most outstanding examples of Government regulating industry.

During a business session in the morning the organization reelected its present officers for 1933. They are:

William Schlake, Illinois Brick Co., Chicago, president; W. G. Long, New England Brick Co., Boston, vice president; E. S. Barkwill, Cleveland Builders Supply Co., Cleveland, treasurer; Ralph P. Stoddard, of Cleveland, secretary.

The association voted to change the name of the organizations from the Common Brick Manufacturers Association of America to the Brick Manufacturers Association of America.

Other persons who spoke at the closing session of the convention yesterday were Charles F. Clippert, of Detroit; Col. Nelson B. Gaskill, of Washington; Joseph Ulmer, Department of Commerce; Jordan A. Pugh, manager of the Washington office of the association; Edward Harding, general manager of Associated General Contractors; and E. T. Mankin, of Richmond, Va.

CHAMBER SPEAKERS TALK ON INSURANCE

Compensation Is Discussed in Monthly Meeting at Mayflower.

A lively debate on the question of workmen's compensation insurance and speeches on the inaugural and the current political situation took place at the monthly meeting of the Washington Chamber of Commerce last night at the Mayflower Hotel.

The debate on compensation insurance was precipitated by a report of the law and legislation committee of the chamber recommending an increase in the rates.

This was objected to by W. C. Sullivan, a lawyer, who succeeded in having an amendment adopted providing for no action on the matter until the committee felt an increase was thoroughly justified. The report was presented by Dr. George C. Havenner, chairman of the committee.

The membership ratified the opposition of the directors to taxi dance halls in the District and urged the commissioners to do away with them. Liability insurance for taxicab drivers was urged. The chamber voted to hold an industrial exposition this year as in the past.

Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson, chairman of the inaugural committee, in discussing the celebration, said that although it will not be a flamboyant one, that it will be memorable. More covered grandstands have been erected than for any other inaugural because of the recent behavior of the groundhog, he announced.

Frederic William Wile, in a review of the political situation, named those whom he believes will compose the Cabinet of the new administration.

Thomas P. Littlepage, president of the organization, presided. Edwin Steffe, Atwater Kent radio audition winner, rendered songs to the accompaniment of George Wilson.

FAMOUS UNITS WIN PARADE PLACES IN INAUGURAL MARCH

Ferko Band of Philadelphia Mummers Is Among Leading Groups.

Three bands and 18 organizations and individual participants in the inaugural parade have been added to that feature of the Roosevelt inaugural, according to the inaugural parade committee, Col. E. M. Watson, chairman.

Two notable additions are the Metro-Goldyn-Mayer float and the Ferko Instrument String Band which will accompany the John O'Donnell Marching Club of Philadelphia. The movie float, as second to be given a place in the parade, will be a flower-bedecked automobile train carrying as passengers another delegation of Hollywood stars. The Warner Brothers float had been entered previously. The Ferko Band has for many years been a feature of the Mummers' parade in Philadelphia. The costumes of this organization alone cost $25,000 and as a participant in the Philadelphia parade the band has won first prize for the last four years.

Recently Added Features.

The bands, organizations and floats which have been added within the past few days are the Lockland County Democratic Band, Nyack, N. Y.; Boy Scouts Band of Manchester, Ga.; Central High School Band, of Charlotte, N. C.; Pythians of Domain of New York; League of American Pen Women, of Washington, D. C.; Toby Cook, who will ride his pony all the way to Washington from Chula, Ga.; Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Movie float; Seventh Ward Democratic Club of Bal more, Md.; Stanley T. Green, boy mounted, Leesburg, Va.; Progressive League of Youngstown, Ohio; Columbia Lodge No. 174, Mechanics Union, Hyattsville, Md.; miniature "Constitution," with sixteen Sea Scouts; Democratic Club of Birmingham, Ala.; Thomas J. Minnick Democratic Marching Club of Philadelphia, Pa.; United Daughters of the Confederacy, Washington; Veterans of Foreign Wars, Washington; Improved Order of Red Men and Degree of Pocahontas, Washington; Spanish War Veterans, Washington; National Indian War Veterans, Washington, and Disabled War Veterans, Washington.

Tammany Hall, braves, silk hats and all, will take part in the parade, according to the inaugural parade committee. The Tammany delegation, as representatives of the oldest political organization in the United States, will, in all probability, be awarded the place of honor at the head of the fourth division in a letter received by the parade committee from Edward J. McCullen, secretary, Tammany Hall.

Traffic Directors Named.

Mrs. John Allan Dougherty, chairman of the inaugural ball committee, announced that a civilian committee of traffic, of which William A. Roberts, assistant corporation counsel, is chairman, and Col. Edward Clifford, vice chairman, had been appointed to cooperate with Maj. E. W. Brown, superintendent of police; Capt. Lamb, inspector in charge of traffic; William A. Van Duzer, director of traffic, in perfecting traffic plans for the night of March 4, when thousands of people will be attending the inaugural ball at the Washington Auditorium.

The civilian members consist of E. D. Merrill, president Washington Rapid Transit Co.; M. O. Eldridge, assistant director of traffic; James L. Martin, Public Utilities Commission; Maj. Wallace Streeter, Bureau of Internal Revenue; Roland Dyer, Bureau of Internal Revenue, and Howard S. LeRoy.

Accident Verdict In Infant's Death

Baby Suffocated in Bed With Woman Saving It From Cold.

Death by accidental suffocation was the verdict of Deputy Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald last night, after an investigation into circumstances surrounding the death of a 2-year-old infant at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Zollinhofer, 2612 Thirty-third street southeast.

The infant, Edward Hudgins, was suffocated when Mrs. Zollinhofer took him into her bed early yesterday, as protection against the severe cold. He was the son of Alice Hudgins, 16, of Seat Pleasant, Md., who is understood to have paid Mrs. Zollinhofer for the child's care.

Juvenile Court records show the baby's father is Edward Grinder, 32-year-old night watchman, who, on December 15 was ordered to contribute $3 a week toward its support.

Dr. William C. Fowler, District health officer, yesterday indicated he would investigate the operation of a so-called "baby farm" by Mrs. Zollinhofer. She tends small children at her home in an effort to meet household expenses. She is a widow and mother of seven children. A permit must be obtained for the operation of such a nursery, Dr. Fowler explained.

Admiral Robert Coontz To Be Veterans' Guest

Admiral Robert E. Coontz, national commander, and Mrs. Consuelo Peart De Coe, national auxiliary president, will be the guests of honor of the District Department of the Veterans of Foreign Wars at a testimonial dinner tomorrow night at the Wardman Park Hotel.

Distinguished guests invited include all members of Congress who served in the armed forces of the United States, with Representative William P. Connery, jr., of Massachusetts, as master of ceremonies. Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, Brig. Gen. George S. Simonds, commandant of the Army War College; Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of Navy operations; Admiral H. G. Hamlet, commandant of the Coast Guard, and former Senator Rice Means, a past national commander of the V. F. W., will speak.

Exhibition Ride Today.

The Secretary of War, Patrick J. Hurley, will be guest of honor at the exhibition ride at Fort Myer this afternoon. It was announced yesterday that no more tickets will be available for the remaining rides of the season as all reservations have been taken up.
